GRUNDY, BROWN LOOM AHEAD IN PRIMARY TODAY

Upsets, However, Called More Than Probable in Pennsylvania.

PINCHOT MAY PROVE MIRACLE IN VOTING

Davis' Ability to Hold Labor Support Is Doubtful.

WET TICKET ADDS UNCERTAIN FACTOR

Organization of Incumbent Senator Is Apparently of Great Strength.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 19.—Impartial observers seem to be of one accord that anything may happen in tomorrow's great clashing of the political powers in this State and there is a general reluctance to make definite predictions, but it does look as though it will be Grundy or Brown, with perhaps Pinchot in the place of the latter.

Pinchot admittedly may prove to be the miracle man, but when all is said and done, it is more likely that he will go down before the organization strength of Brown. Inasmuch as it is this same organization that is behind Davis, it would seem to follow that he, too, would win.

But the very fact that Pinchot is pressing Brown so hard in the gubernatorial fight has made this organization lose its enthusiasm for Mr. Davis, to express it mildly, and from the beginning it is questionable as to whether Grundy has not an organization of his own just as effective as that built on State patronage. Grundy's organization, knitted together for this very fight and with units in every county in the State, is a powerful thing; it is the organization of the financial interests which heretofore have not let such groups as organized labor, the Moose or State patronage holders worry them.

Formidable Wet Ticket.

What will write the final result in favor of Grundy and possibly for Pinchot, however, is the very formidable wet ticket, composed of T. W. Phillips for governor and Prof. Francis H. Bohlen for senator.

It is certainly this ticket which one hears discussed on the streets and in the Republican clubs. It is not one of those inchoate things of the past. It has no particular organization behind it, hardly anything but the two candidates and a headquarters here in Philadelphia, presided over by Senator Reed's son-in-law, Charles W. Denby, jr., and of whom much will be heard in Pennsylvania politics after this campaign.

The ticket seems to have nothing but a cause, but in such centers as Pittsburgh and Philadelphia one gets the impression that it is being looked upon as a great crusade. No one expects this ticket to win but the fact that a vote for it will be a "vote thrown away," as has been considered of these minority movements heretofore, is not having any influence this time. One is impressed by the number of avowals of support for this ticket which he hears around such Republican citadels as the Union League, where Republicanism is usually taken so seriously that you would expect all interest to center on Grundy and Pinchot as against Davis and Brown.

Aid for Drys Seen.

It is a fact, too, that the vote for this wet ticket will work toward the success of two drys. Grundy has taken the dry side and Pinchot always has been a dry, a most definite, positive one. Should enough wet strength develop to bring about Brown's defeat in the gubernatorial race it would be a right good joke on the drys because Brown has at least promised a referendum and to abide by its result.

Davis is to all intents and purposes a dry, although some of his friends try to pass out the word that he is "all right."

It is this difference between him and Brown on the prohibition question that is one of the reasons he will not hold as much of the State organization strength as Brown, this and the fact that it is the gubernatorial race only that the organization is seriously interested in.

The passing around of the "all right" word for Davis, indeed, will serve only to help him hold those coal miners and his fellow Moose who want to vote for him because of personal considerations.

Labor Vote Appears Doubtful.

Although the State organized labor heads have indorsed Davis it is doubtful if he will hold the rank and file of this vote because as the race has developed it has appeared as not an issue between him and

2,000 ARE HOMELESS IN ARKANSAS FLOODS

Box Cars and Tents Used to Shelter Hundreds Who Fled Waters.

TRUNK ROADS BLOCKED

Little Rock, Ark., May 19 (A.P.).—Arkansas looked tonight upon the latest of its many flood scenes to see hundreds of persons sheltered in box cars, tents and private homes as swollen streams of south Arkansas continued to take an enormous toll of property.

Added to flood waters from torrential rains of the past few days was the toll of windstorms, both of life and property. Elaine, in eastern Arkansas, was the scene of a tornado yesterday which killed sixteen Negro farm workers. They were buried today on their plantation homes. Nearly 50 others were in hospitals at Helena.

An estimated 2,000 persons were sheltered in tents and private homes at Smackover after being forced to vacate their romes as flood waters of Smackover Creek spread over 50 square miles. A few miles farther east, at Calion, on the Ouachita River, a number of families abandoned their homes to seek shelter in box cars.

In the vicinity of Fulton, on the Red River, in southwest Arkansas, hundreds of others had abandoned homes in lowlands as backwater crept around ends of levees. No levee breaks had been reported, but continued rises which are forecast, may test the dykes.

Highways over south Arkansas were inundated. More than a score of trunk roads were closed today, including the transcontinental routes between Memphis and Little Rock and between here and Texarkana. A detour has been provided between here and Memphis.

Damage in the Smackover and Calion district today was estimated by railroad officials at $1,000,000. A half million dollars damage was the estimate at Elaine and vicinity, while Senator Allen States a Good Campaign Would End Controversies.

Profession Declared Best Opportunity Open to Nation's Youth.

The advantages of advertising as a profession to be followed by the youth of America were reviewed at the opening session of the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America at the Willard yesterday.

At a national conference on training for advertising it was brought out that a recent survey of conditions in Detroit disclosed that the average salary of advertising men in that city is $6,767 per year, while the average age of 1,100 advertising men there is 33.9 years.

Of these only 58 per cent have any college education, and only 35 per cent are college graduates. The point was made that "there is no relation between salary and education" in the advertising profession; that men with little education apparently have equal opportunities with those who hold diplomas.

"More men are earning $5,000 per year or more in the advertising field within ten years after leaving college than in any other line of endeavor," it was disclosed.

Reports of a survey of educational facilities were made which showed that there are now at least 221 institutions offering courses in advertising in this country, including private colleges and universities, State universities and Y. M. C. A. commercial colleges.

Home-study courses, however, appear to be "conspicuous by their absence," although it was pointed out that probably there are more such courses in existence than were shown in replies sent in to a questionnaire distributed recently by the federation.

Speaking at a luncheon at the Willard yesterday noon, Senator Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, declared: "If the United States spent 10 per cent of the money expended for Volstead enforcement on a judicious advertising campaign, there would be no need for prohibition enforcement."

He was addressing more than 1,000 persons assembled in the ballroom,

GRAF REACHES SPAIN DURING HEAT WAVE

Craft to Leave at Dawn for 5,000-Mile Hop Over Atlantic Ocean.

MUCH MAIL IS TAKEN ON

Seville Spain, May 19 (A.P.).—The Graf Zeppelin rode peacefully at anchor here tonight at the end of the first leg of her voyage from Friedrichshafen, Germany, across the equator to South and North America.

Twenty-four hours from her starting point the giant of the air had experienced as her first difficulty a heat wave that enveloped Spain avoiding which she had been flown off her course two hours, adding the African continent to her journey

The Graf, taking the historic route of many of the early Spanish "conquistadores" to South America, will leave Seville at 7:15 a. m. (2:15 a. m. E. S. T.) tomorrow.

The Graf nosed up to her mast at La Tablada Airport, her own specially constructed anchorage, at 5:40 p. m. (12:40 E. S. T.). Her flying time was about 25 hours and 20 minutes. She left Friedrichshafen at 5:18 p. m., central European time (11:18 a. m., E. S. T.), on Sunday. Her total time in the air included several hours during midday, when she cruised about over northern Africa outmaneuvering the heat wave.

When her passengers and officers had been disembarked and the former had gone to hotels, thousands in the vast throng that greeted the airship remained to witness the preparations for her resumption of the trip shortly after dawn tomorrow.

On the ground was enacted a scene of the greatest activity as crewmen and army troops perspired with postoffice employes in the titanic task of loading and unloading mail and putting on board stores of various kinds, including ice, water and fresh fruits.

The Graf's larder was well stocked when she left Germany, so the stewards devoted themselves particularly

SECRET FILES ON TREATY TO BE DEMANDED

Contents of Diplomatic Notes Sought by Johnson.

CONFIDENTIAL DATA REVEALED BY JONES

ROBINSON QUESTIONS BRISTOL'S OPINIONS

Admiral Tells Arkansan He Feels Obligated to Give Committee Aid.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Divulgence of highly confidential information respecting the London naval treaty and prospects of disclosing secret corerspondence from the British government relative to reducing the cruiser strength of the United States Navy featured yesterday's hearing before the Senate foreign relations committee. Senator Hale continued hearings of the naval affairs committee during the morning and afternoon.

Senator Hiram Johnson obtained from Admiral Hilary P. Jones the recommendations he had made to the American delegation on February 5 last respecting the tentative American program.

This report, which was suppressed at the time and has been withheld from the public shows that the Naval War College, as well as the general board, regarded the national defense jeopardized by surrender of the 8-inch-gun cruiser program, and recommends that the tentative program be not adopted because of its adverse effect on American naval strength and its beneficial effect on the naval strength of Great Britain.

Debate on Secret Files.

Senator Johnson came within an eyelash of getting into the record voluminous secret correspondence between the British government and the State Department relative to American cruisers, but timely intervention of Senators Swanson, Robinson and Walsh, of Montana, checked the plan. Senator Johnson is inclined to press for the right to examine this secret data in order that the American people may intelligently understand the background which caused the general board, under diplomatic pressure, to sugegst 21 cruisers of 10,000 tons and 8-inch guns as the minimum of such cruiser strength to be considered in any compromise proposal.

Senator Reed also brought a confidential document into play by submitting a memorandum which Admiral Jones had written on June 18 last in connection with Anglo-American yardstick discussions.

Admiral Jones was called to the stand to answer questions about the letter. At that time the British were endeavoring to prove that a large number of 6-inch gun cruisers would be equivalent to a small number of 8-inch gun cruisers and that the yardstick rule should be so applied as to give the British many more 6-

SENATE SURRENDERS TO HOUSE IN VOTE ON TARIFF AMENDMENTS

Hastings Says Press Causes G. O. P. Bolt

Standpat Republican Has No Publicity Complex, Senator Avers.

The way of the standpat Republican is hard, while that of the party bolter is strewn with roses. And for this the country has the newspapers to thank.

Such was the view in effect expressed by Senator Daniel O. Hastings, senior Delaware senator and self-acknowledged conservative Republican, at a meeting of the Delaware State Society last night at the Thomas Circle Club.

"I regret to say that nowadays a man to be distinctive has to stand against the will of the majority," he said. "And this is particularly true on Capitol Hill. For instance, the President entertains the irregulars at the White House to get them to change their vote, while conservative Republicans like my colleague and myself have to seek entertainment with our State societies.

The senator hastily added that he did not wish to be a guest at the White House on any such basis. He would rather, he made it clear, be a regular and never be entertained by the President than be an irregular in order to get an invitation.

Party bolters refuse to keep in line, the Delaware senator asserted, because "they want big headlines in the newspapers." The newspapers," he added, "and I mean all of them, are guilty of the same things these irregulars are. They are after the unusual. I am not sure but that they are responsible for this whole business of making heroes out of the men who stand in the minority."

SENATOR D. O. HASTINGS.

Senator Hastings began his remarks by pointing out that Delaware is not as progressive as many States in the Union. She is still made up of "honest, religious and law-abiding citizens," he said. "And I thank God she is conservative."

He concluded by voicing the opinion that President Hoover isn't "nearly as popular as he was a year ago" because of the public attitude to criticize all public officials before they have an opportunity to prove their worth.

"He ought to be given a goold old American chance," he declared, "before he is condemned."

In the end, he asserted, the American people always "do the right thing" because most citizens are sober minded and interested in the wel-

Conferees Released of Debenture, Flexible Item Pledges.

CURTIS DISSOLVES TIE ON LATTER ISSUE

Smoot Arranges Parley for Today as Result Is Announced.

FINAL ACTION SEEN ON BILL THIS WEEK

Compromise Expected on Clause Giving Hoover Rate Authority.

(Associated Press.)

With the life of the tariff bill at stake, Vice President Curtis broke a tie in the Senate yesterday and thereby assured further conferences with the House looking to final agreement on the Hawley-Smoot measure.

By two narrow decisions, the Senate agreed to relieve its conferees of pledges binding them to the export debenture and legislative flexible tariff amendments put into the bill by Democrats and Republican independents over protest of President Hoover.

The vote was 43 to 41 to free conferees on the debenture provision, and 42 to 42 on the flexible clause taking away presidential authority to change customs duties. On the latter roll call, Vice President Curtis announced himself with the Republican forces amid applause from the majority side.

Conference Called for Today.

Immediately after the votes, Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, chairman of the Senate conference committee, called a conference with House managers for this afternoon. Final action on the tariff bill some time this week is expected.

With Senate conferees relieved of their pledges on the debenture and flexible provisions, it is predicted that the former will be abandoned and a compromise worked out on the flexible amendment which would leave the President in the picture.

There were some indications last night, however, that House conferees might insist on the House flexible provision which not only retains presidential authority to change rates, but broadens existing law to permit the tariff commission, on whose reports the Executive acts, to equalize differences in competitive conditions. The present law is based on the formula of equalizing differences in cost of production.

During yesterday's debate, Republican leaders contended that unless conferees were given a free hand on the two propositions, the tariff bill would die in conference. They based this argument on the House rejection of both proposals several weeks ago and upon refusal of House conferees further to negotiate with the Senate group until the Senate expressed itself on the issues.

Contention of Independents.

Republican Independents and Democrats argued the Senate conferees had made no attempt even to confer on disputed points and had construed informal pledges, previously given, too strictly.

Thirty-seven Republicans and 6 Democrats voted to divorce conferees from their promises on the debenture, while 28 Democrats, 12 Republicans and the 1 Farmer-Labor senator, Shipstead, Minnesota, opposed release.

Two Democrats, Mr. Broussard, Louisiana, and Mr. Trammell, Florida, and one Republican, Thomas, Idaho, who voted on October 19 last for debenture, when the decision was favorable to the debenturites 42 to 34, cast their ballots yesterday for freeing the conferees' hands on the proposition.

BAKER CASE SANITY HEARING DUE TODAY

Request Made for Board to Test Mentality of Man Held as Slayer.

STORY STILL BAFFLING

Army officials today will designate a medical board to test the mentality of Private Harold L. Brewster, whose admissions of the killing of Mary Baker is viewed askance by authorities.

Capt. A. R. Bolling, Brewster's commanding officer, yesterday forwarded the request for the board to Brig. Gen. H. O. Williams, commanding officer of the Sixteenth Brigade, to which Brewster is attached.

Examination of Brewster will likely be made today, according to Capt. Bolling, in the barracks of Headquarters Company at Eighteenth and C streets northwest.

While police authorities are inclined to be skeptical of the authenticity of the confession, Department of Justice agents are enthusiastic over their examination of the soldier.

Hoover Today to Witness Mimic Battle by U. S. Fleet

60 Fighting Vessels, 140 Planes and Dirigible Los Angeles Will Stage Mock Attack After Presidential Review Off Virginia Capes.

Fair weather or foul—and the weather man late last night said it would be "heavy weather"—President Hoover today will review the fighting strength of the United States Navy some 30 miles off the Virginia Capes.

Before the President the combined battle and scouting fleets will pass in columns of ships. One hundred and forty fighting airplanes will zoom overhead, winging their way from two airplane carriers. And the great dirigible Los Angeles will also do her "stuff."

Then, after the 60 ships, manned by 30,000 officers and sailors, have steamed by, with the saluting ships firing the Presidential salute of 21 guns, Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, will radio an order and the ships will engage in a mimic battle.

Today's schedule calls for the President and his party to go aboard the U. S. S. Salt Lake City, one of the new 10,000-ton 8-inch gun cruisers, shortly after 8 o'clock. The Salt Lake City, which will be the reviewing ship, will then steam down Chesapeake Bay and out into the Atlantic Ocean.

At 11 a. m. the battle and scouting fleets, which steamed from New York harbor yesterday after the crews had enjoyed twelve days of shore leave, will rendezvous on the Atlantic drill grounds, 20 to 50 miles off shore.

Admiral Pratt, on board his flagship, the U. S. S. Texas, will flash the command and the review will start. First in line will be the submarines, next the cruiser divisions, destroyeds, the battleship divisions led by the Texas, and last will come the two airplane carriers, loaded with their flocks of pursuit, combat and bombing planes.

Business in Washington

By W. W. EVERETT.

Vice President and Manager, Woodward & Lothrop.

Business since January 1 this year has shown an increase over the same period in 1929, and our present plans provide for a further expansion during the coming fall season.

I do not look for any boom, and it is possible that business this fall may not measure fully up to the abnormal volume of last year, but I believe that it will compare quite favorably with 1928, which may be considered as a stable, normal year.

Our customers at present appear to want quality merchandise at consistent prices. They are not concentrating unduly upon high-priced luxuries, but neither are they centering their attention upon the low-priced groups.

Conditions in Washington now appear quite satisfactory, although reports from other sections indicate that this city may perhaps be a little more favorably situated economically than the rest of the country.

One reason for the stability of Washington's condition is of course, that an appreciable number of Washingtonians are on Government pay rolls so that their employment and incomes are unaffected by business reversals.

But there are also a great many here whose incomes are derived from dividends from stocks. It is important to note that their spending power does not seem to have been affected by recent developments in the stock market or by any sluggishness reported from industrial districts. Very few dividends appear to have been passed, and stockholders seem to be getting their checks as usual.

My opinion is that we are entering upon a period of steady, gradual improvement, which I consider far preferable to any boom or startling rush of business, which generally results in subsequent depression.

Coolidge Repudiates Text Of History Artist Altered

Borglum Revealed as Amender of Former President's Work by Discussion Begun by Writer on George Washington and His Time.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Former President Calvin Coolidge's disinclination to be criticized for the acts of another brought out the fact that his 500-word history of the United States had been altered by Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, who is to cut the history into the granite of Mount Rushmore, South Dakota.

Mr. Borglum, who is chairman of the committee on publicity and design of the mountain memorial, as well as its sculptor and engineer, himself invited Mr. Coolidge to write the tabloid history, the first chapter of which is to be carved beneath the granite portrait of George Washington. Some time ago what was said to be the text of this chapter as Mr. Coolidge wrote it (but was not), was made public.

There was no comment at the time, either by Borglum or by Coolidge. It is not known whether Mr. Coolidge was then aware of the changes and withheld public remark pending discussion of the matter with Borglum, or whether he had not been notified and did not read the published text. But recently something happened which brought the whole affair into the open.

John Corbin, veteran newspaper man and author of a study of Washington, in preparing which he had for four years studied the period of the Declaration and the Constitution, wrote a letter to the New York Times, on which he was formerly an editorial writer, challenging the accuracy of several parts of what he supposed was Coolidge's text.

Borglum took no immediate action, but Mr. Coolidge wrote Corbin that the text as criticized was not his, his original having been altered "without any consent" on his part. A few days later he wrote suggesting that Corbin write another letter to the Times setting forth that the passages criticized were not from the Coolidge pen.

This Corbin did, saying that he had learned "on the very highest authority" that changes had been made in the Coolidge text.

Borglum did not take the matter up directly with Corbin, but gave a statement to the Times, explaining Thirty-seven Republicans, five Democrats combined to release the conferees from the flexible tie before the Vice President joined them. Twenty-nine Democrats, twelve Republicans and Shipstead voted in the negative.

Two Democrats, Mr. Dill, Washington, and Mr. Trammell, Florida, voted with the Republican regulars on the double issue, whereas on October 2 last they were lined up with the coalition forces for the Simmons-Norris flexible provision restoring to Congress the power now vested in the President. The vote then was 47 to 42.

Roll Call to Release.

Yesterday's roll call on the proposal to relieve conferees from pledges to uphold this amendment follows:

For releasing conferees from Democratic flexible provision:

Farmer Labor—Shipstead—1.

Total, 42.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader, argued that unless conferees were given a free hand on the disputed sections "the bill is dead."

Senator Smoot asserted the "future success of the bill would be gravely impaired" by adverse action.

Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, minority leader, and Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, one of the conferees, bore the brunt of the opposition attack, contending that Senate Republican conferees pigeon-holed the two propositions in conference and made no effort to bring the House group around to the Senate's expressed views of last October.

Export Bounty Urged.

Mr. Robinson said the farm marketing act had "not yet proved its effectiveness" and an "export bounty" was needed to help agriculture.

Mr. Harrison construed the protest of more than 1,000 economists against the bill as representing the general public's "indignation."

Asserting that college professors never earned an honest dollar by the sweat of their brows," Senator Shortridge (Republican), California, another conferee on the bill, said some day he would take a day off and express his views on the educator-economists.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, in a formal statement after the Senate votes, said:

Statement by Shouse.

"After Vice President Curtis' vote there can no longer be a pretense of the administration's responsibility for the outrage. Mr. Hoover must answer for it to the people he promised that with him in the White House the banishment of poverty was in sight."

The Vice President's vote, he added, must be accepted as "indicating that President Hoover means to sign the Grundy tariff bill if it comes to him.

"The only thing that can save the United States from the excuseless addition of an average of perhaps $50 for every family is for the Senate to vote the bill down," he said. "In the present state of economic distress, with business in the throes of uncertainty and a terrific unemployment situation the crime of the Grundy tariff is doubly black. It negatives all that has been promised toward restoring our prosperity and ameliorating the miseries due to the panic."

DRY UNIT TRANSFER APPROVED IN HOUSE

Amendments by Senate to Williamson Bill Given Unanimous Vote.

DORAN RETENTION SEEN

(Associated Press.)

Final congressional action on President Hoover's first major proposal to strengthen dry law enforcement was obtained yesterday as the House unanimously agreed to Senate amendments to the Williamson bill authorizing transfer of the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

President Hoover is expected by administration followers to affix his signature as soon as the measure reaches the White House. The transfer is to become efective July 1.

Under the measure, however, the industrial alcohol division and the Narcotic Bureau, which had been coordinated with the Prohibition Bureau, will remain under Treasury jurisdiction. It is understood that Prohibition Commissioner Doran is to remain as head of the industrial alcohol division for a time at least.

The act creates the position of director of prohibition which will be filled through appointment by the Attorney General.

The bill, with several other proposals, was recommended by President Hoover and the law enforcement commission to strengthen prohibition enforcement. All the other measures except one are pending before the Senate and House committees, which have been unable to agree upon them. The House yesterday declined to act on the Christopherson bill to authorize serving subpenas on absentee owners by publication in padlock proceedings.

Under the Williamson measure, all the personnel of the Treasury connected with prohibition enforcement and equipment is to be placed at the disposal of the Justice Department. The Attorney General and the Secretary of the Treasury will be authorized jointly to draft regulations under which industrial alcohol permits are to be issued.

One of the most important Senate amendments agreed to would authorize use or sale by the Justice Department of any vessel or vehicle seized in violation of the prohibition act.

HOOVER TO WITNESS FLEET'S MANEUVERS

In the great fighting armada, the greatest concentration of United States men of war since President Coolidge reviewed the combined fleets at the same plac ein 1927, will be 9 battleships, 9 cruisers, 30 destroyers, 2 aircraft carriers with their 140 planes on board, 2 submarines and the dirigible Los Angeles.

The review will be the first time since the war that a President has watched the fleet in battle maneuvers.

Immediately after the review Admiral Pratt will flash a "battle order." The great ships of the line will steam two miles from the Salt Lake City, the destroyers and the cruisers, then some five miles away, will turn about and dash upon the battleships in attack formation. Airplanes will be loosed from the carriers Saratoga and Lexington, and a battle royal will be staged. The orders call for simulated air attacks to be launched against the President's ship.

As a feature of the maneuvers, Lieut. Comdr. Charles A. Nicholson will attempt a novel flight in taking off in a plane from the deck of the ariplane carrier Lexington to make a landing at the dirigible Los Angeles, delivering a message and returning to the Lexington.

Not only will President Hoover and the Navy people, with the comparative handfull of civilian observers on the spot, be able to follow the great naval display, but because of Nation-wide radio hookups the people in the cities and on the farms will "watch" the review and the sea fight.

Today's voyage on the Salt Lake City,—and almost 100 miles of sea travel are expected to be covered—will mark the second time that President Hoover has boarded a vessel of war since his election as President. Mr. Hoover sailed on the U. S. S. Maryland on his good will tour of South America when he was President-elect.

The plans call for the President to land at Old Point Comfort early in the afternoon and to be back at the White House before midnight.

Morrow Now Sure Winner Of Short Term in Senate

Victory of Ambassador, Only G. O. P. Candidate for Four-Month Jersey Post, Over Democratic Woman Opponent, Conceded by Observers.

Trenton, N. J., May 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, it became apparent today, will serve at least four months as United States Senator from New Jersey.

His nomination in the Republican primary, June 17, became assured when former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, a wet, withdrew his petition in Trenton for the so-called short term lasting from the general election November 4 to March 3, when the six-year long term will begin. Frelinghuysen, however, still is a candidate for the long term, as is Representative Franklin W. Fort, the only dry in the Senate contest, leaving Morrow the sole Republican candidate for both terms.

The Ambassador's Democratic opponent for the short term will be Miss Thelma Parkinson of Vineland. State Senator Alexander Simpson is the Democratic candidate for the long term nomination. As the naming of Miss Parkinson is considered in political circles merely as a gesture and appeal for the women's vote, and a reward for her activities on behalf of party. Only the most partisan observers will concede her even an outside chance of defeating Morrow.

Miss Parkinson is a wet. Morrow's noted speech in Newark last Thursday placed him also in that column by his advocacy of repeal of the eighteenth amendment and return of liquor control to the States. The voters of New Jersey, therefore, will have none but a wet to choose for the short term.

Representative Fort, aided by concerted action by enthusiastic dry adherents, was able to file his petition of candidacy today with four times as many signatures as the law requires. In the short time at his disposal—he entered the three-cornered Republican race Friday after Morrow's wet speech, in order that the dry issue should not go "by default"—he was able to secure more than 4,000 signatures with the help of volunteer workers. Many of the workers were churchmen.

Most significant of the indications that the dry element is rising to defend its conviction that the eighteenth amendment is enforceable and prohibition a success are the growing number of Fort supporters, the reported defection of numbers of drys from the Frelinghuysen as well as Morrow camps, and the announcement of Miss Marguretta Fort, until now an active Morrow worker, that she will stand behind her brother, Representative Fort, because she believes, with him, in the effectiveness of prohibition.

Miss Fort, at whose home in West Orange her brotner lives, found herself in a quandary because she had been a member of the Morrow committee. She has been an ardent dry. When Morrow announced his wet views, and her brother jumped into the breech to uphold the eighteenth amendment, she made public her resignation from the Morrow group.

According to reports from organization workers in eight counties known for their dryness, voters are deserting from Frelinghuysen and Morrow to Fort, Jesse Salmon, Republican leader of Essex County, declared today.

Frelinghuysen spent a busy day today touring Monmouth County and speaking at various industrial plants and other places where informal groups had gathered. He started in Freehold, motoring later to Asbury Park, where he appeared as speaker in the Solarium on the boardwalk. He announced he was "against prohibition and against public utilities" and declared the New Jersey utility companies were linked in a scheme for a great power chain throughout the country.

Frelinghuysen's withdrawal from the short term race was interpreted as an attempt to strengthen his chances by lessening confusion if his name appeared twice on the ballots. Despite repeated instructions, in similar cases many ballots have been found marked with only one "X" instead of the two required for a candidate who is running for a full as well as an unexpired term. The short term is open because the seat of Senator David Baird, appointed by Gov. Larson to fill the place of Walter E. Edge, who resigned to become Ambassador to France, is required by New Jersey law to be filled at the first succeeding general election.

LIENORS TO RECOVER CONFISCATED AUTOS

Innocent Owners of Seized Cars Win Victory in Decision of Supreme Court.

LOWER COURT REVERSED

Automobile financing companies won a victory yesterday in a decision of the Supreme Court holding the forfeiture of cars, seized for transporting liquors, must be obtained under the Volstead act and not under an old revenue statute which precludes the reimbursement of lien-holders, even though they prove their innocence of any violation of the liquor laws. It has been estimated that loss amounting to $20,000,000 has been sustained in auto seizures.

Justice Stone, in an opinion written to cover cases from Virginia and California, appealed by the Richburg Motor Co. and the Davies Motor, Inc., put the court on record as reversing the Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third and Ninth Circuits in their conclusion that prohibition agents may elect either law to gain possession of cars.

The decision held that Congress was aware that the passage of the national prohibition law would result in an enormous increase in the seizure of vehicles and would place a heavy burden on innocent persons unless they were afforded some protection by legislation to apply in place of the old tax statute. For that reason, Justice Stone said section 26 of the Volstead act was enacted.

"We think that Congress did not take the precaution to enact the carefully chosen language of section 26 merely to impose general duties on prosecuting officers already placed on them by other sections of the act," the opinion says, "but that its purpose was to preclude the nullification of the protection which section 26 has extended to innocent third persons."

Soldier Who Saved Union Colors Dead

George Schley, Father of Capital Woman, Dies in Baltimore.

Baltimore, May 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—George Schley, Civil War veteran, 89, who gained fame when he saved a Union regiment's colors from capture by secreting the flag beneath his clothing for three months in a Confederate prison, died tonight from a stroke of apoplexy at his home here.

The flag, made for the regiment by the women of Norwich, Conn., was given him by Connecticut volunteers when he told them of his plan to save it. After the war for many years he kept it on the wall of his home. Former members of the Eighteenth Connecticut heard of it and urged him to present it to the survivors, which he did. The flag is in Norwich.

Mr. Schley is survived by three sons, Robert and Edward Schley, of Baltimore, and Frank Schley, of Cambridge, Md., and two daughters, Mrs. Henry Hodenolt, of Washington, and Mrs. Alexander Stuart.

Senator Hasting's impromptu talk came at the conclusion of an entertainment which included the following: Jean Lewis, recitations; Jean and Elsie Lewis, dances; Virginia Terry, dance; Rosalie Harding, dance; Mary Ganol, dance; Mrs. Hazel Dan Wilson, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Bess Heath Olmstead, and a comedy prize-fight sketch by students of the Gordon Junior High School.

Representative Robert G. Houston presided at the business session, after which Mrs. T. R. Caprenter, chairman of the entertainment committee, took charge.

The congressional delegation stood in the receiving line at the conclusion of the program.

RUM COUNTS NAME 23 CITY OFFICIALS

Nature of Charges Against 93 in Two Wyoming Towns Revealed.

PROTECTION PLOT SEEN

Cheyenne, Wyo., May 19 (A.P.).—Fourteen city officials of Rock Springs and nine Thermopolis municipal officers tonight faced charges of entering into a conspiracy with alleged bootleggers and speakeasy proprietors whereby the latter made monthly protection payments to enrich the municipal treasuries. The Federal grand jury here last Saturday returned indictments against 93 residents of the two Wyoming cities, including their mayors.

The alleged specific acts of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws were made known today by A. D. Walton, U. S. District Attorney, who released a 26-page indictment against 52 Rock Springs citizens and a 20-page indictment against the 41 Thermopolis residents. Of the 93 persons indicted, 61 had been arrested late today.

At Rock Springs the municipal government was at a standstill until a temporary government was formed. Mayor P. C. Bunning appointed a temporary mayor, and William Harvey, the only policeman not indicted, was appointed temporary chief of police. Those indicted must appear in Cheyenne for arraignment.

Collections of Money Cited.

The indictment charges money was collected at Rock Springs from alleged bootleggers and speakeasy proprietors through pasage of "occupational tax ordinances" and lists a number of payments under these ordinances to City Treasurer Ralph Harns and Police Magistrate E. E. Johnson. In addition, the indictment cites alleged visits by Mayor Bunning and other city officials to alleged speakeasies and the drinking of liquor by them.

Some of the alleged speakeasies were named as having been visited by city councilmen and patrolmen and the alleged drinking of liquor by them also was charged.

Payments made under the ordinances, the indictment stated, ranged from $50 to $185.25.

Councilmen Are Involved.

The councilmen were involved in the conspiracy by their alleged approval of the ordinances levying the "tax."

The Thermopolis indictment includes the charge that Mayor Charles Hoofnale on June 1, 1926, instructed James D. Atfield, city marshal, to regulate the sale of liquor by "causing to be collected from each of those persons then engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquor in Thermopolis a monthly or periodical fine."

Three men, charged on the Rock Springs indictment, were arraigned in Federal court here today. Each entered a plea of not guilty.

U. S. Missionaries Told to Flee Reds

Five Districts in Chinese Province of Kwangtung Are Overrun.

(Associated Press.)

The State Department yesterday announced that it had received information that five of the 25 magisterial districts of the province of Kwangtung, China, are in the hands of "Red" forces under Chu Te Ma Tee Tung.

The information was telegraphed by David C. Berger, American Consul at Swatow, Kwangtung, who reported that conditions in the interior of the district were chaotic. He said he had instructed the American women missionaries at Chiaying to go to Swatow immediately.

The State Department recorded the following Americans as residing at Chiaying: Mrs. George Campbell, address not given; Miss Louise Campbell, Toledo, Ohio; Miss Anna Forster, Buffalo, N. Y.; Maurice A. Ahern, Hartford, Conn.; Martin F. Barry and Francis Donnally, Ossining, N. Y.; William J. Downs, Erie, Pa.; John J. Driscoll, Girardville, Pa.; Charles C. Eckstein, Charles P. Hilbert, Patrick F. Malone, Hugh C. McKernan and William M. O'Brien, all of Mary Knoll, N. Y.; John D. Gallagher, Boston; Maurice P. Gleason, St. Louis.

BUILDING CONTRACT REACH 483,000,000

Lamont Says Reports Show Trade Is About Six Per Cent Below Normal.

EXPORTS DROP HEAVILY

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Lamont announced yesterday that contracts for new construction of all kinds let in the United States during April amounted to $483,000,000.

His statement fixed that total as the largest attained during any month since last August.

It was somewhat below the total let during April last year, however.

In view of these and other estimates bearing upon business conditions which the Commerce Department has gathered, Secretary Lamont said he had formed the tentative opinion that normal business activity would be attained in the near future.

"If the showing of the charts maintained by business observers is correct," Mr. Lamont observed, "business operations in the United States as they are variously expressed are about 6 per cent below what might be considered normal.

"In 1921 at this time they were about 20 per cent below normal and it took something like six months for them to recover, but we have not nearly so far to go now as the country had to go then to attain what we think of as normal business."

American authors and writers of all types are doing much better than American business men in finding foreign markets for their products.

Exports of commodities of all kinds from the United States in the first quarter of 1930 were about 25 per cent less than values of last year, but the Commerce Department finds that during the same period American books and pamphlets were virtually as much in world demand as ever.

Three Men Placed On Trial for Lives

All Accused of Murder in Slaying of Alleged Police Informer.

Charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying March 13, 1929, of Edward Smith, alleged police informer, three Negroes, Leon Thomas Brown, Lawrence Bias and Theodore Smith, went on trial for their lives yesterday before Justice Peyton Gordon and a District Supreme Court jury. The trial is expected to continue for several days.

William Bradley, colored, who was indicted jointly with the three men on trial, died several weeks ago at the District Jail from wounds suffered in the melee.

The three men and Bradley also were indicted on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of Clarence Harvey, colored, also said to have been a police informer, who was killed at the same time that Smith was slain. The Government elected to try the indictment naming Smith as the victim first.

Assistant United States Attorneys Irvin Goldstein and James R. Kirkland appear for the Government while the defense in represented by Attorneys James A. O'Shea, John H. Burnett, William R. Ives and John H. Wilson.

METHODIST REPORT STANDS BY DRY LAW

ference only after a miniature tempest within the committee had been disclosed.

A. C. Millar, a political figure in Arkansas and a friend of Bishop James Cannon, jr., of Washington, D. C., whose stock market activities Daniels has attacked, informed the conference the report had been approved last Friday and asked that the secretary be instructed to present it. Called at his hotel, Daniels said the report was not ready, but a few minutes after he had been told of Millar's action he appeared with the report.

Millar met him in the conference lobby and assailed the former Secretary of the Navy for a speech he made last night at the First Baptist Church.

"You betrayed your own church before a Baptist congregation," Millar said.

Daniels walked away without responding. In his speech Daniels had taken the position that the church should stay strictly clear of politics.

Declaring prohibition to be "the settled policy of the Republic," the report said the saloon "now asks to come back under an alias."

Cannon Leadership Indorsed.

"The only alternative to prohibition is the saloon. Those who imagine there is some half-way house are deceiving themselves. * * * The experience with the dispensary is that it does not decrease the consumption of intoxicants or reduce drunkenness or lessen corruption."

Then came an indorsement of Bishop Cannon's leadership of the temperance board of the church, placed in the report by Millar over Daniels' objections. The report also called upon the church to lend its influence to amicable settlement of Southern labor disputes, for limitation of armaments, and for a return of the conditions which meant for better home life, the latter section condemning certain motion pictures and popular fiction.

Doran Hits Men Who Pay $10 For 15-Cent Sucker Whiskey

Prohibition Commissioner Cites Brooklyn Plant Which Turned Corn Liquor Into Imported Stuff as Example of Way Buyers Are Swindled.

New Orleans, La., May 19 (A.P.).—People paying "$10 for 15 cents worth of sucker whisky," constitute the real problem of prohibition enforcement, declared Dr. J. M. Doran, United States Prohibition Commissioner, here today to attend a convention of Louisiana pharmacists.

"I wish we could have had a convention of America's liquor connoisseurs with us when we recently raided a big liquor plant in Brooklyn," he said. "That was the best visual evidence of the great American swindle anybody could ask.

"It proved conclusively that what I've been telling America all along—that bootleggers and liquor operators are riding around the country in custom-built limousines because the country has plenty of people willing to pay $10 for 15 cents worth of sucker whisky."

In the Brooklyn plant, he said, they found everything needed to fake corn whisky into looking like imported stuff.

"Anywhere in America, the little fellow who had his distillery and produced a drink out of corn sugar alcohol got his supplies from this Brooklyn house," the commissioner said. "When he had finished his product he bottled it in those special bottles, corked it with aged corks, all properly burned with the right mark, labeled it with salt-water stained labels, packed it in salt-water stained burlap and sold it to the country club crowd with a story of how it had been run in from Europe or Latin-America—a story that ought to win the prize as the greatest piece of American fiction for the year."

LOAN BILL HEARING ENDS IN HOT WORDS

House Members Quarrel Violently Over Time Given Speeches.

FOUR WITNESSES HEARD

The Bowman bill to authorize the making of small loans here at an interest rate of 3½ per cent a month was the subject of a stormy hearing before the judiciary subcommittee of the House District committee yesterday, with two members glaring and shouting at each other across the table.

When the hearing came to an end at noon, it was too late to take a vote and the bill went over until another meeting.

The clash came when Representative Lampert (Republican), of Wisconsin, sought to make a second speech against the bill, and Representative Reid (Republican), of Illinois, moved that his talk be limited to one minute.

Reid Motion Carried.

While Mr. Lampert hotly protested, the Reid motion was carried by a vote of 3 to 1.

"The gentleman from Wisconsin is merely engaging in dilatory tactics against this bill which he began a year ago," Mr. Reid said.

Mr. Lampert accused Mr. Reid of trying to shut him off.

"You ought to be shut off," the Illinois representative said. "You have had too much consideration by this committee already."

Quarrel Over Watches.

Then followed a quarrel as to whose watch was correct, that of Mr. Lampert or that of Mr. Reid.

Finally, Acting Chairman McLeod, pulling out his own timepiece, announced that it was 12 o'clock and declared that, under the rules of the House, the subcommittee would have to adjourn.

Four witnesses spoke against the Bowman bill. They were Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Republican national committeewoman for the District and director of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Thomas E. Lodge, of the Citizens Advisory Council; Mrs. Mary Wright Johnson, a civic leader here, and Representative Hull (Republican), of Wisconsin.

Police Smallpox Scare Unfounded

Doctors Find Sick Prisoner Has Chicken Pox; Patrol Wagons Fumigated.

The smallpox scare which led to the decommissioning of two police patrol wagons, the locking of squadrooms in precinct stations and the relief of five policemen from active duty came to an anticlimax yesterday when physicians declared that the prisoner who caused all the worry and precautions was suffering from chicken pox.

The patrol wagons were fumigated and put back into service before 9 o'clock yesterday morning. By that time, too, physicians at Gallinger Hospital had determined that the illness the prisoner, who was arrested Saturday night by Policeman G. C. McCarron, was suffering from was chicken pox and not smallpox.

The policemen noticed that the prisoner seemed ill and placed him in the squadroom of the Second Precinct Station while they awaited the arrival of an ambulance from Gallinger Hospital. Smallpox was suggested. All policemen having to do with the prisoner were relieved from duty by Inspector Albert J. Headley. All were restored yesterday following report of the doctors.

Plans of the building committee to erect a $500,000 administration building library to adjoin the Octagon were announced yesterday by Frank C. Baldwin, secretary, of Washington. A building fund of $200,000 is now being raised for this purpose among the architects of the country.

Manufacturers and delegates from building materials industries forming the Producers' Council, a national organization associated with the Institute of Architects, will open their conference at the Mayflower Hotel today. Trade problems will be discussed.

BUSINESS TEMPO OF EUROPE LAGGING

Comparison With American Pace Makes It Seem Slow in Procedure.

PARIS 2-HOUR PERIOD

New York, May 19.—Hustle and bustle which distinguish the American man and woman in the general conduct of the day's business in office or shop do not prevail in Europe. In system, a writer points out that the tempo of business in the countries overseas continue to be slower than it is in the United States. Even the change to loose leaf and card index record systems from the ponderous old ledgers and journals is slow.

"To conserve the time of the business man in England," the article in System adds, "the appointment plan rigidly is followed. Each caller is allotted an absolute minimum of time and knows that as soon as his time is up he will have to make way for the next caller, whether or not his business is transacted. Workers who are remaining in the offices after 5 o'clock are allowed time for tea, which is often brought directly to their desks.

"A two-hour rest period is the general rule in France. Many of the offices are closed during this period. The principal meal of the day is taken at noon, and many go home for it and enjoy a nap during the period. In Holland, too, the long noon period is the rule. An unusual large number of holidays, most of them religious, are observed by French business establishments.

"In Germany the personal efficiency of the executive is exceedingly high, and military discipline is the keynote of his staff. When he gives orders to his assistant, the assistant, even if of a very high rank himself, stands with his toes out, his heels together, at complete attention. He does not attempt any suggestions, but when the orders have been given he marches from the room. When he splits up the chief's orders and communicates them to his subordinates, they, too, stand at attention. Many companies enforce strict disciplinary measures, with fines for tardiness and smoking in sections of the office where it is forbidden.

Reformed Church Classis Convenes

50 Maryland Congregations Represented at Meeting in Frederick.

Frederick, Md., May 19.—Between 50 and 60 ministers and delegates, representing about 50 churches of western Maryland, attended the annual meeting of the Maryland Classes of the Reformed Church in Mount Tabor Church in Rocky Ridge today. The meeting will continue three days. The Rev. Henri T. G. Kieffer, pastor of the Evangelical Reformed Church, this city, and the Rev. Atwill Conner, pastor of the Jefferson Reformed Church, conducted the opening service.

Church union, the status of women of the church and changes in the meetings of the organizations will be among the important matters discussed at the business sessions.

The proposed union of the Reformed Church in the United States, the United Brethren in Christ and the Evangelical Synod of North America will be presented. The classis will not vote for or against the plan of the union, but is asked to make suggestions and amendments respecting the plan of the union to the commission on closer relations and church union. The commission may submit proposals to the committee of 21, appointed by the general synod at its meeting in Indianapolis, in 1929, and the committee may later refer the proposals to the classis for final action.

HOOVER SIGNS BILL ON BUILDING DESIGN

Law Authorizes Fine Arts Commission to Pass on Capital Structures.

BACKED BY SHIPSTEAD

The Shipstead bill to regulate building designs in important Government areas became law yesterday with the signature of President Hoover. The measure authorizes the Fine Arts Commission to pass on the height and exterior design of private and semipublic buildings facing the Capitol Grounds, the White House Grounds, Zoological Park, Potomac Park, the Rock Creek and Potomac Parkway, the Mall park system and that portion of Pennsylvania avenue between the Capitol and the White House.

The bill directs that plans for buildings in important Government reservations be submitted to the Fine Arts Commission, which will advise the District Commissioners as to conformance. The city heads are empowered to "take such action as shall in their judgment effect reasonable compliance with the commission's recommendations."

If the commission fails to report its recommendations to the city heads within 30 days after receiving the plans, a permit will be issued on the assumption that the plans are satisfactory.

The legislation was sponsored by Senator Shipstead, of Minnesota, to protect areas where the Federal Government is to make large expenditures for buildings and park improvements. The bill was backed in the House by Representative Luce, of Massachusetts.

HEAT WAVE GREETS ZEPPELIN IN SPAIN

to taking on viands of Spanish flavor.

The day had been full of thrills for inhabitants along the dirigible's route. All went according to schedule until after Gibraltar had been passed, when the craft made drastic changes in route and conjecture as to its reason met with no explanation, until virtually when the airship was at Cadiz, Spanish coast city, some hours late. Then it was learned her long sojourn over the African cities of Ceurta Tetuan and Tangier had been to avoid approaching Spain in the heat of the day.

Thereafter her progress was reported regularly and no occasion for misgivings arose.

The Graf's day embraced travel of approximately 1,500 miles of mapped course, with considerable slow flying to fill in the midday hours around northern Africa.

Such volumes of mail were ready for her tonight that it seemed to the special staff of postoffice workers assigned to the Tablada subpostoffice, as they struggled with sacks in the intense heat, that everybody in Europe must have decided to send a letter or postcard to the Graf. In addition there were many official communications of greetings between officials of European and American cities and States.

The Graf, taking off tomorrow at dawn, will shape her course for the Canary and Cape Verde Islands, after which she will head southeastward across the equator to Pernambuco, Brazil, her first scheduled stop after this city.

From Seville to Pernambuco the line distance is approximately 5,000 miles, almost entirely over water, when the only advices of her progress will be obtained from her own radio dispatches and from ships sighting her at sea, after the Canary and Cape Verde islands have been left in the distance.

2,000 FLEE HOMES IN SOUTHERN FLOOD

damage to growing crops over most of the State could not be estimated with any semblance of accuracy.

National Guardsmen today were stationed at Calion, on the Ouachita River, 125 miles south of here, to prevent ransacking of stores and residences.

One hundred boats manned by guardsmen and volunteers were taking out residents of the Ouachita River Valley in that vicinity. So hurried was the departure of residents that automobiles were left in garages. Many women and children were taken off roofs of their homes and transported to places of safety and later sent to refugee camps. Several boats were upset by the swirling water but no casualties were reported.

A thousand oil derricks were reported out of commission in the El Dorado Field, affecting 50 per cent of the operations, officials of some oil companies reported. Two weeks will be required, they said, before operations could be resumed.

Streets in Louann, Kenova, Joyce City and Hays City are under from four to five feet of water. Hundreds of homes are flooded. Rehabilitation, where possible, and relief operations are in the hands of local agencies, for the most part. The number of refugees increases hourly.

L. R. Plemmons, district State highway engineer, said damage to highways from the flood would reach at least $250,000.

Dallas, Tex., May 19 (A.P.).—A cessation of torrential rains that fell in many parts of Texas last week and which caused many streams to leave their banks, today aided in relieving flood conditions which had reached serious proportions in northeast Texas.

The most serious conditions were at Jefferson on the Cypress River and Texarkana the Red River.

Flood waters inundated the lower sections of Jefferson, driving to higher land a large number of Negro families and a few white people. The Cypress River stood at 26.3 feet, more than 8 feet above flood stage. A further rise of a little more than a foot would cause the inundation of Jefferson's main street.

It is estimated that one-third of Marion County, of which Jefferson is the county seat, was under water from the Big Cypress, the Little Cypress and the Black Cypress Rivers.

At Texarkana, about 50 miles north of Jefferson, the Red River was believed to have reached its crest after flooding between 75,000 and 100,000 acres of bottom lands in Bowie County, Tex., and Miller County, Ark., and causing much damage to highways and railroad lines.

The Trinity River at Dallas was out of banks and still rising, but no great damage was feared unless further rains fall over its watershed.

Similar conditions prevailed in central Texas, but besides the destruction of sections of some highway no extensive damage had been reported.

Traveling Parachute Is Invented by Jumper

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 19 (A.P.).—Henry Bushmeyer, professional parachute jumper, announced today he had invented a machine to enable parachute jumpers to travel about 20 miles in any direction after their 'chutes opened.

Bushmeyer said the device consisted of a two-cylinder, 7 horsepower motor with two batteries, a 4-foot propeller and a steel and board framework, which is attached to the jumper's chest and back.

Flight direction would be obtained by holding out a hand. The machine has a fuel capacity of 1 quart of gasoline, which, Bushmeyer declared, would provide a flying range of about 20 miles. He added that he would give a demonstration soon.

HOSE USED AS LASH AT TRAINING SCHOOL

Director Admits Practice but Declares It Is Not Cruel; Cites Problems.

TELLS OF PENALTIES

Beating unruly boys with a hose and punishing others who run away by forcing them to stand on a "white line" during recreation periods is a part of the discipline meted out at the National Training School for Boys, F. H. Duehay, director of the school, admitted last night.

Mr. Duehay said that while he does not believe in severe punishment, that he does believe that some method of discipline should be carried on. He admitted that there is a problem in handling the boys at the school. He said that it is not run like a jail and that the boys who are committed are not the type who should be sent to jail.

"Striking the boys with a hose is not as horrible as it sounds," Mr. Duehay said. "The hose does not inflict any bruises or marks and is not wielded with any great force."

Mr. Duehay admitted that attendants at the school had used the hose on several occasions.

In explaining the "white line" discipline order at the school Mr. Duehay said the boys are only forced to stand on the line for three periods of a half hour each. These periods, he said, are during recreation time given to all inmates of the school.

Mr. Duehay said he is attempting to put into use every humanitarian practice and that when he receives reports of any cruelty on the part of attendants he orders their dismissal.

COOLIDGE DISOWNS AMENDED HISTORY

the changes he had made in the text in detail. He also wrote to the Times that Corbin's statement as to the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution was "completely at variance not only with the spirit, the very soul," of those documents, "but also with the letter."

In reply to this, Corbin asserted that, by the alterations he made Mr. Borglum "abrogates the supreme law of the land" and that the revised text "reads out of the Constitution its very soul and spirit."

He repeated what he said in his reply to Borglum that "the stone face of Washington seems destined to preside over words that flout his strongest convictions and knock the charter of our republic into the cocked hats of the men who framed it."

These excerpts from the history, show what Mr. Coolidge wrote and how Mr. Borglum edited it.

Coolidge text: "The Declaration of Independence—the eternal right to seek happiness through self government and the divine duty to defend that right at any sacrifice."

Borglum revision: "In the year of our Lord 1776 the people declared the eternal right to seek happiness—self-government—and the divine duty to defend that right at any sacrifice."

Coolidge text: "The Constitution—charter of perpetual union of free people of sovereign States establishing a government of limited powers under an independent President, Congress and court, charged to provide security for all citizens in their enjoyment of liberty, equality and justice under the law."

Borglum's revision: "In 1787 assembled in convention they made a charter of perpetual union of free people of sovereign States establishing a government of limited powers—under an independent President, Congress and court charged to provide security for all citizens in their enjoyment of liberty, equality and justice."

It is planned to unveil the inscription on the Fourth of July. What action, if any, Mr. Coolidge intends to take to have the history cut into the mountain as he wrote it, remains unknown.

Episcopal Prelate Will Not Resign

Tried to Quit Church After Pastor Was Cleared in Catholic Marriage.

Providence, R. I., May 19 (A.P.).—Bishop James De Wolf Perry, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, announced today that at his request the Right Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, Bishop of Lexington, Ky., has withdrawn his resignation.

This action, Bishop Perry said, results from correspondence he has had with Bishop Abbott and many officials of the Lexington diocese, and from the conviction that "the best interest of the church would be served by the continuance of Bishop Abbott in his jurisdiction."

Bishop Abbott resigned after the Rev. Julius A. Velasco, Dayton, Ky., was acquitted in an ecclesiastical trial on charges brought against him after his marriage to a Roman Catholic girl. Bishop Abbott claimed the verdict was a reflection on his integrity.

Red Tape Slashed For War Mother

May Visit Grave of Son in Spite of Passport Difficulties.

Red tape was slashed yesterday by the War Department when a Gold Star Mother made a request to visit her son's grave in France.

Mrs. Thora Holt, of Hackensack, N. J., planned to leave with other Gold Star Mothers on July 23, but discovered she could not get a passport because she did not have citizenship papers. Her documents were destroyed in a fire in her home in Dumont, N. J.

The quartermaster general of the Army learned of her predicament and will ask the State Department to instruct New Jersey courts to arrange the legal details by which Mrs. Holt may make the trip.

The grave she will visit is that of her son, Carl Theodore Holt, who was killed at Chateau Thierry.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Making a workshop out of a public street is forbidden under the traffic regulations of the District. The day when a man could park his car at the curb and leisurely proceed to make repairs is past.

Only minor repairs may be made, and then only in case of emergency. The authorities believe that such work should be done in one's own garage or in a repair shop so as not to litter up the streets with cars that are being overhauled and can not be moved readily.

Example: A driver parks his car in front of his residence and then goes ahead with the job of giving his carburetor a thorough cleaning, adjusting valves and painting the top of the car. Since that work can not be classed as being of an emergency character, it is not allowable under the regulations.

City in Mountains To Give Byrd Rest

Admiral to Get Recreation in Place Lindbergh Once Visited.

Panama City, May 19 (A.P.).—David, a mountain city 205 miles from here, that was visited by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in 1928, will furnish rest and recreation to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd for the next four or five days.

Admiral Byrd first intended to go to Rio Hato, 80 miles from Panama City, but he changed his mind today and took off this morning for David an hour earlier than scheduled. It is understood he was told of the lowness of Rio Hato and hence decided to seek coolness in the mountains.

The Antarctic explorer was accompanied by his business representative, Capt. Hilton H. Railey, J. R. Hildebrand and Charles J. V. Murphy.

Interfederation Conference Also Urges Adjustment of Fiscal Problem.

UNIFORM RULES SOUGHT

General discussion of transportation problems in the metropolitan area, and adoption of plans designed to expedite passage of the bill providing for a joint commission to study fiscal relations between the District and the Federal Government featured the monthly meeting of the Interfederation Conference at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building last night.

The conference represents 125 citizen organizations in the District, Arlington County, Va., and Montgomery County, Md.

R. E. Plymale, Arlington County delegate; J. G. Yaden, of the District, and Col. A. B. Barber, chairman of the conference, were delegated to appear before the House District committee this morning at 10:30 o'clock in support of the Moore bill, which would create the joint commission on fiscal relations.

It also decided to call the committee's attention to a resolution passed by the conference, stressing belief that the commission should be empowered to study relations between the Federal and District Governments with respect to park improvements and buildings outside the District proper, but in the metropolitan area it was pointed out that many Federal improvement projects launched here are national in scope, and hence should not be considered as District programs.

Ewing Files Report.

In his report on transportation problems affecting suburban communities, C. B. Ewing, chairman of the committee on city planning, reviewed the report of traffic experts appointed to study the situation, and reiterated the belief that re-routing street cars, and joint utilization of tracks would improve service and result in appreciable savings to traction companies.

The report urged inauguration of a suburban express service similar to that in effect at Detroit, and expressed the opinion that commuters would abandon their motor cars in favor of street cars if such a service should be established.

The report als osuggested that the traction companies establish public garages at their suburban terminals, for convenience of patrons.

Frank G. Campbell, Arlington County delegate, submitted a report on highway signboard restrictions, and progress achieved in enactment of legislation that would prevent advertisers from defacing the landscape. The report branded signboards as traffic hazards, and said that national outdoor advertising firms are rapidly abandoning the practice of erecting signs marring scenery along highways.

ffTraic Ellipse Proposed.

The Montgomery County Civic Association's request for establishment of a traffic ellipse at Wisconsin and Western avenues, near the District line, was taken under consideration.

Col. Barber, who presided at the meeting, discussed "the growing sentiment for uniform traffic regulations" and submitted reports that have been coming in to the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, which will reconvene here next week. He also announced that members of the interfederation conference are expected to attend the conference.

Three other committe reports scheduled for last night's meeting were not submitted, due to absence of a number of delegates.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—A resolution protesting "the political activities" of the Maryland State Board of Health in opposition to the bill now pending in Congress to exempt dogs from vivisection in the District of Columbia, was adopted today by the semiannual international conference for investigation of vivisection.

A copy of the resolution was forwarded to Gov. Albert T. Ritchie, of Maryland. Another resolution was adopted asking that United States Senator Thaddeus H. Caramay investigate alleged political activities of the United States Public Health Service and the Army against the same bill.

Richmond Woman Killed in Staunton

Mrs. Charles L. Todd Victim fo Fatal Mishap at Relative's Home.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., May 19.—Mrs. Charles L. Todd, 64, of Richmond, died in a local hospital here tonight as a result of injuries received when she was either struck by an automobile or fell in attempting to avoid being hit. The accident happened at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Clarence A. Seaton, near this city. Mrs. Leon C. Ware, a sister of Mrs. Seaton and sister-in-law of Mrs. Todd, was at the wheel of the machine.

Mrs. Todd was standing in the driveway at the Seaton home. It has not been clearly explained what happened, whether the brakes failed to hold or whether Mrs. Ware lost control of the machine, but when the car was stopped, Mrs. Todd was lying on the ground unconscious. It is said that possibly she stumbled and fell in endeavoring to avoid the machine.

A fracture at the base of the skull caused death at 8:05 p. m. The body will be shipped to Richmond tomorrow morning for burial. Mrs. Todd has been visiting relatives in and near Staunton for three days. Her husband died within the past year.

CANDIDATES SPEAK IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

E. H. Dejarnette, Crandall Mackey and Frank L. Ball Are Heard.

TWO OPPOSE DRY LAW

Three of the four candidates for the Democratic nomination for representative from the eighth Conegrasional District of Virginia made their first campaign speeches at Fairfax County courthouse yesterday afternoon. Judge Walter McCarthy, adjourned court from 12:30 until 3 o'clock for the occasion so the speakers could use the court room. The speakers were E. H. DeJarnette, Capt. Crandall Mackey and State Senator Frank Ball.

The first speaker was DeJarnette, who put forward a wet platform and advocated the return to the old State law of "a quart a month for medicinal purposes." He did not want to return to the old saloon days and does not believe in excessive drinking. The prohibition law has not only caused contempt for all laws, he stated, but it has filled our jails to capacity. He also advocated a high tariff to protect the farmer as well as the manufacturer.

Capt. Mackey spoke next, advocating the outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He sketched the history of States rights claiming the prohibition was an invasion of them.

"The prohibition question is the most important since the slavery question that the American people have had to face," he stated. "It is not only destroying their confidence, but their loyalty."

Senator Ball, in his address, asked for the opportunity of serving the people, stating that he has been preparing for this office for many years. He declared that from the standpoint of experience he was the best qualified and better able to serve them. He stated that eh always had been dry both politically and personally and would not favor any change in the present prohibition law. The most vital question, he declared, was that of immigration.

"We should be protected from the influx of the undesirables and select only those that believe in American standards and ideals."

He hit the tendency of "big business" for creating monopolies and choking off the small man and the farmers.

In closing his remarks he referred the people to his record in the State Assembly and asked them if they thought that any one had their interests at heart more than he.

THREE MEN TO FACE DISORDERLY CHARGE

Robbery Counts Changed in Villa Roma Affair in Montgomery.

ONE CASE IS DISMISSED

Charges of robbery and assault with intent to rob lodged against the four young men who were arrested at the Villa Roma roadhouse on the Rockville pike following a disturbance two weeks ago were dismissed in Montgomery County Police Court yesterday by Judge Charles W. Woodward. Charges of disorderly conduct were placed against three of the men by State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr.

Francis H. Harding was released, it having been shown that he was not in the roadhouse at the time of the disturbance. The other three, Harry Atchison, Michael Parella and Jar Callan, were charged with disorderly conduct.

The men were arrested by Montgomery County Police after they received a complaint from the roadhouse. They were alleged to have held up a party at the roadhouse, but they denied this and said that the trouble was started when one of the guests tripped while passing them and precipitated a free-for-all fight.

Young Wells was at the wheel of the machine when the accident occurred. He was driving toward Reds Corner, on the Somerville road. LABOR FEDERATION MEETS IN VIRGINIA

Pollard and Glass Make Talks to State Group in Petersburg.

CAPITAL MAN SPEAKER

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., May 19.—The Virginia State Federation of Labor convened this morning in the City Armory in its thirty-fifth annual convention with 150 delegates, 50 of whom were women, in attendance.

The body was called to order by Alfred Hawse, of Petersburg, chairman of the convention committee. The invocation was by the Rev. R. M. Green, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist Church. The invocation was followed by welcoming addresses by Mayor Richard T. Wilson; Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce; Representative Patrick H. Drewry from the Fourth Congressional District of Virginia; State Senator Robert Gilliam, of Petersburg, and Harry Hart, superintendent of public instruction. These addresses were responded to by the president of the federation, R. T. Bowden, who stated that this was the second time that the State convention of the Federation of Labor has been held in Petersburg, the first having been held here 34 years ago.

These addresses were followed by several others. Michell J. Garrett, regent of the International Plumbers and Steamfitters, of Washington, called on the convention to protest payment of cheap wages by large corporations coming into the South and carry to the citizenship of the community and State the knowledge that cheap wages are not an asset to the State and community. Mr. Garrett stated that one of the large corporations in the State was paying 65 cents per hour and downward for skilled mechanics. Another speaker was Mayor Charles G. Kizer, member of the Industrial Committee of Virginia, who spoke on the phenomenal growth of the State labor department. The first annual appropriation, he said, was $24,000; the State now appropriates more than $40,000.

After the addresses, the various standing committees were appointed and then the federation adjourned to 7 o'clock tonight when the delegates were the guests of the city and the Chamber of Commerce at a banquet tendered them at the city armory. Among those on the program for addresses at the banquet were Gov. Pollard and Senator Carter Glass.

The banquet followed an automobile tour to historic points in and near Petersburg. The delegates were also taken to Hopewell, where they visited the large china plant there, and other places of interest.

The nominating committee held a meeting tonight to nominate the new State officers who will be elected tomorrow. It is stated that R. T. Bowden, having declined to be a candidate for reelection to the office of president, that F. Fred Cherry, of Portsmouth, the present first vice president, will probably be elected to succeed him.

ALLEN LAUDS ADVERTISING

and his remarks were broadcast over the Nation-wide networks of the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System.

"I think," he said, "if we had spent 10 per cent of the money we have expended for enforcement of the Volstead act upon a scientific presentation not only of the duty of obeying the law but of the deleterious effect of alcohol, we would almost have cured the Volstead fever by this time.

"I am not here to deliver a prohibition speech.

Would "Sell" London Pact.

"I say there isn't anything that modern advertising, having standardized itself according to the great standards of business character in this country, can not do if it keeps reasonably busy. I know you will at least obey the latter part of that, because it is the greatest business profession in the world.

"You know, if I were in the advertising game again, if I were running one of these great specialties, I would see what I could do in the way of making a contract to sell the London treaty. There is some doubt as to whether the London treaty will go over. Why? Because none of us have yet been compelled to read it. Turn it over to a modern advertising agency and we would not be able to dodge it."

The convention was opened officially at noon on the lawn of the White House, where the delegates were welcomed by President Hoover. The President in turn heard from C. C. Younggreen, president of the federation, who expressed the appreciation of organized advertising in America for the welcome.

Hoover Policies Praised.

"We are gathered here to plan for perpetuation of the policies of which you have long been an exponent," Mr. Younggreen told the President. "Organized advertising in America recognizes your clean understanding of its powers, its responsibilities, and the difficulties it has to face. It also deeply and sincerely appreciates your sympathetic attitude toward our endeavors to be worthy of our duty to American business and to the American people."

In his annual address at the luncheon, following Senator Allen's talk, Mr. Younggreen replied to criticism of advertising by "pseudo-economists" and "others of their particular quality of mentality."

"They," he declared, "are plausible and take the easy road of the demagogue in appealing to the passions of people who are ignorant of the real facts. Unfounded as these attacks are, they have not failed to create some annoyance, but advertising as a whole has no cause for embarrassment."

Public Held More Intelligent.

Mr. Younggreen declared that the time has come for advertisers to revise their estimates of the "legend of the 15-year mentality of the great public."

"It is no longer unfashionable to know things," he said. "It is no longer questionable to be a student. Today the student who leads his class is no less honored than the student who leads his team, and this particular sentiment is growing."

Other speakers at the luncheon included Earnest Elmo Calkins, of Calkins & Holden, Inc., of New York; John H. Appel, of John Wanamaker, New York, and Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business.

Mr. Calkins declared in part that "this is preeminently and emphatically the age of consumption. No influence in business is so potent today as the will of the consumer. For years, we have used the phrase 'consumer demand,' but we are now just beginning to know what it means.

Chain Store One Response.

"The chain store is a response to consumer demand. Automatic vending, the shortest distance between the store shelf and the pantry shelf, is what modern woman wants. She has found leisure and does not want to fritter it away doing her marketing.

"This new leisure for what was formerly the busy sex has stepped up the sales of cars, radios, movies, vanity products, sports goods and books. Retailing of necessity goods has become a smooth, easy running machine to distribute goods along the line of least resistance. Woman has recreated merchandising in her own image."

Mr. Appel also pointed out that business bows to the consumer.

"The consumer's last word," he said, "dictates not only how much and when it will buy, but what it will buy, where it will buy and what price it will pay."

Mr. Thorpe told the federation, "The need of the moment is salesmanship. We have reached our high state of prosperity through the most advanced understanding of selling the world has ever known."

Training Conference Follows.

The national conference on training for advertising followed this luncheon, bringing together leading employers of advertising personnel and educators in an effort to arrive at a standard of educational requirements for persons seeking to enter the advertising business.

Participating in the conference were the American Association of Advertising Agencies, the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, the Association of National Advertisers, the National Association of Marketing and Advertising, the National Industrial Advertisers Association and the Public Utilities Advertising Association.

Among those who took part in the general discussion were Hugh E. Agnew, chairman of the department of marketing, New York University, secretary-treasurer, National Association of Teachers of Marketing and Advertising; Frank A. Black, publicity manager, William Filene's Sons Co.; A. E. Bryson, vice president, Halsey-Stuart & Co., president, Financial Advertisers Association; Ralph Starr Butler, vice president, General Foods Corporation; Paul T. Cherington, director of research, J. Walter Thompson Co.; Samuel A. Harned, Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborne.

Others Are Included.

Others were Joseph W. Hayes, director of research, Crowell Publishing Co.; Fred A. Healy, advertising director, the Curtis Publishing Co.; Ralph E. Heilman, dean, Northwestern University School of Commerce, president, American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business; Alfonso Johnson, dean, advertising Institute of Dallas; Edgar Kobak, vice president and general sales manager, McGraw-Hill Publishing Co.; Bernard Lichtenberg, vice president, Alexandria Hamilton Institute, president, Association of National Advertisers; Leverett S. Lyon, Institute of Economics, author of "Education for Business;" Carl N. Schmalz, Graduate School of Business Administration, Harvard University; Harold Stonier, educational director, American Institute of Banking; James W. Young, past president, American Association of Advertising Agencies.

Addressing an affiliated session of the newspaper classified managers' group at the Hotel Roosevelt, Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, declared that classified advertising is "the life-blood, the foundation stone, the real reason for a newspaper's existence," and remarked that "it is only because classified advertising managers are bashful that they have not demanded that the newspapers in the United States follow certain English newspapers and give the front page to advertising; let the news fill in the back pages or whatever space is left, but put the want advertising out where its importance entitles it to be."

Life Cycle Traced

Pointing out that the classified department deals largely with the nonprofessional advertiser, Mr. Wiley declared: "That personal tie between the reader and the newspaper by means of want advertising is of the greatest significance. The life story of a reader may be told through the classified columns. His birth is announced; a nurse is obtained for the baby; a tutor; a school and camp are selected; he obtains his first position through the classified columns; he buys a house in the suburbs; he buys a business through the business opportunities column; engages his office and sales staff; announces his marriage, and then the new generation begins its life story over again in the classified columns."

Another speaker at this session was Horace J. Donnelly, solicitor of the Postoffice Department, who stressed the importance of honesty in advertising.

"While it is undoubtedly true," he declared, "that at the outset a few dollars would be lost to the newspaper by turning away questionable advertising, it is equally true and generally accepted by reputable publications that the advantage gained in winning the confidence of the reading public by carrying only honest copy will far outweigh such apparent loss."

Efforts to Curb Fraud Described.

He reviewed in detail the activities of the Postoffice Department in minimizing fraudulent or dishonest advertising.

Today the federation will split up into 25 group meetings, representing national interests in advertising. The most elaborate of these departmental meetings will be held by those groups representing broadcast advertising, retail advertising, magazines and public utilities.

The annual banquet will be held tonight in the grand ballroom of the Willard. The speakers will be Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi; Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Co., of New York; Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, and Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times. President Younggreen and Walter A. Strong, of the Chicago Daily News, chairman of the board of the federation, will preside. The convention will conclude on Thursday.

Byrd Medal Measure Is Adopted by Senate

(Associated Press.)

The House resolution to authorize presentation of medals to Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and the members of his Antarctic expedition was adopted yesterday by the Senate and sent to the President.

It authorized the Secretary of the Navy to have made at the United States Mint gold, silver and bronze medals for presentation to members of the expedition "to express the high appreciation in which the Congress and the American people hold their heroic and undaunted services in connection with the scientific investigations and extraordinary aerial explorations of the Antarctic." The measure was adopted without debate after being called up by Senators Swanson and Glass, Virginia Democrats.

BLACK ENDS WORLD JAUNT IN BALTIMORE

Ritchie and Broening Greet Publisher on Landing in Home City.

TWO AVIATORS HONORED

Baltimore, May 19 (A.P.).—Van Lear Black's world-wandering airplane, the Maryland Free State, brought the Baltimore publisher home today after the latest of his flights which have taken him over three continents.

Mr. Black arrived at Logan Field this afternoon from Washington, the final hop on his cross-country flight from San Francisco. He was greeted by Gov. Ritchie and Mayor Broening in an informal reception at the field where more than 1,000 people had gathered, and then escorted him to the Memorial Plaza where a formal welcome was extended. There a telegram of congratulations from Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd was read.

The Maryland Free State was escorted over Baltimore by planes of the Maryland National Guard Air Force. The huge Fokker trimotored plane made a circle of several downtown buildings before landing at Logan Field to place Mr. Black once again on his home town soil.

Since he left Baltimore early in the year, the publisher has sped over thousands of miles, piloted by his veteran Dutch airmen, Gerritt J. Geysendorffer and Johann B. Scholte. His flight started from Croydon Field, London, February 10, and took him by easy stages across Europe and Asia to Tokyo, where he arrived April 7. His ship was brought across the Pacific by steamer and reassembled at San Francisco. He then made the homeward flight by way of Albuquerque, N. Mex.; Kansas City, Mo.; Dayton, Ohio, and Washington.

Geysendorffer and Scholte today were made honorary aeronautic advisors of the City of Baltimore by Mayor Broening. They were presented with engraved certificates bestowing the honor, which they are to hold in perpetuity.

JOAN LOWELL HURT WHEN AUTOS CRASH

Two Other Girls Injured in Collision After That Involving Author.

ALL SENT TO HOSPITALS

While police were clearing away the wreckage of an automobile accident at Berwyn, Md., early yesterday, another collision occurred on the same spot in which Joan Lowell, author of "The Cradle of the Deep," was injured. In the first accident two District girls were hurt.

Miss Lowell, who is known in private life as Mrs. Thompson Buchanan, is in the Union Memorial Hospital at Baltimore suffering from abrasions to the shoulder and arm and rib injuries. Her condition is not regarded as serious.

Miss Lowell was riding with Fred C. McCormack, of Brooklandville, Md., when their automobile was in collision with one operated by Benjamin Mills, colored, of T street, near Third street northwest. Mills was held on a reckless driving charge.

A few minutes before the Mills-McCormack autos collided, two other machines were in an accident and two girls, who gave their names as Gladys Dayton and Sarah Kriess, of 1322 L street northwest, were slightly hurt. Their injuries were treated at Casualty Hospital. The girls were riding with William N. Cashin, of Buffalo, N. Y., according to police. In the other car were Charles and C. W. Langohr.

"Soap and water . . . absolutely necessary, but don't think that any soap will do"

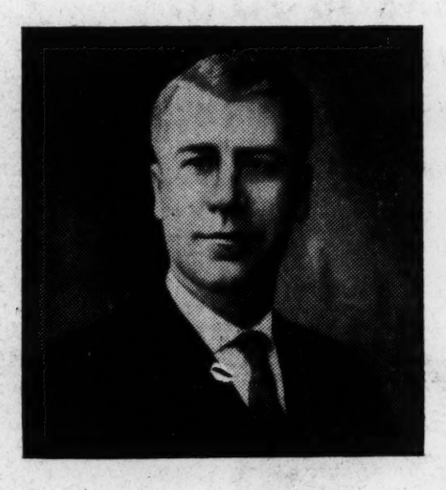
says PEZZA, of Naples

Southern Italy's celebrated beauty specialist



Facade of Pezza's salon, in Naples, frequented by aristocrats of Naples society as well as by travelers from many lands.

"I insist upon Palmolive —a true beauty soap"

Armando Pezza

"Ordinary soaps may irritate the skin and hurt the tissues. Palmolive is pure. It is made of vegetable oils. Its color is the natural color of palm and olive oils, and it has a fresh, delicate odor. Palmolive leaves the skin refreshed and soothed."

"NO woman deserves a lovely skin," declares Pezza, of Naples, "if she fails to observe the most important daily beauty rule: wash the face with Palmolive Soap every morning and every night regularly."

There you have the world's favorite home beauty treatment, as expressed by one of Italy's beauty experts, Signor Armando Pezza. He is head of the Institut Marcel Pezza, an elegant establishment frequented by many traveling Americans as well as the highly distinguished members of society in Naples.

The celebrated Bay of Naples seen from the hills above. World travelers will recognize this view.

"Use Palmolive," say 19,813 experts

Signor Pezza's reasons for preferring an olive oil soap are quoted above. They are the same reasons given by more than 19,800 experts, the world over, for preferring Palmolive.

You see, the pores clog with impurities, dirt, oil, make-up; to cleanse the skin thoroughly, yet safely, requires a unique soap . . . a soap that is bland, gentle, but remarkably effective. Palmolive answers every one of these requirements.

Consult your beauty expert, who is the only authority qualified to speak on beauty care. She will agree that you could use nothing finer than Palmolive for bath as well as face. And it costs only 10c the cake. Start this famous treatment tomorrow: massage a lather of Palmolive and warm water tenderly into the skin. Rinse with warm water, then with cold. Refreshed and colorful, your skin is then ready for make-up. A very short trial will show you the difference!

World-wide recommendation gives Palmolive the greatest professional endorsement any product ever had. More than 19,800 beauty experts advise this beauty soap.

NOW FOR THE BILL.

The tariff fight was virtually ended when the Senate voted to release its conferees from their pledges to uphold the export debenture and the amendment that would have deprived the President of authority to administer the flexible provision. The coalition of insurgent Republicans and Democrats suffered a severe defeat yesterday, and the way is now paved for the enactment of a tariff bill that will meet with the approval of President Hoover and command the respect of the country.

The vote on Senator Smoot's resolution, asking the release of the conferees from their pledge, has the effect of defeating the export bounty plan written into the bill by the coalition. It likewise eliminates the Senate's preposterous amendment under which Congress would have undertaken to administer the flexible provision for adjustment of tariff rates to meet emergency conditions. The House has gone on record against the debenture and in favor of continuing the authority of the President to administer the flexible provision. The Senate has given its conferees authority to yield in these two points, and since the Republican members of the conference committee are personally in accord with the position taken by the House, the coalition amendments may be considered definitely defeated.

The conference committee will meet today and resume its negotiations. With the debenture and the flexible provision amendment virtually repudiated by the body that wrote them into the bill, complete agreement should not be difficult. Another fight may be expected when the committee reports its achievements to the Senate, but the backbone of the coalition has been broken and it can not force the retention of these quack remedies without defeating the whole tariff bill.

Had the Senate instructed its conferees to continue to uphold the export debenture and inflexible arrangement, the deadlock between the two houses might have proved fatal to the tariff bill. When confronted with that contingency the coalition was not able to hold together. Members of neither party had any desire to return to their constituents, having defeated "protection for home industry." Even the insurgents who engaged in a conspiracy with the Democrats to slash industrial duties, could not afford to risk defeat of the agricultural duties they sponsored.

Yesterday's action of the Senate will tend to reestablish faith of the people in the common sense of that body. Congress has taken fourteen months to revise the tariff because of the obstinate attacks made by the Senate coalition on the protective principle. Most of their efforts have been futile. Despite the insurgent revolt the party has carried out its pledge to the people to extend the protective system to agriculture and to industries suffering from undue foreign competition. In spite of log-rolling, intrigue and political flourishes a reasonably satisfactory bill has been evolved, and will, from all present indications, be approved by Congress.

Until the last vote is taken the bombardment from the free traders and internationalists may be expected to continue. But when the new tariff bill is definitely written into law, it is probable that each section and each industry will gratefully accept the benefits allowed it. The country will forget the propaganda of the 1,000 economists and other alarmists and settle down to making economic progress.

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE.

Aristide Briand's plan for a United States of Europe, made public Sunday, gives concrete form to an idea that has been afloat in Europe for many years. The United States of America is a model upon which Europeans have cast envious eyes. Here is a government composed of 48 separate and individual governments that has stood firmly for more than 150 years and that, in its present development, points the way to the world for efficiency and prosperity. Unquestionably, the American form of government has had more than a little to do with the strides America has made. Europeans have wondered why a union fashioned along lines somewhat similar to those that bind the 48 American State governments together would not benefit the Old World states, and M. Briand's plan is tendered as a tentative outline of the form such a union might take.

Theoretically, an economic union of the European nations should reflect to the economic advantage of Europe. By tearing down artificial customs barriers, improving and extending the machinery for international communication and transportation, providing a common currency, formulating an improved system of international credits to the end that natural resources and markets might better be exploited and breaking down jealousies so that Europe would act as a unit for the common good, the cause of peace would be advanced, trade would be stimulated, intercourse would be extended and general good would result. But a wide gulf separates theory from practice. Is Europe ready for the millennial metamorphosis that M. Briand, in his plan for an economic union, envisages?

The United States of America was bound together under a common central government in its infancy. The colonies were united against a common foe; the sectional jealousies that were later to arise were submerged in the unity that was needed to make successful the war for freedom. Europe, however, has no common rallying point. Europeans are nationalists first and there does not exist at this time a common cause around which a union, economic or otherwise, could be built. No love is lost between France and Italy. Would a United States of Europe be possible if Italy were not included, or would Italy be willing to join the scheme upon a parity with France? Great Britain could not join except at the risk of alienating her colonies. Would a European union be successful without Great Britain?

M. Briand stresses the fact that the union would be economic and not political. But, he says, "all hope of progress toward an economic union being rigorously determined by the question of security, and this question itself being intimately bound to that of the progress realized by political unity, it is on a political plane that the first constructive efforts should be concentrated for the purpose of giving Europe its organic structure." Europe today probably is unwilling and unready to organize in economic union on a political plane.

CASUALTY'S CAMPAIGN.

Casualty Hospital has opened a campaign for $50,000 to be used for the purchase of additional equipment and the retirement of part of the indebtedness incurred in construction of its new building. This hospital has greatly expanded its field of community service during recent years. It fills a definite need for medical facilities in emergency cases, and in addition functions as a regular hospital. Accident victims are always received at Casualty Hospital without regard to their ability to pay, and a large percentage of patients are charity cases. The hospital needs and is deserving of generous support by the public.

New equipment is necessary to enable the hospital to maintain the high standard it has set for itself. The executive committee has no alternative but to appeal to the public to finance these improvements. The campaign gives opportunity for residents of the District to invest in a constructive type of philanthropy that will reach many people under circumstances in which aid is most needed.

LAW ENFORCEMENT BILLS.

Only one of the four major projects in the law enforcement campaign inaugurated by President Hoover fifteen months ago has been sanctioned by Congress. Last week the Senate approved the measure for transfer of the prohibition unit to the Department of Justice from the Treasury, and if the House concurs in a few minor amendments this bill will soon be ready for the President's signature.

The transfer will probably give new impetus to enforcement of the dry laws. Whether or not the liquor traffic will be substantially curbed is a question, however, because the new prohibition force will not be large enough to police the whole country. The States are neglecting the dry laws on the theory that the Government should enforce them, and as long as this condition exists the bootleg trade is certain to flourish.

Chances for enactment of the bill to create a unified border patrol do not appear bright. The administration is depending upon this measure to check rum running across the border as well as to restrict the unlawful entry of aliens and smuggling of all sorts. Congress is having trouble in making a satisfactory consolidation of all agencies that police the international boundaries, however, and has no disposition to press the matter. The vital question is whether one patrol can efficiently administer antismuggling, immigration and quarantine laws.

The other two major law enforcement projects concern relief of congestion in Federal courts and prisons. The first of a series of prison bills has just been signed by the President, and others are undergoing the legislative process. The bill enacted creates a Bureau of Prisons in the Department of Justice and concentrates responsibility for management of all Federal penal institutions under a single director. The foundation is thus laid for a new prison policy, but enactment of the bills providing new prison facilities, a probation system and a hospital for defectives is needed to round out the program.

All plans for relieving court congestion seem to have been abandoned, except those for appointment of additional judges. Inasmuch as congestion is localized in a few areas it can, no doubt, be relieved in this manner. It is highly desirable that Congress act on these bills before adjourning.

A CRIME LABORATORY.

Developments at the first International Congress on Mental Hygiene in Washington recently revived interest in the McNary bill to establish a laboratory for the study of crime. The bill is approved by leading medical and legal organizations of the country, including the American Bar and American Medical Associations. Twice it has been reported favorably by House judiciary committees, and once by the judiciary committee of the Senate, but its enactment has been neglected.

The bill would establish a laboratory "for the study of abnormal persons, and the collection of sociological and pathological data, especially such as may be found in the institutions for the criminal and defective classes." Work of the laboratory would be carried on under a director, to be appointed by the President, with the aid of an anthropologist, a criminologist, a psychologist, an alienist, a neurologist, a statistician and a translator, all of whom would be specialists in their various branches of science. The purpose of the institution would be "the prevention and lessening of crime, pauperism and defectiveness through knowledge gained by the scientific study of their causes;" in short, to expose the roots of crime.

Current literature is replete with theories as to the causes of crime, but actual scientific knowledge on the subject is wofully deficient. Segregation of criminals is a generally accepted principle, but no standard by which an intelligent segregation can be made has been set up. Distinction is made between criminals by nature and those forced into crime by their environment, but only meager attempts are made to differentiate the treatment of such cases. Science has not yet been applied to the most fundamental problems of crime.

Maintenance of law and order is a duty of the States. But even a most strict interpretation of the division of powers would not prohibit the Government from making available scientific information that would aid the States, as well as its own legal institutions, in the solution of this great problem. It is obviously impossible for a single State to undertake such a research project. By rendering this scientific aid the Government could make a most notable contribution to the campaign against lawlessness.

MR. COOLIDGE AND MR. BORGLUM

From the Boston Transcript.

The sculptor, Gutzon Borglum, who is the engineer and a sort of trusted superintendent, as well as the designer, of the gigantic monument to American achievement and glory on Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills of Dakota, is an acute sort of philosopher, a deep thinker, as well as an artist. Himself a native of Idaho, a child of the great trek to Utah, born, as it were, with great cosmic ideas in his head, he has been trained abroad; he is in a way a political reformer, with a strong tendency to universality of thought. His mind runs to colossalism. In his capacity as originator and consummator of the titanic memorial being carved on the big mountain in South Dakota, which rears its head very near to the geographical center of the United States, he has been in sympathy with the quite masterly compression into 500 words of our American history that former President Coolidge has written for inscription there. But he has now ventured to edit the inscription—in a way, to correct, ever so little, Mr. Coolidge's history. A presumptuous act, one may say, off-hand; but the amendments and emendations for the inscription which he has now made public at least reveal a philosophic basis. Mr. Coolidge's inscription is patriotic in every line. We do not think that Mr. Borglum is any the less patriotic, but he is probably more universal. His mind contemplates a time when, perhaps, Mount Rushmore may stand as a sort of historical beacon for the ages, rather than one for the United States alone—for a "universal Yankee nation" rather than for the one built out of Plymouth, Jamestown and New Amsterdam.

Mr. Borglum begins by putting in "the year of our Lord" where Mr. Coolidge spoke only of the Declaration of Independence. He thinks that the Christian Era is more important than the Fourth Day of July. "Happiness through self-government" he changes to "happiness, self-government." By the change he equals the two ideas, without making happiness dependent on self-government. Mr. Coolidge's paragraph about the Constitution Mr. Borglum amends only slightly, but his change subordinates the law to justice, instead of justice to the law. It is a philosophical refinement which, we imagine, Mr. Coolidge might accept readily enough. Indeed, Mr. Borglum's amendments are all slight, but they are significant of a more universal basis of thought than that which inspired the original document.

Mr. Borglum, it seems to us, must be acquitted of any impertinent intention in making his changes, but it may be doubted whether his amendments should stand. The colossal memorial, which owes so much to his initiative and his genius, is national after all. The Coolidge inscription is the product of a representative American mind. If it has limitations, they are American limitations.

LENDER AND BORROWER.

He borrowed money from his friend
And when the note was overdue
He thought "he had enough to spend
He doesn't need my dollars few.
His skies are fair, his wants supplied,
He'll never miss this sum I owe."
And so he tore to shreds his pride
And let the debt unhonored go.

Who borrows money grows to feel
Unhappy when the lender's near;
The laughter's strained, the jests unreal,
The smile becomes a fancied sneer.
And so the failing borrower shuns
The comradeship of days before.
While still the debt unsettled runs
He visits with his friend no more.

Perhaps, as he believes, 'tis true
His friend the money doesn't need,
And to the note, long overdue,
Perhaps he pays but little heed.
He may not miss the little sum,
But this he'll miss unto the end
The spoken word that doesn't come
To save the honor of a friend.

The Easiest Way to End a Boundary-Line Dispute Is a Partnership.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE ordinary people of the United States neither fear nor anticipate a war with England.

It is probable that the common people of England are equally innocent of any hope or fear of a war with the United States.

If the people of the two nations were not tricked by selfish and irresponsible agitators, they never would make war against one another.

Yet statesmen of the two countries, while carefully concealing their thoughts and motives, continually endeavor to obtain naval supremacy—or, at the least, equality of naval strength.

To any person of common sense it is clear that English statesmen do not desire a navy greater than America's to protect their country from Germany, France, Italy or Japan.

To any sensible person it is equally clear that statesmen of the United States who demand a navy equal to England's do not consider it necessary to protect their country against Japan, France, Italy or Germany.

The obvious truth is that the two groups of statesmen, however friendly they may be now, and however little they may expect or desire war between their countries, are planning their navies for use against one another.

Why should two friendly nations prepare weapons they do not need except as a protection from one another?

Because of that ancient bugaboo, "freedom of the seas."

Freedom of the seas has meant many things in the last century and a quarter, but now it means the right of one nation to ship her products where she will without fear of molestation by another nation.

War questions that right.

When England was at war with Germany, she seized American cargoes consigned to her enemy.

As a result she narrowly missed drawing America into the war on the wrong side.

If America were at war with Japan, it is quite certain that she would seize English cargoes consigned to Japanese ports.

No nation fighting for its life will permit a neutral to supply its enemy if there is any way to prevent it.

Yet no neutral nation will tolerate having its ships and cargoes seized by a belligerent if there is a way to prevent it.

A nation's right to seize cargoes shipped to her enemy, and a nation's right to ship her products where she will, are in open conflict and can not be reconciled.

Each nation will defend the right that for the moment seems more essential to her welfare.

Either, being at war, will thus risk making an enemy of the other.

And thus it is that each feels the need of a navy of sufficient strength to protect the right that the other may threaten.

Each friendly nation building fighting ships because necessity may require her to offend the other.

Why not settle the question by treaty?

Let each agree under no circumstances to molest the other's shipping, and each bind herself not to give clearance to cargoes of "contraband" destined for the other's enemy.

Such a treaty would make one the passive ally of the other, but isn't it saner to keep a strong man's friendship than to make a dollar by selling ammunition to his enemy?

THE TRIAL OF THE JAY-WALKER.

("All big cities are urged to make pedestrians subject to traffic signals."—News item.)

Prosecutor—Prisoner to the bar! What's your name?

Prisoner—Angus Tweezle.

Prosecutor—Angus, you are charged with violating the walking ordinance, the State statute governing the operation of shoes and the Federal amendment prohibiting hurrying home to dinner. Guilty or not guilty?

Prisoner—Well, I think——

Judge (rapping with gavel)—No thinking in this court Are you guilty or not guilty, as charged?

Prisoner—Not guilty, yerroner.

Judge—What is this man accused of?

Prosecutor—It is alleged that on the afternoon of May 17, being of sound mind, he did then and there defy the majesty of the law, the rights of automobile owners and the dignity of the police by stepping from the sidewalk and trying to get across the street, without waiting for the signal.

Judge (sternly)—A desperate character, indeed! Did he do any damage?

Prosecutor—He caused a fire department chief's car and a city ambulance to slow down to 65 miles an hour.

Judge—It's getting so these pedestrians have no regard for the rights of motorists. Call the first witness.

"Daredevil" McWinch (an ambulance driver and first witness)—Yerroner, I was driving down the street when this fellow, without the slightest warning, stepped from the curb.

Judge—How fast were you going?

McWinch—I was only doing 80.

Judge—Why the conservatism?

McWinch—Well, the patient was unconscious and it seemed a waste of time to try to frighten him.

Judge—Did the prisoner hit your car?

Prosecutor—Did he stop to ascertain the damage?

McWinch—No, sir.

Judge—Ah! A hit-and-run walker!

(The curtain will be lowered to denote the examination of fourteen othe witnesses. At the rise the prisoner is on the stand.)

Prosecutor—Now, then, why did you cross the street? . . . and don't pull that joke about the chicken.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

State Control of the Liquor Traffic Is Old Stuff—If Adopted the Country Would Soon Find Conditions as Intolerable as They Were in the Old Days.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Mr. Morrow's discussion as to the difference between State and Federal control of the liquor traffic, and your editorial approval of his position, together present a fine specimen of academic dialectics, but for practical purposes just about as valuable as the queryings of the medieval philosophers as to how many spirits could dance on the point of a needle.

At best, or at worst, the proposition to go back to State control of beverage liquor is "old stuff" tried out in this country for nearly a century and a half, then abandoned as a failure. Repeal the eighteenth amendment and return the liquor problem to the States? Then we'll be asked to pass it on down to the counties and municipalities and find ourselves back at the foot of the long hill we have been climbing through our country's entire history.

Mr. Morrow favors liberal appropriations for enforcement of the Volstead act "while it is the law." Now, will he go a step farther and advise everybody to obey that law "while it is the law." Such obedience would solve the whole liquor problem—and nothing else will.

COLUMBUS BRADFORD.

Friends of Prohibition Should Thank Dwight Morrow for Formulating an Issue—The Prohibition Question Should Be Fought Out in the Forthcoming Elections.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Ambassador Morrow made his political debut on a wet platform. Hitherto astute Republican politicians have artfully dodged the issue. We labor under the anomaly of a Republican President and Congress charged with the duty and responsibility of enforcing the eighteenth amendment, while the great Republican States back of them are admittedly wet. New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois, New Jersey and Ohio are the largest and wettest States in the Union.

Prohibition can not be efficiently enforced with a lukewarm and half-hearted constituency back of the Government. The true friends of prohibition ought to thank Ambassador Morrow for having had the courage to formulate a straight, clear-cut issue. Nor need they be intimidated by the cityfied straw vote of the Literary Digest. This is but a moot vote rather than a genuine test. Repeal of the amendment is all but unthinkable. That both branches of the Legislatures of 36 States will ever concur in such a proposal verges on the outer rim of impossibility.

The people must be educated as to the value and advantage of the law. If it takes a whole generation, the time would be well spent. The fifteenth and the eighteenth amendments are based upon sound moral and political principles, albeit an apathetic public sentiment makes them difficult of enforcement. Wisdom counsels the same procedure in both cases. Do not lower the standard to accommodate the present debased attitude based on passion and selfish interests, but bring the sentiment of the people up to the high standard set in these righteous laws.

Every candidate for Congress in the approaching election should be made to declare himself on prohibition in clear and unmistakable terms. Prohibition should be the dominant issue in the next presidential election. KELLY MILLER.

Pedestrians' Legal Rights Should Be More Sharply Defined and Enforced—Theory of the Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In legal theory the person who rides in a car has no more right in the street than the person who walks. The foot passenger is constantly yielding his right for the sake of his safety in life and limb. For a car driver to frighten a foot passenger or to terrorize him by honking his horn to say "Get out of my way!" is a technical assault at law. It is an actionable trespass for which damages may be recovered—any damages which a jury may find. A few hundred damage suits of this character might bring some automobile drivers to their senses.

For a car to actually strike a pedestrian in a highway or public plaza is a trespass to his person. It is a technical battery. In cases of forcible contact between a car and a person the true law is, or ought to be, that no questions are to be asked but who did it and how much are the damages? The whole risk of harm as between a foot passenger and an automobile ought to be on the automobile driver and his principal or employer. There is no other practical rule. The sooner this is plainly understood and rigorously enforced, the better it will be for all concerned. It is the car that does the damage, and the foot passenger has no control over the car. Striking a pedestrian under any circumstances whatever should be regarded as illegal. No exceptions should be permitted. The blind, the lame, the deaf and the young can not be denied the right to cross the streets.

Every car driver ought to have it burned into his consciousness that it is his absolute business in all cases to see the pedestrian and to let him pass on his way undisturbed. In every case where an automobile driver strikes a pedestrian in the street, the car should be seized and impounded and should not be released until the damages are settled and paid; and, if necessary, the car itself should be subjected to the payment of the damages, without regard to existing liens or titles

INDIAN POLICE BEAT OFF SALT BIN RAIDS

Spectators Squat in Road and Jeer as Guards Arrest Rebels.

ATROCITY TALES DENIED

Bombay, May 19 (A.P.).—India's battle against the government salt monopoly continued unabated today, but there was no mass violence nor were there any serious clashes with the police.

The activities of civil disobedience volunteers centered chiefly around the salt pans at Dharasana and Wardala. At the latter place the police used their sticks to drive the raiders away from the salt pans, injuring seven. They perspired heavily at this task, for the volunteers worked in small groups, one batch rushing to get into the barbed wire inclosure while the police were busy driving another out.

To break up one such incursion by 100 Nationalists, the police arrested 70, but 30 others got away with their hands full of salt. Spectators, meanwhile, squatted in the road and jeered at the efforts of the police.

Mass Action Arranged For.

The same system prevailed at Dharasana, where raids on the government salt works were instituted unsuccessfully last week by Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, woman leader of the civil disobedience movement since Mahatma Gandhi and Abbas Tyabji have been put in jail. Wednesday is expected to be a critical day at Dharasana, for mass action by thousands of volunteers has been arranged for that date.

Sholapur, the scene of serious rioting recently, has quited down under more than ten days of martial law and the mills resumed their regular hours today. The civil court is in session. The military court has sentenced 40 persons. One of them, Raj Wade, editor of a native paper, was given seven years in prison and a fine of 10,000 rupees (about $4,000). The others received smaller terms and fines.

A government statement said reports of mob atrocities in Sholapur at the height of disorder were false.

Hope Held for Missing Men.

"It is untrue," said the statement, "that policemen were tied together and burned alive, that one had his eyes gouged out, and that two were thrown into a well. It is hoped that all the missing men will yet be found."

One development which may have significance later was the arrest today at Helum of a large party of Akalis (Sikh devotees) who were marching to Peshawar to "express sympathy with the Pathans of that city."

Peshawar is the key city of the Indo-Afghan frontier and severe rioting occurred there some time ago. Pathans and Sikhs are both fighting tribes. Another party of 100 Akalis was understood to be headed for Peshawar and police prepared to intercept them.

Dewan Bahadur Ramchandra Iyer, member of the council of state, or Indian Senate, today sent a letter to Viceroy Lord Irwin tendering his resignation in protest "against imprisonment of Gandhi without trial, the revival of the press act, and illegal and unwarranted use of violence against the Satyagrahis and innocent members of the public in Madras and elsewhere."

GRUNDY AND BROWN APPEAR AS WINNERS

Grundy, but more of one between Grundy and W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, a persistent foe of organized labor.

Grundy will show strength in the rural vote which is more of a combination rural-banking vote than a wide expanse of farm lands. Grundy will receive considerable support from the dry women, too, of whom there are a batch out in the State. All told, there are a lot of influences behind Grundy that are most difficult for all the organized ward leaders to combat even if their heart were in the Davis cause, which it is not.

One prominent man in the Davis-Brown camp said today that had no wet ticket entered the field, Davis and Brown would have polled 69 per cent of the vote. With the wet ticket in he now figures Davis and Brown will poll 42 per cent, Grundy and Pinchot 39 and the wet ticket the rest.

Grundy-Davis Difference.

It is believed that Brown will get his 42 per cent, but Mr. Grundy will contest Mr. Davis for that 3 per cent difference between victory and defeat.

Another Davis-Brown chieftain agreed that Davis would have to get a 200,000 majority here to win. Some 560,000 are eligible to vote in the Quaker City, of which it is estimated 400,000 will actually participate in the Republican primary.

It will be most surprising if under the circumstances Davis can get a 200,000 majority in that event. When the local organization was functioning at its greatest efficiency back in 1926 it could only give its leader, William S. Vare himself, 220,000.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 19.—Really now, that Senate there in Washington has been responsible for a lot of wrong impressions in this country.

One has been given to believe that there was some peculiar race of people in Philadelphia known as Vare supporters; that they were advanced in many ways but quite wicked in others; that for one thing they had attained that ultimate of happiness of being able to vote after they were dead.

Well, they may be able to do that latter. Only tomorrow will determine that.

* * * *

BUT the suggestion that these people were different, that perhaps they had long ears and cloven hoofs and that their feet always moved in a direction opposite to that of their face—really there is nothing to that.

Why, one sees these little Vare supporters hustling along the street just as people are doing all over the United States. One is impressed with their similarity to other peoples at a roof garden dance.

They just shuffle along in unison to jazz beats just as do people elsewhere. Hundreds of trimly shod feet begin shuffling when the music begins and quit when it ends. Pretty eager faces snuggle up to panting men's breasts, and their feet turn this way sometimes and that way at others, then they march out to the right and make a quick twirl and march over to the left, then the right foot strikes out boldly down the hall and the left one moves swiftly after it, and so on.

Now that is not anything peculiar to Vare supporters. That is dancing recognized as such all over the country, indeed, universally.

* * * *

THERE are the expressions of the faces, some eager and intent, making quite a serious business out of dancing, and others carefree and gay and streaked with perspiration.

Wending through the crowd, too, and passing your table now and then is the statuesque blond, expressionless and although in step with her partner, really dancing all by herself. Occasionally, when the man makes the supreme effort at a dickens of a little step, she will allow the faintest flicker of a smile in recognition. Obviously it is a case of a buyer just come to town and the girl at the store whose business it is not to let him think too much of home, not until he has made his purchases, at least.

But is any of this only of that race known as Vare supporters? Absolutely not. These people may have their little eccentricities in voting, but otherwise they are just like the Washingtonians. And they can dance just as well as the Progressives, as well as either Senator Norris or Senator Borah.

SECRET NAVAL PACT FILES TO BE SOUGHT BY JOHNSON

inch ships than America believed she should have.

Admiral Jones, in seeking to prevent the yardstick from being used to British advantage, emphasized in his report advantages of the 6-inch cruiser to the British and stated that in some respects it was more advantageous than the heavier-gun cruiser of 10,000 tons.

Senator Reed used the memorandum effectively yesterday in an effort to break down the contention of naval officers that the 6-inch gun ship has no defenders outside of Admiral Pratt in the naval service. It was in consequence of this development that Admiral Jones was later asked about the confidential recommendations he had made to the American delegation at London. This memorandum became part of the record and is thereby made public for the first time.

"As adviser to the American delegation I am compelled to express an opinion in opposition to the tentative plan of the American delegation," Admiral Jones stated in his confidential report dated February 5, 1930.

Objections by Admiral.

The proposed plan, he said, "departs dangerously from the standard of parity accepted, in that the tonnage in the type of cruiser most useful to us is decreased and the tonnage in the type of cruiser less useful to us in increased.

"The tentative plan," he added, "has the effect of standardization to a certain extent in a type most suitable to Great Britain, due to her possession of numerous and strategically well located bases, as well as a greatly preponderent merchant tonnage readily convertible into auxiliary 6-inch cruisers and less suitable to us, due to our lack of such bases and merchant tonnage."

The Naval War College, charged with the duty of passing judgment on matters of naval policy, is quoted by Admiral Jones in support of the warning against jeopardizing the national defense. The Naval War College emphasized the imperative need of the 8-inch gun program as follows:

Naval War College Warning.

"Having decided upon the number of cruisers required for duty with the battle fleet, the logical thing to do is to utilize the remaining tonnage available in that category for construction of cruisers best fitted for performance of duties outlined, etc.

"Every ton worked into a cruiser that is not best fitted for this exercise of control, after the battle fleet cruisers have been provided for, is, militarily speaking, not the most efficient employment of that tonnage.

"In view of the above," Admiral Jones continued in his confidential report, "I am convinced that the tentative plan of the American delegation of February 5, 1930, weakens the relative naval strength of the United States, both as regards the original building program approved by Congress, that is, of 23 10,000-ton 8-inch-gun cruisers and also the modified program, approved by the general board, given above, in that it decreases tonnage most suitable to the needs of the United States and increases tonnage less suitable to needs of the United States."

Agreement on Program.

The warning of Admiral Jones, the general board of the Navy and the Naval War College against the tentative American program was directed against that program before further concessions were made as a price of harmony in response to pressure from the Japanese. In other words, combined naval opinion, it was explained, regarded 18 cruisers of 10,000 tons with 8-inch guns as constituting a dangerous and untenable program for the United States. The delegation finally agreed to a sixteen-cruiser program during the life of the treaty.

Final tonnage figures of auxiliary ships built and building on December, 1936, it was developed, will be as follows: United States, 555,130 tons; Great Britain, 637,405; Japan, 399,950. On the basis of 100 for the United States, the figures are: Great Britain, 115, and Japan, 72.6 The Washington treaty ratios would give the United States 100; Great Britain, 100, and Japan, 60, instead of the figures actually provided for.

Admiral Bristol testified that cruiser ratios in the London pact represent a departure from the 5-5-3 ratio, and that both Great Britain and Japan gain by the change. Ratios provided for at London are: Great Britain, 5.6; United States, 5, and Japan, 3.4.

Confidential Data Discussed.

Senator Hiram Johnson presided at the opening of yesterday's session before the foreign relations committee when Admiral Bristol took the stand. A compromise proposal under which the general board agreed to a minimum of 21 8-inch gun 10,000-ton cruisers, in response to diplomatic pressure, is part of the record of the hearings and Senator Johnson sought to identify a long series of confidential dispatches passing between the British government and the Government of the United States relative to a change in the American heavy-gun cruiser program.

Admiral Bristol admitted that such dispatches were in existence and he produced a bulky package containing them, though he was reluctant to disclose their highly confidential nature without authority of the State Department.

Senator Swanson was the first to urge that they be kept secret until the Secretary of State examined them.

"They are in confidential code between Washington and London," interjected Senator Reed.

Characterized as Pleadings.

Admiral Bristol characterized them as pleadings and said the general board's report was based on information therein contained. Senator Walsh, of Montana, feared that confidential information would be divulged and spoke of an executive session. Senator Swanson suggested that the Secretary of State be summoned before they be given to the public. Senator Johnson then served notice that he would call for production of these dispatches.

He maintained that the general board's response to confidential entreaties relative to cutting down the strength of the American Navy should be considered in connection with secret information upon which the board's report was based.

Senator Johnson with difficulty sought to obtain replies from Admiral Bristol to particular issues raised by the general board's report as to the proposed London treaty. Interruptions by Senators Swanson and Robinson prevented answers to Senator Johnson's questions until Senator Borah, who arrived a few minutes late and took charge, intervened on behalf of orderly procedure. Admiral Bristol succeeded in answering two questions and stating that he did not believe an arms limitation was advisable or necessary at this time or that America had obtained parity by the treaty before the hearing was enlivened by a determined attempt on the part of Senator Robinson to challenge the trend of Admiral Bristol's testimony.

The senator from Arkansas, in fiery mood, and the admiral became centers of interest as Mr. Robinson demanded to know by what right a naval officer expressed opinions as to the necessity or lack of necessity for negotiating treaties.

"He has the right of any American citizen to have an opinion," interjected Senator Robinson, of Indiana.

"Not only have I a right, but I have a duty to state anything that would be of assistance to this committee," Admiral Bristol shot back.

Testifying before the naval affairs committee during the afternoon, Admiral Jones stated that he only conferred with the delegation twice after his recommendation opposing the first tentative American cruiser proposal. Each proposal after that represented a further yielding to the British and Japanese, he stated, but at no time did Admiral Jones retreat from his original recommendation and he does not retreat from it now. Admiral Bristol will resume his testimony before the foreign relations committee this morning.

FRENCH PRESS RAPS VIEWS OF MUSSOLINI

Nationalistic Stand Likened to That Taken by Kaiser Before World War.

ROME HAILS SPEECHES

Paris, May 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—France has let Benito Mussolini, Italy's dictator, know as directly as possible, short of diplomatic action, that the series of verbal pictures drawn by him in speeches during his recent tour of Tuscany are extremely disquieting to this country. The French press bluntly charges the Italian premier with talking the way the former kaiser used to talk just before the World War.

Le Temps, which on occasions such as this, serves as a semiofficial channel for expression of the French government's views, comments this evening: "The tone of the last speech of Prime Minister Mussolini reveals the existence on the other side of the Alps of a state of mind which is not very reassuring to friends of peace.

"Before the catastrophic war of 1914 it happened on the other side of the Rhine that at every difficult political moment an imperial voice made the same kind of speeches. When he naively believed that his proud words could add something to the prestige of imperial Germany, or when he wished to create a diversion at a moment of domestic difficulty, he who was the third and last German emperor, and who is now only the deserter of Spa and the exile of Doorn, loved to talk about dry powder and the sharp sword."

Talk Held Indiscreet.

"It was bad literature for the purpose of mediocre political tactics. Finally, the former kaiser, prisoner of the warlike state of mind which he himself had created, wished to pass from words to acts, and four tragic years marked by millions of human bodies followed."

Le Temps goes on to say that the Italian premier has chosen a poor moment for warlike talk when all the world is reading Foreign Minister Aristide Briand's latest plan for a durable peace.

Support in Fascist Press.

Rome, May 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Prime Minister Benito Mussolini's two recent speeches at Florence are still the great theme of the Fascist press. The references of Italy's dictator to the dangers which threaten the frontiers of this country are interpreted by editorial commentators as an affirmation that Italy will never consent to naval inferiority. Italy, powerfully armed, will soon be in a position, Roman newspapers say, to impose the alternative of her beneficient friendship or serve enmity.

While the Fascist press thus echoes the premier's speeches on his tour of Tuscany, Mussolini has gone incognito to Milan for a visit at the home there of his brother, Arnaldo Mussolini.

All the Fascist newspapers emphasize the phrases in which Il Duce declared that Fascism is not a reaction, but a revolution and that only Mussolini's Italy can impose its destiny upon a corrupt and erring world.

Body of Washburn Reaches America

Salute Fired as Leviathan Arrives With Remains of Envoy to Austria.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Accompanied by his widow and son, the body of Albert H. Washburn, late American Minister to Austria, arrived in New York today on the way to Middleboro, Mass., for burial.

Mrs. Washburn and her son, Lincoln, who returned with the body on the Leviathan, were met at quarantine by Joseph Flack, of the State Department, and Maj. William W. Hicks, former American military attache at Vienna. A minister's salute of fifteen guns was fired from Fort Jay as the Leviathan passed up the harbor and another as the flag-draped casket was placed upon an Army caisson at the pier and escorted by troops to the Grand Central Station.

The casket was placed aboard a train for Boston at 5 o'clock (Eastern standard time) tonight, accompanied by Mr. Flack and Maj. Hicks. In Boston Mrs. Washburn will complete arrangements for the funeral, to be held in Middleboro Wednesday afternoon.

PAN-EUROPA PARLEY LAUDS BRIAND MOVE

Project for Federal Union Called First Practical Step Toward Goal.

LONDON REMAINS COOL

Berlin, May 19 (A.P.).—The Pan-European conference, after discussing all day the European Federal Union memorandum of Foreign Minister Briand of France, tonight telegraphed M. Briand hearty congratulations of his "courageoue and decisive move toward the development of a European Federal Union."

Resolutions formally praising the memorandum were adopted by the delegates, who represent every country in Europe. As the conference voted its approval of this "first practical step" towards Pan-Europ, the Pan-Europa flag of a red cross in a golden sun against a blue field floated over the meeting place.

London, May 19 (N.W.Y.N.S.).—The plan of Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France, for establishment of a federation of European nations has been received in London without enthusiasm and in sime quarters here is sharply criticized.

Much editorial cold water is thrown on the project by leading newspapers of all political persuasions. M. Briand is credited with good intentions and is given the blessings of some commentators, but there British interest seems to end.

London newspapers are unanimous in suggesting that there is small likelihood of Great Britain's becoming a member of such a federation as M. Briand envisages, if only because of the relations existing between Great Britain and the dominions.

Though formal official comment is withheld for the time being, editorial comment is understood to reflect fairly accurately what will ultimately be disclosed as the attitude of the British government.

WOMEN'S SHOES, THIRD FLOOR

PRISON BREAK BRIEF FOR 'CAT EYE' ANNIE

Jewel Thief Who Escaped From Auburn Captured by Autoist's Ruse.

WANTED IN BALTIMORE

Auburn, N. Y., May 19 (A.P.).—"Cat Eye Annie" McDowell, notorious jewel thief who escaped from the Auburn Women's Prison this morning was back in her cell tonight, the last of her many escape plots gone awry after she had gotten 15 miles away from the institution.

In a break that baffled prison officials in many ways she sawed through the wood surrounding the lock of her cell door, crept down a corridor to a reception room on the first floor, donned clothing belonging to Acting Warden Frank L. Heacox of the men's prison, and got away. No one knew just how she scaled the walls.

Less than seven hours after her escape was discovered she was taken into custody by a trick, while she trudged along a road to Syracuse. Near Bennetts Corners a Syracuse motorist, seeing her in man's attire and having heard of the escape, became suspicious. He offered her a ride, then telephoned Trooper William Stevenson at the State police substation at Elbridge, asking to be met at Bennets Corners.

Returned to Prison.

Annie, who got the name, "Cat-Eye" from a peculiar cast in one eye, was surprised and made no resistance. She immediately was hurried back to the prison in the same car in which she had hoped to make her way beyond the widening circle of searchers.

Matron Discovers Escape.

A matron, Mrs. Margaret Ibbotson, on her last round at the prison this morning, discovered the woman's cell door ajar and the escape. On the cell cot a blanket had been rolled up to resemble a sleeper. Another blanket had been cut, as though intended for a pair of trousers.

Endowed with an almost uncanny ability of getting out of places of confinement, the woman long has given law officers trouble. On October 7, 1925, she was brought back to Buffalo from Milwaukee, Wis., on a charge of grand larceny. She had stolen $75,000 worth of jewels from the home of Louis J. Surdam, Buffalo, while working as a maid, one of her favorite methods.

Thirteen days later she escaped from the Erie County Jail by leaping from a second-story window. Her ankle was sprained but she reached Kenmore, a suburb, by street car, there to hide in a house under construction. Brought into court two days later on a stretcher, she pleaded guilty to grand larceny and was sentenced to Auburn Prison for ten years. She reached the prison October 28.

On May 28, 1926, she escaped from the prison here, using a short iron window prop, a spoon and her bare hands to dig a hole through her cell's brick wall, virtually under the eyes of guards. With a plank she scaled the walls. Twenty-six hours later she was captured, rain-soaked and exhausted, hidden under a straw pile near Weedsport, N. Y. She nearly died of pneumonia.

Baltimore, May 19 (A.P.).—Lillian "Cat Eye" Annie" McDowell, captured after seven hours of freedom from prison, where she had escaped today, is wanted by Baltimore police for the larceny of $20,000 in jewels from Nathan L. Kaufman. A detainer is on record against her so that she may be tried here after completing her New York sentence.

The woman is alleged to have advertised for a maid, demanded references and then retained them to obtain employment by the Kaufman family. She and the jewels disappeared at the same time.

Fete to Be Staged By 1,500 Children

First Kindergarten Festival Since World War Set for Today.

The first kindergarten festival since the World War will be staged in the stadium of Central High School at 10 o'clock this morning. Approximately 1,500 children, all 5 years old, will participate.

They will represent the first, third and part of the fifth kindergarten divisions of the city. There is no second division. Rhythm exercises and games will constitute the first portion of the program and a pageant entitled "The Awakening of Spring" will be presented in the last half.

At 10 o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, May 27, kindergarten children in the remainder of the fifth division and the sixth and seventh divisions will present a similar program in the stadium of Eastern High School. Approximately 1,500 children of 5 years of age will also appear in this festival. Miss Catherine Watkins, director of public kindergartens of the District of Columbia, is in charge of both programs. In case of rain, the festival today will be postponed.

2,300 Quarts of Whisky Seized.

Pittsburgh, May 19 (A.P.).—Seizure of 2,300 quarts of Scotch whisky in the Pennsylvania Railroad yards at Aspinwall, a suburb, was reported today by prohibition agents. The shipment was labeled as "bolts and nuts" from "the Superior Bolt & Screw Corporation," and had been sent from Detroit.

BAKER CASE SANITY HEARING DUE TODAY

Agents of the Federal authorities again questioned Brewster yesterday and expressed more credence in his story.

Three significant parts of his confession are his placement of the machine at the place where it was parked, the designation by him of the exact point of abandonment, and his description of the manner in which he disposed of the body.

Other parts of his confession are not aligned with the established facts.

Search for the gun with which he said the girl was killed was continued yesterday in the underbrush skirting Cemetery road just west of the culvert where the body was found. Employes of the Arlington County road force began cutting away the dense underbrush under the supervision of Department of Justice agents who were assisted by Arlington County police.

Department of Justice agents are impressed by narration of details by Brewster which are known only to investigators and which, it is said, could not be gleaned from reading newspaper accounts of the killing.

Interrogators are in almost constant bewilderment during their inquisition of the suspect. They have sought convincing statements from him and when they are most accepted he either denies or "forgets."

Inspector Shelby has gathered a collection of .32-caliber guns which have been sold to dealers since April 11, the day of the murder. These have been turned over to the Bureau of Standards for examination by ballistic experts, who will compare bullets from the guns with those taken from the girl's body.

Still Kept in Guardhouse.

Brewster is still confined in the guardhouse at the barracks. There is a constant guard outside.

In spite of the outcome of the sanity hearing, it will be necessary to find some corroborative evidence to support Brewster's statements. Several parts of his story are being checked in search of supporting evidence. None had been found last night. The confession again renewed public interest in the case and there was a constant parade yesterday of clew finders into District headquarters. Several handkerchiefs were among the collection. None is considered of any importance.

Mrs. Mabelle Davis, who lives on Cemetery road, heard three shots on the night of April 11, police learned yesterday. About 9:30 o'clock she heard three reports in quick succession. She also said she heard a speeding automobile go past her house, the grinding of brakes and then a woman scream, "Oh, my God! Leave me alone."

Again Contradicts Self.

Police are almost certain Brewster is suffering from mental aberrations. Just after he denied the crime yesterday he was shown a .32-caliber gun, which he said was of the type with which he killed the girl.

When asked if Miss Baker's body was bleeding when he lifted her from the car he said it was bleeding from the neck and side. He described minutely the girl's wearing apparel.

Brewster also described a small path near Rice Pond which he said he followed after he had washed his hands in the water. He denied that he went through the cemetery on the night of the killing, saying that he made his escape over the Highway Bridge.

He is familiar with the territory, having been assigned frequently to take horses from the stable at the headquarters company to Fort Myer. He has been in the habit of going through the Sheridan gate through the woods to Fort Myer.

THREE GUN VICTIMS SLAIN IN NEW YORK

Bodies of Two, Riddled With Bullets Found Piled in Brooklyn Street.

THIRD SHOT FOUR TIMES

New York, May 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Three more names were added to the city's 1930 murder total today. Anthony Calderone, 25, and his friend and neighbor, Salvatore Sazalino, 24, were found on a sidewalk in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, one body on top of the other and both riddled with bullets. Jack Valente, 22, was found dead on Forty-seventh street, with four bullet holes in the head.

In both cases the bodies were discovered by the patrolmen on the beat, and all three were identified because they had police records, through fingerprints. In neither case were the police able to find substantial clews today that might indicate who the killers were.

It is known that Calderone and Sazalino were interested in a "floating" card and crap game in New York, and the most likely theory is that they were taken for a ride and killed on the way over to Brooklyn, perhaps because they held out on receipts from the game.

The bodies were discovered by Patrolman Henry Steger at 4:15 a. m., when he went to pull the police box at the corner. Calderone was shot twice in the back and once behind the left ear. Sazalino was shot twice in the back.

Both bodies had been carefully stripped of all identifying objects and markings. In Calderone's pocket was found a .32 automatic pistol from which three shots had been fired comparatively recently. Sazalino's person yielded only a dime. Dr. M. E. Martin, who was called to the spot, revealed that Calderone had been shot several hours before the body was found, whereas Sazalino had been dead only about 20 minutes.

It was pointed out that Sazalino may have remained alive for some time after being shot, thus accounting for the difference in the time of the deaths. The other theory was that Sazalino may have been a member of the group which took Calderone for the "ride" and was himself killed by other members of the gang while placing his friend's body on the sidewalk.

Four empty cartridges were found beside Valente's body, indicating that he had been shot on the spot. Police are holding for questioning John Esposito and his wife, Rose. Valente's mother informed detectives that the woman had been friendly with her son.

ELECTRIFIED OVER THE ROCKIES TO THE SEA

"IN THE PLAYHOUSE"
by
JOHN J. DALY

Advertising was in the air last night at the National. The Washington Advertising Club played host to delegates attending the national convention of the Advertising Federation of America—and the play was "It Pays to Advertise." Well, it does!

The National Theater Players never turned in a better job. They went at the old Rol Cooper Megrue comedy hammer and tongs—and even the advertising men and their ladies had to laugh at all the nonsensicalities that came in the wake of an enterprising young man trying to put over a line of soap.

The company stepped to the rostrum to recite their lines in fast fashion. Freddie Sherman, who has been playing goodly parts in the past, was given the reins last night—and established himself a real player of important roles. Miss Marion Wells, the leading lady, was the young miss who help the adventurous advertising man "put it over." Romaine Callender played the part of the father—and he came up to his usual standard, which is to say that he turned in a perfect performance. No matter what the director, Clifford Brooke, hands Mr. Callender, Mr. Callender comes through.

It remained for Mrs. Hibbard to charm the audience in the role of a French maid—and from the accent she displayed last night she must have been hobnobbing here of late in the embassy circles. Walter Gilbert was cast in a role of importance, a publicity agent—and he made some of the boys out front envy him his tactics.

Somewhere Mr. Brooke dug a trick stage Englishman in the person of Fred Leslie—and he proved to be one of the delights of the performance. Others in the cast were: Edward Poland, Ivan Millar, Forrest Orr, and H. Dudley Haeley. They all contrived to give one of the best entertainments of the spring season.

Man Reports Theft of His Watch.

Max Zwikler, of 528 Twentieth street northwest, told police yesterday that someone had stolen a watch valued at $60 from a bedroom at that address.

SELF-STYLED KILLER OF NINE FACES TRIAL

James Baker, Charged With Slaying Watchman, Called Insane.

EIGHT JURORS SELECTED

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—James Baker, who says he has killed nine men and wouldn't mind dying in the electric chair if they'll broadcast his last words, went on trial for his life today.

He is being tried for the murder of Henry Gaw, night watchman in the Guggenheim Laboratories here, who was found dead a year ago last December in the laboratory, a telephone book torn in half on his chest. Baker is alleged to have confessed he forced Gaw to drink poisoned coffee at pistol point. He is a former employe of the laboratory.

James D. C. Murray, Baker's attorney, insists his client is insane. Seven of the nine murders Baker claims to have committed have never been traced, which led even police to doubt his sanity. Only the Gaw murder here and that of a taxicab chauffeur in Detroit, where he hid while police sought him, have definitely been traced to the young Texan.

Baker has been under observation of city alienists, whose verdicts on his sanity probably will be part of the trial record, and a defense alienist is watching his actions in court.

Eight jurors were selected tentatively today. Clara Gaw, of Denver, mother of the poisoned watchman, was in court today. She may be called as a State witness.

Electric Fans Stolen From Auto.

James E. Davis, of 941 H street northwest, told police last night that four electric fans valued at $100 were stolen from his auto while it was parked in front of his home.

PIKE'S PEAK TEST JOLTS AMERICA'S MOTOR OIL OPINIONS

CONTEST BOARD AAA
CERTIFIED TEST
All performance claims herewith made are based on a Certificate of Performance issued by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association
No. 2246
CONOCO

Here's How Some men prefer one kind of motor oil, some another. The jolt comes when the Pike's Peak Tests prove that most of these opinions are comfortable, convenient, but not correct! . . . The generality that certain brands are better merely because they come from certain States was quietly exploded. Now we know that Mid-Continent paraffin oil rates with that of any State or locality. . . . Thousands buy by a respected color or trade mark, and not a few just don't care, and still buy on price. . . . The time is ripe for real facts. By the Pike's Peak Tests, conducted under the supervision of AAA observers, we are prepared to present dependable CONOCO facts (or facts on CONOCO Germ-Processed Oils).

The outstanding results of these Pike's Peak tests reveal many points of unusual significance. Under the conditions of the tests, which were comparable to severe service, these points were: Motor Wear . . . Germ-Processed oil reduced it 76.4% throughout these tests, under that of the other oils used as a group. Cost of Lubrication . . . Germ-Processed oil showed an appreciable saving of 6.1%. Oil Economy . . . wins by 3.9%. Gasoline Economy . . . a gain of 7.2%. Loss of Viscosity . . . Germ-Processed oil was in 34% better condition after the tests than were the other. Carbon . . . shows an appreciable decrease after Germ-Processed oil was used. Water Temperature . . . was lower with CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil.

Remember, CONOCO selects Mid-Continent paraffin base crude, and from this refines what we believe to be a remarkable oil. Then the "germ-essence" is added, which gives this oil that remarkable ability to penetrate metal surfaces. This new oil provides "Penetrative Lubricity" . . . reducing friction under all conditions, particularly in starting and at high speeds.

The strength of oil film is indicated by its resistance to heat and pressure. CONOCO's film strength was proven to be better in the Pike's Peak tests than the other oils used by lowering water temperature in the radiators, by reducing motor wear 76.4%, and by retaining a higher degree of viscosity.

After each oil was tested, a graphic ammeter voltmeter was used to indicate the amount of electricity needed to turn over the cold motors. These graphs showed that more electricity was required to revolve the motor while using CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil, indicating more efficient piston ring seal and higher compression.

With Germ-Processed oils, after standing all night, the sealing film was on the job, and stayed there . . . and the charts disclosed the high compression resistance to the starter motor. This is film tenacity. Germ-Process is Conoco-owned. And Germ-Process positively will reduce your car-operation expense, and lengthen motor life, by providing Penetrative Lubricity. We invite you to select any operating condition, no matter how severe, and we guarantee that CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil will meet them better than the oil you have been using!

The New Free Booklet, "Pike's Peak Tests Confirm Conoco's Challenge," is ready. It will give you the detailed story of these tests, with photographs. Address, Continental Oil Company, Ponca City, Oklahoma, or inquire at the nearest service station displaying the Red Triangle

The greatest publication merger in the history of the South

EFFECTIVE September first, 1930, The Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist will be produced as one publication to be known as The Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist.

Constituting one of the outstanding periodical mergers of all time, The Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, with backgrounds of 80 publishing years, combine to form the most powerful agricultural medium of the South, with circulation of over one million net paid.

Long recognized as indisputable leaders in their field, the merging publications present, for the first time, opportunity to obtain complete and dominant South-wide coverage through one medium.

Both publications during their individual lives have sponsored or been identified in a major manner with every worthwhile farm and rural home movement in the South. As a result, the individual editorial and administrative personnel of both publications will, with slight changes, continue their activity for the new publication, management and control remaining with Progressive Farmer.

A publishing policy has been formulated which acknowledges the leadership enjoyed by Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, and recognizes the worthiness of their position with both advertisers and readers. The respective policies of both papers have been consolidated to establish the aims and objectives of the new enterprise.

The most modern and advanced plans of present-day publishing principles will be continued to protect the position of this greatest medium covering one of the country's most important markets.

In short, the inception of "The Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist" prompts its publishers to recognize that the responsibilities of this huge property entail the obligation of producing an advertising vehicle worthy of exploitation as a magazine guaranteeing one paper coverage!

In a brief decade or two the South has come into its own, and is rapidly being accorded its just recognition. Now this vast market, predominantly rural, can be blanketed with a powerful medium that has grown with it, that has earned its respect, that has helped build its importance and counsel its judgments.

"THE PROGRESSIVE FARMER AND SOUTHERN RURALIST," as the publication will be known after September 1st, is the only publication offering these three advantages:

1. Complete and dominant coverage of a primary market.
2. Highly localized (separate edition) editorial service with resultant reader influence.
3. Advertising rate of one-half cent a line per thousand subscribers.

Five separate editions will be published semi-monthly, one for each of the five well-defined agricultural areas of the South.

Effective September 1st, 1930, one million net paid circulation guaranteed. Rate $5.00 per line, equivalent to a page rate of $3.64 per thousand subscribers.

Frances Hart To Give Talk In Arts Club

Author of Crime Stories Will Speak About Murder Trials.

By JEAN ELIOT.

MEMBERS of the Arts Club who are interested in detective thrillers—and who isn't?—are looking forward with considerable enthusiasm to the evening dinner at the club tonight, at which Frances Noyes Hart is to be guest of honor and speaker. This daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brett Noyes, who in private life is Mrs. Edward Hart, is known to readers of mystery tales all over the country for her "The Bellamy Trial" and "Hide in the Dark." Moreover, as one of the judges for the Crime Club, she reads innumerable murder and detective stories and may be considered an authority on their technique.

At the Arts Club Mrs. Hart will discuss murder trials in real life, notably the Hall-Mills trial, which she covered for a newspaper syndicate in a series of articles which were discussed all over the country and which she considers her best literary work. From this experience she gleaned most of the background for "The Bellamy Trial," using some of the witnesses as prototypes for minor characters in the novel.

Before writing "The Bellamy Trial," Mrs. Hart made a prolonged study of criminal procedure, so that accuracy of detail in her story was the subject of much comment. She has a rare collection of records of famous murder trials both in this country and abroad, but finds her notes on English trials especially interesting, because in England the most distinguished men of the legal professions specialize in criminal cases.

Although Mrs. Hart was author of many charming short stories and several novels before she turned her attention to mystery stories, it is this popular form of novel which has made her name a household word. "The Bellamy Trial" was a best seller, and the motion-picture made from it was conspicuously successful. It was this tale which inspired Mary Roberts Rinehart, author of "The Bat" and many other spectacularly successful thrillers, to write to Mrs. Hart, "If I had your talent or you had my energy—what a story either could write!"

At present Mrs. Hart is staying with Mr. and Mrs. Noyes at their house in Vermont avenue. This boasts the most charming winter garden in Washington. It is glassed in and roofed with glass, but walls and ceiling are so veiled with vines as to give an impression of the out of doors. A little flagged path leads to a white gate in a brick wall and comfortable garden chairs are grouped about a fine old well head. Moreover, there are beds of old timey garden flowers, which horticulturalists told Mrs. Noyes she couldn't possibly grow under glass, but which she promptly proceeded to grow most successfully.

Dr. DeWitt Croissant, professor of English at George Washington University, is to be host at the Arts Club dinner.

The Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara entertained at dinner last evening when their guests included the Ambassador of Mexico and Mme. Tellez, Senator and Mrs. Claude Swanson, Senator and Mrs. James Couzens, the Minister of the Netherlands, Mr. J. H. van Ragen; Representative and Mrs. Fred Britten, Sir John and Lady Broderick, Mr. and Mrs. William McClellan Ritter, Mr. and Mrs. John Phillip Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Oulahan, Dr. and Mrs. James Brown Scott, Prince Rospigliosi, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Director General the Pan-American Union; Col. Marco Pennaroli, Military Attache of the Italian Embassy; Senor Luis Churion, Dr. Louis Wiley, Mrs. James C. Frazer, Mrs. Tracy Dows, Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew, Mrs. Thomas Walsh, Miss Sheridan, Miss Patten, Mrs. Charles W. Trippe, Dr. and Mrs. Jose T. Baron and Dr. and Mrs. Rodriguez Capote.

Hungarian Minister To Go to Newport.

The Hungarian Minister and Countess Szechenyi expect to go to Newport for the summer, occupying either the Breakers, home of Countess Szechenyi's mother, Mrs. Vanderbilt, or the Harry Payne Whitney villa in Bellevue avenue. The Hungarian Legation will be established at the Mount Vernon, which will be headquarters for the Counselor of the Legation and Mme. Pelenyi and Baron Paul Schell, the attache.

The Minister of Greece and Mme. Simopoulos are to occupy the Covell cottage for the summer and the Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles A. Davila, will establish the summer legation in one of the Pinard cottages.

Rev. H. F. F. Sawbridge To Wed Miss Wylie.

Mrs. K. V. H. Wylie announces the engagement of her daughetr, Miss Margaret Wylie, to the Rev. Hugh F. Sawbridge. As Dr. Sawbridge is on a short leave from England, the marriage will take place quietly on Tuesday, June 3.

The Rev. Mr. Sawbridge will be remembered as having been in Washington for several winters as chaplain to Toc H. He is continuing his work with Toc H in England, where he and his bride will make their home.

Miss Wylie is a graduate of Bryn Mawr. In her sophomore year she was unanimously chosen by the students of Bryn Mawr to be their May queen in the Elizabeth May Day frolic on the college green. The selection was by popular vote and went to the most beautiful girl in college and the one who came nearest to the students' ideal of the Maid Marian of tradition.

The Minister of Siam, Maj. Gen. Prince Amoradat Kridakara, will leave Washington the later part of next month to spend some time at Lake George.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Drain, of Spokane, Wash., are at Wardman Park Hotel for a few days. They are making no social engagements because of the death last Tuesday of their daughter, Mrs. Clarence A. Hemphill, of Evanston, Ill. Mrs. Hemphill, who was Miss Marian Whitley Drain, made her debut in Washington while Mr. and Mrs. Drain were living here.

Col. and Mrs. Powell Entertain at Dinner.

Col. and Mrs. E. Alexander Powell entertained at dinner last evening at Journey's End, their charming home in Chevy Chase, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson. The guests included the Minister of Siam, Maj. Gen. Prince Amoradat Kridakara; Gen. and Mrs. Mason Patrick, Col. and Mrs. James Brady Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Todd Mallory, of Philadelphia; Mr. Wilfred Conrow, of New York, and Miss Bettie Powell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Ives Washburn, who were week-end guests of Col. and Mrs. Powell, have returned to New York, and Miss Betsy Leffingwell left yesterday for Forest Hills, Long Island, after a ten-day visit at Journey's End.

Mrs. John N. Greely entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Chevy Chase Club in honor of Mrs. Harry G. Bishop, wife of Maj. Gen. Bishop, U. S. A., the new chief of Field Artillery.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Merriam, who have been at the home of their daughter, Mrs. James F. Curtis, for the winter and spring season, have taken the Lieber Cottage at Newport for the summer. Their son, Capt. John H. Merriam, is in charge of the naval supply office at Newport.

Capt. M. A. Stuart, U. S. N., and Mrs. Stuart, were the guests in whose honor Maj. and Mrs. E. H. Conger entertained at dinner last evening. The other guests were Mrs. T. Y. Leonard, Mrs. A. H. Dunbar and Mrs. W. P. Dunlap, who are visiting Mrs. Stuart, and Dr. and Mrs. George B. Tribble and Col. and Mrs. William Wrightson.

Mrs. T. DeWitt Talmadge passed the week-end at the Ambassador Hotel in Atlantic City.

Players Come To Do Battle For Davis Cup

Annual Tourney Will Be Held This Week at Chevy Chase.

Off with the horse show, on with the Davis Cup matches. Contestants for this international tourney, which will be held at the Chevy Chase Club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons are already in town and preparations are being made for their entertainment, although evening parties scheduled will probably not take place until after the matches. The teams are on a rigid training schedule. Flower Show To Be Held in Georgetown Annual Event Will Open Tomorrow in Chapel on P Street.

The 2,500 persons who last week made the pilgrimage of some of the gardens of Georgetown, will have this week an opportunity to see what some of those gardens with many others, not open last week, can produce in the way of bloom.

The Georgetown Garden Club is sponsoring its annual flower show, which will open tomorrow at 2 o'clock and continue through Thursday, up to 6 o'clock, and will be held in the chapel of the Presbyterian Church on P street near Thirty-first.

Mrs. Charles G. Warden is chairman of the show and is planning to have a replica of a garden, such as some of those seen in the New York shows, and which will be the most ambitious undertaking the Georgetown Club has yet attempted.

Other decorations, under the chairmanship of Miss Emily Matthews, will make the show an attractive exhibit.

One unique, as well as interesting feature, is the display of miniature gardens, fashioned by 70 children of the Georgetown schools, under chairmanship of Mrs. Edward L. Clifford. Mrs. L. P Shippen is chairman of the poster committee.

Every resident of Georgetown has been requested to take part in the show, and men, women and children have responded enthusiastically, for many of the men of the community have gardens that equal those of the women of the neighborhood.

Senator Millard Tydings, a newcomer to Georgetown, has a charming and intimate little formal garden, while his neighbor, Mr. Walter Peter, a lineal descendant of Lady Washington, and a well known Washington architect, has a delightful garden, symmetrical in form and line.

All sorts of classes of flowers will be shown, including iris, peonies, roses, perennials, shrubs and flower arrangements, with first, second and third prizes in each class; a prize for the best exhibit, also a sweepstake prize for the greatest number of exhibits and a grand sweepstake prize for the greatest number of awards. Blue, red and yellow ribbons will be bestowed as awards.

The judges are to be Dr. Earl B. White, Mr. Furman Lloyd Mulford, of the Department of Agriculture; Mrs. Duncan Brent, of Ruxton, Md.; Mrs. Floyd Harris, of Aldie, Va.; Mrs. Clinton Ward and Miss Margaret Lancaster. Mrs. Richard Oulahan, Miss Catherine Critcher and Miss Bray will judge posters.

Members of the Georgetown Garden Club sponsoring the show include Mrs. Charles G. Warden, chairman, with Mrs. Royal D. Mead, Mrs. Percy S. Thompson and Miss Katherine Dougal, vice chairmen; Mrs. Herman Hellereth, classification committee; Mrs. William Leetch, table decorations; Miss Bertha Looker, rules committee; Mrs. Wallace Radcliffe, publicity and programs, with a subcommittee including Mrs. Harry H. Donnelly and Mrs. Wingrove Bathon; Mrs. E. R. Finkenstaedt, chairman of awards, and other chairmen already mentioned.

Mrs. L. B. Wight, president of the Georgetown Garden Club, announces that an illustrated lecture of Italian gardens will be given by Mme. Carlo Averardi at the chapel of the Church of the Covenant at 8:20 o'clock Friday evening, May 23. Mme. Averardi has received many of her slides from the King and Queen of Italy. The public is invited.

Membership of the club includes Mrs. G. C. F. Bratenahl, Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston, Miss Rose Greeley, Mrs. Charles D. Walcott, Mrs. Anne Archbold, Mrs. Swager Sherley, Mrs. Spencer Wood, Mrs. John Sevier, Mrs. Walter Peter, Mrs. Frank S. Bright, Mrs. Richard Oulahan, Mrs. Theodore N. Gill, Mrs. William B. Orme, Mrs. Louis Mackall, Mrs. J. B. Wycoff and Mrs. F. Bland Tucker.

Commander and Mrs. James Bird, of London, are passing a few days in Washington at the Mayflower before sailing for England the end of the month. Since their arrival in this country in December they have been to California and also made a trip to Hawaii.

Historic Spot In Virginia to Be Inspected

Antiquities Society Will Make Pilgrimage to Fredericksburg.

In commemoration of the important place in colonial history held by the town of Fredericksburg, Va., and its environs, a group of members of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities is sponsoring a pilgrimage there on May 27, arranging also brief visits to historic places en route. Miss Bertha Chinn, at the Tabard Inn, is chairman of arrangements, assisted by Mrs. George Tully Vaughan, president of the association.

The high spot of the pilgrimage will be the visit to the city hall where formerly stood the famous old market house where Gen. Lafayette, Count Rochambeau and Gen. Washington's staff were honored guests at a reception given by the citizens of Fredericksburg. In the famous old building Martha Washington greeted Gen. Lafayette in 1784.

To the efforts of the association is due preservation of old landmarks in the vicinity of the Rappahannock. In Fredericksburg were headquarters of Gen. Lee and old Salem Church, scene of the battle which resulted in defeat of Gen. Sedgwick and the Union Army. Nearby is Kenmore, home of Betty Washington Lewis, only sister of George Washington; the James Monroe law office; the spot where Indians smoked the pipe of peace in 1671, and where the colonial governor of Virginia, Sir William Berkeley, presented to John Buckner and Thomas Roylston the grant of land which later became the town of Fredericksburg.

The automobiles will leave the south side of the Treasury Building at 9 o'clock.

Those making the pilgrimage have been asked to visit Rippon Lodge, Virginia home of Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Ellis. Tea will be served on the lawn and Mr. Ellis will speak briefly on interesting features of this quaint old mansion built in the early eighteenth century by Richard Blackburn, who came to this country from the English Cathedral town of Ripon. One of his granddaughters, Anne Blackburn, married Bushrod Washington and the other, Jane Charlotte, was the wife of John Augustin Washington. Each, in turn, became mistress of Mount Vernon and both are buried there. The Blackburns are among Mr. Ellis' collateral ancestors.

Mrs. Florence D. Forrester, who has recently returned from prolonged residence in India, will be the honor guest and speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Women's National Press Club at the Willard today. She will speak on "Child Marriages in India."

Mrs. Jones Hostess To Advertising Women.

Mrs. Harry LeRoy Jones entertained at tea yesterday at her residence, 1310 Thirty-fourth street, in honor of members of the New York League of Ad-

J. W. DAVIS ARGUES FOR WAR OBJECTOR

Asks Reversal of Decision Denying Citizenship to Professor at Yale.

RELIGION PLACED FIRST

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Whether an applicant for American citizenship has the right to "judge of the necessity" if required to take up arms in defense of this country, was argued before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today by John W. Davis.

Mr. Davis appeared as counsel for Prof. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, professor of theology at Yale and a native of Canada, who was denied citizenship by Judge Warren Burroughs, in Connecticut, when he reserved the right to judge of the necessity in answer to the usual question concerning his willingness to bear arms in case of war.

In arguing for a reversal of the decision, Mr. Davis said his client did not recognize his duty to his country as superior to his duty to his God, and his adherence to the tenets of Christianity as he understood them.

He quoted Prof. MacIntosh as having told the lower court, "Am willing to do what I judge to be for the best interest of my country, but only in so far as I can believe this is not going to be against the best interests of humanity in the long run. I do not undertake to support 'my country right or wrong' in any dispute that may arise."

Judge Martin T. Manton who, with Judges Thomas W. Swan and Learned Hand, occupied the dais, questioned Mr. Davis concerning a client's attitude toward the Government's right to draft him for duty. Mr. Davis replied that conscientious objectors had been excused from military duty from the Revolutionary War and the World War, and that it was unjust to demand that prospective citizens subscribe to an oath to which even citizens are not held.

The lawyer spoke of the Constitutional guarantees of religious liberty and said the Constitution plainly did not require any one to set aside his conscientious religious beliefs and objections to warfare.

The professor is a Baptist minister. He served as a chaplain in the Canadian and English armies in the World War.

The appeal in the case of Miss Marie Averil Bland, a private nurse, of this city, from a decision similar to that in the MacIntosh case is scheduled for argument tomorrow Miss Bland, also a native of Canada, who was a nurse during the World War, is the daughter of an Episcopalian minister She said her personal religious beliefs would not permit her to bear arms against her fellow man under any circumstances. She stated her willingness, however, to serve this country as a nurse in time of war.

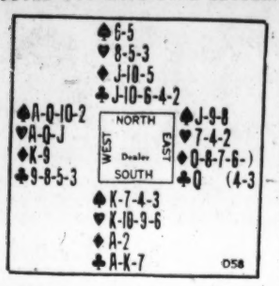
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



The above hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South bid one No Trump; West doubled; after North's pass East bid two Diamonds which held the Contract.

In Contract Bridge the declarations of South, West and North would be the same. With six Diamonds headed by the Queen, a singleton and a partner strong enough to double an adverse No Trump, East's take-out would be three Diamonds; but even that request to continue the bidding hardly would justify West with only two Diamonds in making a five-bid. It would look as if the two hands did not "fit" and as if eleven tricks at Diamonds were unobtainable against a No Trump.

With East and the Declarer playing two Diamonds at Auction Bridge, South started with the King of Clubs, on which North played the Six. When East's Queen fell, South noting the absence of the Four and Deuce of Clubs and supposing that North had started a signal, tried a second Club lead which East ruffed. East then led a trump. South played small and dummy's King won. The Nine of trumps returned from dummy was covered by North's Jack, East's Queen and South's Ace. This left North's trump Ten a winner and Declarer failed to go game, losing one Club and two trumps.

Could you have done better?

WHAT COULD HAVE BEEN DONE?

The interesting point in the play was the card contributed by East to the second round of trumps. Playing to that trick East could mark the Ace of trumps in the South hand as North had failed to cover West's King on the first trick. The only other unseen trump was the Ten; if South had it the adversaries must take two trump tricks and the game was hopeless. But if North had the Ten, game could be made by letting East duck this trick, provided the Spade and Heart finesses succeeded; in view of South's No Trump, the result of these finesses could be contemplated with equanimity. No benefit could result from the play of the Queen and there was a chance of picking up the game-trick by playing small.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

The way of incrustations is intricate in the new mode. Sketched is a chic black crepe de chine afternoon dress. (Courtesy of Douillet-Doucet, Paris.)

Paris, May 19.

HE was a famous couturier, and I was only a poor weak woman after all in his hands. And, well, you couldn't blame him, could you!

Because he was making me two of the most beautiful evening gowns in all Paris, and I hadn't any right as the world's most famouse fashun cricket and a lovely lady at that, to have a roll of tell-tale ballast—you know, a sort of a permanent life saver effect above your corsets or girdle or whatever you happen to wear?

So, being only a poor weak woman after all, I allowed myself to be dragged by the hair of the head down to the corsetiere and be pinched, patted and pulled into what should be my figure.

Well, after the fourth fitting I came to a very important conclusion. And that is that modern women must have the strength of mind to resist the inevitable—the inevitable in this instance being that the astute corsetieres who haven't been so very busy for the past ten years are going to seize what they consider the opportunity that presents itself in the new modes to pull us back into shape again—into their idea of what a woman's shape should be, which it just naturally generally isn't.

I don't care how heavy you are, even though you shouldn't be, lacing tightly into corsets in an attempt to make your figure more modish will have just the opposite effect. The modern woman's figure must be neither uncorseted nor too corseted. Tight corseting makes it look old-fashioned and old. No corset at all makes it sloppy.

Let's figure these things out for ourselves; why not, instead of letting people lead us around by the nose—or corset strings?

* * * *

Ever and anon I just have to sketch a black afternoon dress for you, they being so indispensable to practical elegance So I chose the Doeuillet-Doucet cleverly incrusted and form-flattering one, with its delightful sleeve, its rather full skirt and clever neckline. Even the back is worthy of mention, and of sketching.

* * * *

He may tell you that he doesn't need one, or probably wouldn't have much chance to wear it, or can't think of the color he'd like most, but you go right ahead—and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the Illustrated leaflet! And you make him one, because you know better than he does what color suits him, anyway. And if he isn't the happiest man in town, with his new—lounging pajama ensemble, then I'll send you back the stamp! A comfortable pajama and a matching tailored dressing robe, and just the fact that you made it yourself will make him proud as Punch.

In addition, you ought to read regularly the weekly Dare fashion letter in The Washington Post every Sunday.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF May 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. from 5:30 p. m. to 7 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 5 a. m. to 7 a. m., and from 3 p. m. to 4:30 p. m.

This date is astrologically shown to be a critical period in your life, and it depends upon how you recognize and handle your opportunities "The wise man makes hay with the grass that grows under the other fellow's feet." Influences enervating.

Children born on this May 20 will be very patient and long-suffering, but once aroused, they will know no fear and will not acknowledge defeat when they meet it. They will dislike anything which is underhanded, and will be very frank in both speech and actoin.

By all astrological calculations, you should be a very clever person, one who knows much, and one who can do much. You learn very easily, too much so for your own good, for you would cherish and retain things longer if you had to work harder for your intellectual attainments. You are inclined to be a "last-minute" person, and authough your efforts are sometimes brilliant, they more often show the marks of haste. You do not always live up to the reputation of what you can do. You are indifferently ambitious. Your desires are greater than your working energies.

You have rather failed to adjust yourself to practical conditions—you have not learned to shake hands with life. You are rather drifting in the clouds, instead of treading that "middle of the road," which has been trodden for centuries by the hard-working, common-sensed men and women. You are impatient with the ordinary run of mortals, and out of touch with the average people who make up the daily round—you lack the common touch. Are you not an intellectual snob?

You are highly emotional, although you try to outwardly suppress your feelings. At times your anger wells up, you have attacks of jealousy, and you indulge in an emotional spree, which is doubtlessly followed by a so-called sick headache, the cause of which is more psychological than physiological.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"WHY DID SHE WANT HIM?"

DO you recall the letter in this column recently written by a girl whose hero-lover demanded that she be able to furnish the home? His "mother wished him to marry well" was his explanation, and we became wrothy and asked the girl to tell us how and why she would consider marrying such a creature, with or without the manogany. Here is her reply to our demand. Can you understand a girl in this day really believing and insisting that "a bad marriage is better than none at all?" Is an unhappy married woman better off than a serene and happy bachelor girl? Is this reasoning the result of the long skirts—or what Are we going back to the days when it was a disgrace to remain single? Will the next generation of girls buy their husbands in the open market? Read and ponder!

Dear Miss McDonald—Supplementing my letter to you and your request that I write you just what traits in this particular young man attracted me to accept him as a husband, I shall be frank with you. This man impressed me as one who was steady. I am not the type to marry a man because I am merely passionately in love with him without weighing his good and bad points. However, this young man would as vehemently deny the lies that I now know he told that I would believe him. Another reason is that, knowing that most eligible men want girls with money, whether they have money or not, and that a girl in my circumstances can't choose too much, and a bad marriage is better than none at all, I decided I would take the chance. Here you are going to reprimand me for saying that a bad marriage is better than none at all, but I am sure you understand how the world looks on a maiden or bachelor girl and how it looks on a married woman. However, right now I am so thoroughly through with this young excuse for a man that his very name is abhorrent to me and, although I may sound a bit discouraged, I am more optimistic than ever, and this summer am taking the first steps toward a career for myself and spend my thoughts and efforts on that and let other things come and go as they will, because the sooner we women realize what not to expect from the other sex, the happier we all shall be, because men will always be men. Sincerely,

IN DOUBT (then, but not now).

Well, thank goodness you, at least, see the light. May you yet see things as they really are, and realize that, far from pitying the bachelor girl, the world looks on in amazement at the things girls accept as husbands, and the affronts they accept to obtain husbands. You haven't even begun to live, my child, or to know what life can hold for woman.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help those who read this page. Express your views, and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

A LILY POOL FOR A CITY GARDEN.

ON Monday in this column I spoke of the decorative possibilities of water in the garden. Today I want to be more definite and tell you how one of the readers of this paper made a delightful pool with an expenditure of $2.05. I will tell you the story as she told it to me.

"It was a case of a desire for a lily pool and an empty purse. Necessity has made me an adept at overcoming obstacles. I purchased a bag of cement for 80 cents, some black soil and 5 pounds of bonemeal for 25 cents, and one day a blooming lily for a dollar.

"I dug a hole 5 feet in diameter, 3 feet deep in the center and only 2 feet deep about the edges. I lined it with cobblestones picked up at random in the street or nearby fields. I outlined the pool with red brick, picked up from a nearby building operation. The man in charge gave me permission to take odd or chipped bricks which were so marred that they were no further use to him.

"I mixed the cement myself, using three pails of water, one of rough sand and one of cement. This gave me a sufficient quantity to cover the entire pool. I found the cement was easier to handle if it was not too wet. I placed a long board across the pool to kneel on while applying the cement.

"Three hours after laying the cement I moistened the entire surface with a watering can and three hours later applied a second application. In two days the cement was entirely dry, so I mixed the finely sieved soil and the bonemeal together. This I placed in the bottom of the pool to the depth of 12 inches.

"I suppose pond muck would have been an improvement over soil and bone meal. I next moistened the soil and planted my lily. The variety of bulb made it impossible for me to have planted it before June 1, as it was not hardy. When the lily was in place I filled the pool with a garden hose. The water was about 12 inches above the soil. At the end of three days it was as clear as crystal.

"Later I added some goldfish and, to my delight, they lived. The lily grew so fast I was compelled to keep cutting the pads so as to see the water. It bloomed continuously. The fish, I found, kept the water purer. Twice each week I replaced the water that evaporated with a garden hose. I let the water trickle in slowly so as to avoid stirring up the soil. The pool, encircled with yellow iris and purple pansies, has been a never-ending source of delight."

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

INSECT PANTRY PESTS.

(Bureau of Entomology.)

There are more than 40 different beetles and moths that infest grains and other dry stored foods. Many of them are chiefly troublesome in granaries and warehouses and on railroad cars used for transporting such goods. Some of them occasionally invade kitchens and storerooms in private dwellings. Among those most frequently found are the cadelle beetle, the mealworm beetle, the confused flour beetle and the sawtoothed grain beetle. These beetles feed on flour, grain products, dried fruits, seeds, nuts, spices, tobacco and other starchy and woody materials. Some prefer one food and some another, while some are quite general feeders.

The Bureau of Entomology explains that these beetles can live on very small quantities of dry cereal that they find in cracks, corners and crevices of flour bins, pantries and kitchen cabinets. So it behooves the housewife to see that no food material is lodged in such places to invite these unwelcome visitors.

The Indian meal moth is another of the cereal pests that makes a loose webbing sometimes found in cereal boxes. Cleanliness and heat are the best methods of ridding the kitchen and storeroom of meal beetles and moths. All infested material should be burned. All bags and containers in which foods are to be stored should be sterilized. Clean all lint and dust from shelves where the insects might live. Use plenty of hot water and soap in cleaning. If you are closing the house during the warm months, even for a few weeks, it is better to throw away small amounts of cereal than to store it with the likelihood that it may become infested and give trouble all through the pantry or storage closet.

Prices realized on Swift & Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, May 17, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 15.75 cents to 21.50 cents per pound and averaged 18.14 per pound.—Adv.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

A number of advanced sales are announced for this week. These are the events for which thrifty women wait, replenishing their wardrobes with the frocks and suits and hats which are necessary adjuncts to their wardrobes.

Meantime, newest arrivals in things for midsummer wear attract their quota of attention, too. Isn't it interesting to notice how popular are the knitted fabrics in every conceivable color, and how many caps and berets are worn with costumes of all kinds.

Airplane Luggage Is the Latest

—and the newest developments are to be seen in Camalier & Buckley's in three-piece ensembles or in separate trunks and bags.

They come in several different colors. A shade of blue with a darker blue stripe in lines in a matching shade. An overnight case is fitted with articles of light weight shell and amber, weighing practically nothing. Then there is a wonderful shoe case, with compartments for either six or eight pairs of shoes, and places for hosiery. This is lined in corudroy. I have not seen this exact luggage at any other shop in Washington. Camalier & Buckley, 1141 Connecticut avenue.

A Light Lunch At Toinette's

—gives you the choice of soup, salad, sandwiches and the famous doughnuts, which you have already heard of.

Toinette's, 1821 New York avenue, right next door to the Canadian Pacific offices, features five kinds of doughnuts, and how good they are! Also, if you would like the experience of eating a real green, crisp salad such as you would make for yourself at home, with salad dressing that is properly evolved, you will approve of Toinette's. As you may imagine, the doughnuts may be purchased by the dozen and sent to your home.

The Famous Silver Of Georg Jensen

—is on exhibition under the auspices of Miss Anna Jayne in the shop of Amerita, 1534 Connecticut avenue. It will be there until May 29. Take my advice and go in at once to see it. You have heard of this lovely hand-wrought silver from Copenhagen. If you have wedding gifts to buy, Georg Jensen silver might easily be the end of your quest. Besides flat silver, delicate bowls (the originals of these are in the Metropolitan Museum), you will find jewelry also by Georg Jensen, set with semiprecious stones, or hammered into simple designs, bracelets, necklaces, rings and brooches.

Miss Jayne expects to take her collection to Jamestown, R. I., for the summer, so has reduced the prices on Florentine leather picture frames and boxes and certain gold and silver jewelry.

Remember, you will find her in the Amerita Shop, 1534 Connecticut avenue.

French Lingerie At Elizabeth Arden's

—always represents the newest and sweetest of the designer's art. Just now there is a great fad for tailored pajamas and chemises. Elizabeth Arden, 1147 Connecticut avenue, has a new shipment in. The severity is often relieved by insets of dark lace, or panels of tiny tucks and hemstitching. You will like the quality of the silk, and the shades of flesh and peach with baby blues and pale greens and yellows in the hues we do not find in domestic silks.

The other day I told you about the adorable mules in gold and silver kid, lined in flesh colored velvet. Have you selected a pair for yourself?

Go Into Madame Ash's

—immediately and you will have an opportunity to buy spring frocks and hats at such reductions as you have seldom seen. I found a charming mode there in Saturday, priced originally at $125 which will be $50 today. This is just an example of what you may expect. There are suits and coats, too, and you know what it means to acquire for your regular wardrobe handsomely tailored things at prices so much less than you would have paid a month ago.

If you are one of those women who always waits for just such an event as this you will enjoy it more than anything. All the earlier hats have been included, and if you can't pick up three or four that you like for the price of one or two, you are not the shopper I think you are.

Blacks, browns and blues predominate in this group, which will please you, I know. There are straws and felts and several grosgrain ribbon caps. Berets and off-the-face models, as well as a number with generous brims remain from the late spring collection. If I were to tell you the prices you will read for yourself when you go in, you would scarcely believe in my veracity. Mme. Ash, Connecticut avenue at M street.

Schwartz Has A Wonderful Sale

—every day this month. You really can not afford to miss one day, and owe it to yourself to go in and see what each day brings forth. Values are more important this season than ever. Most of us are obliged to take time to consider before we buy anything. With a shop like Schwartz's, 1325 Connecticut avenue, it is a real pleasure.

The delightful little tub frocks at small prices, in white and every color, in cottons and silk shirting, some plain and some with stripes, the faint pinks and blues we all want this year.

Lovely Pictures Of Beautiful Children

—are always a joy to see. You will admit, however, that no matter how engaging the subject, unless the photograph is cleverly made and finished with artistry it means very little.

If you want a real treat, stop by Underwood & Underwood's and see the window of portraits made with their famous double camera. This camera works so fast that the most fleeting expressions are registered as though by magic.

The pictures in the window were made of two children taken together and singly, in a garden setting. Underwood & Underwood make up a special book of pictures of your child. If there is variety in the poses and expressions chosen, the book becomes the most cherished possession in the family. You can find out how much the book costs, and will be surprised to see how moderate the figure is. I know this, that you do not pay for the finishing of each additional negative, when you buy an entire book of pictures. If that is not clear to you, anyone in Underwood & Underwood's will be glad to explain it to you.

The out-of-doors presents a very lovely background now. Have the children and their pets photographed together in the trees and flowers of the parks or gardens. You will wonder at the result of the double camera which Underwood & Underwood features for children. By all means, do stop by to see the window display. It is worth your while.

Affectionately,

Bab

Most Adequate Coverage of Potential Customers

Can Not Be Determined by Circulation and Lineage Figures!

THE fact most frequently alluded to during the thirteenth annual meeting of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, held in Washington during the past week, was that advertising lineage and circulation records are not a dependable measure of a medium's value. More intensive study of individual advantages was recommended and an end to the practice of "following the leader" . . . Advertisers and space-buyers who devote even the most casual study to the Washington market and its mediums will immediately discover that the type of people who are most responsive to advertising, because of a higher degree of intelligence and financial capability, have a pronounced preference for The Washington Post---"The Capital's Greatest NEWSpaper."

Until the great majority of the American people can be said to be on the same level of intelligence with the same ideals and the same standards of living, there is little possibility that The Washington Post can offer the gratest circulation numbers. So long as the majority of advertising is based upon a price or credit appeal there is little likelihood that The Post can point to greatest lineage totals. BUT —because of its discriminating audience it can and DOES offer the most productive advertising medium in the Washington territory.

Washington Is Not An "Average" City

Dr. Daniel Starch, director of research, in a talk on "A. A. A. A., Newspaper Reader Surveys" before the A. A. A. A. convention revealed that Washington has a greater proportion of residents in both the higher and in the lowest income classes than other large population centers, with a corresponding decrease in the number that may be considered as "average." Realization of this situation dictates the selection of The Washington Post by those advertisers who wish to appeal to the greatest number "above the average."

Delegates to the American Federation of Advertising Clubs' Convention should seize this opportunity to become acquainted with the Nation's Capital in the widest sense—to see not only the points of tourist interest but its various types of residential and business sections. A representative of The Post will be pleased to assist you in this respect or to provide any information concerning the market and its mediums if you will call The Post Promotion Department, National 4205.

Hundreds of thousands of Frigidaires have never required any Service

this is ONE reason why

3 times as many Frigidaires are now in use as any other make of electric refrigerator

Frigidaire is sold with a definite guarantee—backed by General Motors.
And still more important to you as a purchaser is the fact that year after year Frigidaire continues to give satisfaction—long after the guarantee has expired.
If service should be required it is rendered instantly and without removing the machine from the premises.

Other reasons why 3 times as many Frigidaires are now in use as any other make of electric refrigerator

Ice and desserts freeze faster with the "Cold Control." Vegetables stay fresh and crisp in the Hydrator. Foods are always kept safely cold by surplus power. Stooping is made unnecessary by elevated shelves. The Porcelain-on-steel finish won't rust, peel or blister. The mechanism is in the bottom, out of the way. The smooth, flat top provides an extra kitchen shelf. The price is lower because of quantity production. Operating cost is lower because the motor runs less.

RAILROAD TO RAISE EMPLOYES' WAGES

Chesapeake Beach Line to Increase Salaries 10 Per Cent.

COOPERATION IS SOUGHT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The Chesapeake Beach Railway Co. announces, effective as of May 1, an increase of 10 per cent in the present scale of wages of all trainmen, enginemen and employes of its mechanical department.

"The advance is granted not so much on account of increased living conditions as it is by way of appreciation of the earnest efforts that the employes concerned have been making toward assuring the success of our project, and a greater attention in handling and serving the public," says a statement by Col. Lee H. Landis, general manager of the road, announcing the increase.

The Chesapeake Beach Railway Co.'s business has increased considerably during the past year, under the new management, and the cooperation of the employes is considered an important item in the road's progress. Because of the growing importance of the Cheasapeake Beach Station as a shipping point and as a center of summer travel, J. A. Coleman, who has had wide experience in railroading, has been appointed agent at that station.

Stock exchange problems of the future were discussed yesterday by Eugene E. Thompson, of Crane, Parris & Co., this city, president of the Associated Stock Exchanges, in his address at the fourth annual convention of that body at Minneapolis, Minn. Mr. Thompson also reviewed the organization's work for the past administrative year.

Referring to the stock market collapse last fall, with its radical changes in quotations and in real values, Mr. Thompson commented on the remarkable manner in which brokerages had withstood the stress of those harassing times.

Dealing with the growth of the association, he reported that during the past year, four exchanges had been added to its list of members, those of Minneapolis, St. Paul, Buffalo, Portland, Oreg., and Los Angeles. In addition to these, Omaha will open an exchange in June and expects to join the association immediately afterward, while Atlanta also is a prospective member, contemplating the opening of an exchange. The Washington Stock Exchange is a member of the Associated Stock Exchanges.

Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the Commercial National Bank, has returned from a trip including Atlantic City and Bethlehem, Pa., attending the Bach festival at the latter place.

Republican Club to Meet.

The annual meeting of the League of Republican State Clubs will be held in the rooms of the Republican State committee, 1331 G street northwest, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The annual election of officers will take place.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

MY acquaintanceship with this young punk has extended over a period of about twenty years now, and I still hope that sometime I will begin to care for him.

He used to be an actor—so he says.

My first recollection of his professional activities dates back to 1911 when he was a member of the first Poli Stock Co. He never was much good—except that he always knew his lines and stage business, enunciated clearly, read his speeches naturally and without affectation or objectionable mannerism and everybody liked him. I never could understand how he always happened to get a hand on his first entrance.

After a while the war came along and he helped clutter up the Food Administration under Herbert Hoover—an executive who afterward did pretty well for himself—until commissioned in the Army and attached to the general staff with headquarters in the State, War and Navy Building. I think it was about this time, too, that he began dabbling in the local writing game, for I used to catch him hanging around the City Room a good deal, especially at night.

It wasn't long until he was helping make Sime Silverman's symposium of unsuspecting English more bizarre than it would have been without him, and Variety thought so little of his work that they made him chief of their Washington Bureau. His stuff was terrible. So bad, in fact, that Sime finally told him he better write all of the foreign news from Washington, too, since he was getting more of it from the State Department than the European reporters were getting from Europe.

Then somebody with a grudge against both him and the theater made him director of publicity for a movie house and put him in charge of the advertising. As one who has suffered the same humiliation and had his ads reprinted by the trade journals as sterling examples of this and that, I feel that I can say with authority that his displays were pretty rotten. They were so bad, as a matter of cold, recorded fact, that it wasn't long until his playhouse was out of the red and showing a weekly profit for the first time in its history. It has been doing the same thing ever since, despite the handicap of his services.

Certainly an odd mugg, this bozo. Gregarious no end, and likes everybody and everybody likes him. I've been his confidant now these many years and never yet have I heard him say a derogatory thing of any one on his own, although occasionally he has emitted a vituperative blast when some seemingly delibrate affront has been accorded some friend of his by a misguided and malicious adversary. That's just a species of loyalty that some people haven't any better sense than to foster.

This fellow, not to be too delicate about it, is such an all 'round pest that he has just been promoted from head of the publicity department to the managing directorship of the local Fox Theater.

Yeah, Hardie Meakin—the big so-and-so. Whatta bust!

Reference to old time stock companies reminds me that George Barbier is importantly cast in "The Big Pond" with Maurice Chevalier and Claudette Colbert at the Metropolitan. There are many old time theatergoers in the Capital who will remember when George Barbier and his wife, Carrie Thatcher, were players of no little renown with the old Columbia Players when they occupied the stage of the theater where "Paramount on Parade" is now holding forth.

And about that "Paramount on Parade," I may say that there were several things that struck me forcibly during its unspooling. Jack Oakie, for example, seemed to me to be very largely wasted by being dropped into bits of no particular consequence. Even his number with Zelma O'Neil somehow failed to click—for me. On the other hand, Clara Bow and Nancy Carroll, whom I hardly expected to crash over for any great wham, executed their songs and dances with all of the authority and surety of veteran stars of musical comedy, which the Brooklyn bonfire, at least, is not.

If a few of these principals could have been transferred to Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz," or John Murray Anderson's imagination and artistry transplanted to "Paramount on Parade"—oh, mister!

The early afternoon hour at which they are being given, I dare say, deprives a great many music lovers of the opportunity to enjoy the splendidly planned and skillfully executed pipe organ recitals that are being offered four times a week at the Earle Theater by Nell Paxton, one of Washington's real aces at the console.

On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week, Mrs. Paxton presents a miniature concert that is being especially featured by the management and greatly enjoyed by those who attend the 1 o'clock performance. Her programs are carefully prepared and the names and titles of her numbers are announced through the public address system that provides a convenient microphone for the organist.

It would be just my luck, of course, that Nell would put on her show at precisely my breakfast hour!

As you read this—optimist that I am—I hope I have arrived home safely from the party thrown last night by Meyer Davis in honor of that Meakin person!

Girl Who Fled School Turned Over to Board

Gladys Yates, who escaped recently from the National Training School for Girls at Muirkirk, Md., was turned over to the District Board of Public Welfare yesterday by Judge Gus A. Schuldt, before whom she was arraigned in Police Court on a statutory charge.

Carl B. Davis, who was arrested with the girl in a rooming house on Sixth street northwest Sunday, was convicted and sentenced to pay a $50 fine or serve 30 days in jail.

Clothing Worth $100 Reported Stolen.

Gertrude Jackson, Harry Burkhart, and Charles Jackson, all living at 313 K street northwest, yesterday reported to police that someone had entered a room at the above address by jimmying the door and taken more than $100 worth of clothing and jewelry. A suspect was named.

Fire Insurance Stabilizes Credit

Without fire insurance, Credit—the medium and means of business expansion—would be almost wholly curtailed. Through the credit system, with the security afforded by fire insurance, loans are made to aid in building homes, mercantile and manufacturing establishments, and general commercial development. Insurance is indispensable to sound credit.

Without fire insurance, bankers, real estate men, contractors, building and loan organizations, and others who grant credit on future developments would doubtless consider the risks to be taken in making loans too hazardous to contemplate.

Stimulates All Activities

Without fire insurance "modern business," great cities, gigantic construction projects, large production, new sub-divisions to take the cities' overflow, would not have been possible.

Finance and insurance work together in promoting and encouraging the Nation's building activities and in support of the manufacture and distribution of goods, thus assuring continuous and increasing opportunities for employment to workers in all fields.

In the development and support of our great structure of credit, Stock Fire Insurance—as written by the 239 companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—has carried, and will continue to carry, the major load of the underlying responsibility at a price which on the average has constantly declined for more than twenty years.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

TEETH CLEWS TO HEALTH.

THE crown of a tooth is formed several years before eruption. Those of the first set are complete, so far as the crown is concerned, at the time of birth. The permanent teeth do not begin erupting until about the eighth year and they do not complete the process until the twenty-second year, but their crowns are completed in early childhood. An experienced dentist can examine the teeth and, on the basis of the imperfections found, he can make a good guess as to some of the diseases the person has had and when. On the other hand, a physician can say to the parents of a 3-year-old child sick with scarlet fever: When this child has reached 10 years of age have your dentist look for weakness in certain teeth.

Dr. Joseph Head says that severe illness in the first year of life leads to imperfections in the permanent central incisors and 6-year molars. Severe illness in the second year of life causes potential trouble in the lateral incisors and bicuspids. In the third year of life, in the canines, the second molars, and in the wisdom teeth.

Fine serrations and furrows are generally caused by scarlet fever. Any disease which spends a considerable part of its force on the skin, causing eruptions followed by scaling and much scabbing, is especially apt to leave its mark on the teeth. Scarlet fever is an outstanding example of this.

The Hutchinson tooth is generally a sign of inherited syphilis. The Hutchinson tooth has a large, coarse notch, as distinguished from the finer, saw edges which follow scarlet fever. Irregularities in the arrangement of the teeth occur because of poor development of the jaws and not because of any condition in the teeth themselves. If the jaws are too small, the face is undeveloped, or if the arches of the palate are improper the teeth erupt in irregular fashion. These basic errors in the development of the jaws are apt to make themselves manifest in the later years of childhood. The twelfth year is about the time of maximum importance in this field.

MAY RESULT FROM FRIGHT.

Mrs. C. S. writes: I have a baby 3 months, old and ever since I came back from the hospital I bathe her every day. No sooner than I put her in the bath than she begins to cry so hard that she can not get her breath.

REPLY.

Your baby has had a bad fright at some time in connection with her bath. You can train her away from this. Make her bath as comfortable and happy as possible. Be gentle with her.

WHERE TO DODGE RAGWEED.

D. H. M. writes: What parts of the U. S. do people subject to hay fever (ragweed, specifically) not have this disease?

What about the Williamette Valley of Oregon?

REPLY.

The reports on ragweed for the section east of the Rocky Mountains are better than for those west thereof. To escape ragweed pollen one must go to south Florida or to the arid West.

Write to the health commissioner of Oregon and of Portland for information about ragweed in the Willamette Valley.

POWERFUL BATTING AIDS NATS TO KEEP FAST PACE

Pegler

CHICAGO, May 19.—An explanation is due the citizens of Chicago for the nonappearance in the newspapers of any pictures of the Chicago race horse, Dick O'Hara, in the layouts depicting the finish of the Kentucky Derby.

The fact of the matter is that Dick O'Hara, a family pet owned by Mr. Pat Joyce, the Mid-Western railroad magnate, was delayed along the route of one mile and one-quarter and was not photographed because the Derby was supposed to be a daylight spectacle.

The photographers did not bring any flash bombs with them and, as the management had not planned for an owl race, the prints of Dick O'Hara's finish came out all black.

But I am quite certain that an effort was made to photograph Dick O'Hara's finish, because I was with Mr. Louis Wolff, the photographer, along toward 8 o'clock in the evening when he shot the blank plate. We were having dinner in the clubhouse at the time and all the boys were speculating as to what had become of Dick O'Hara, who seemed to have met some mysterious fate.

Stealing Horse Out Of the Question.

It was unthinkable that anyone would wish to steal him, especially in Kentucky, where people are good judges of horseflesh. Some people thought that perhaps Mr. Barrett, the jockey, had taken the fence with his charger and ridden away into the setting sun, to purchase a junk wagon or fish cart and start life anew. But this did not seem plausible, because a boy wishing to get away from it all and forget would not be likely to take his albatross with him.

In the midst of all this, a man came in and whispered to Mr. Wolff that he had just strolled around from the stables in the back stretch and had walked past a dark object, running at a rapid rate in one spot, which seemed to be a horse.

"If it seemed to be a horse, it probably is not Dick O'Hara," Mr. Wolff said. "But our readers will be interested to know what happened to him, and I always follow every clue."

Half an hour later, a scuffling sound came out of the dark, and, in the blackness, Mr. Wolff snapped his camera, crying, "Is that Dick O'Hara, with Barrett up?"

Jockey Carries Home The Bacon.

"No," a voice said, "this is Barrett with Dick O'Hara up. Can you tell me the way to Churchill Downs? This horse is getting heavy." By this time, Mr. Joyce, the owner, had returned to Louisville to catch his train, reporting the loss of his horse to the sheriff, with a request that if Dick O'Hara should be found the matter be kept as quiet as possible.

"But you will have to post a bond that you will come and take him away if we find him," the sheriff said, severely. "Our people are very strict and you can not come down here from Chicago and turn anything like Dick O'Hara loose on our countryside."

After Mr. Barrett, the jockey, had received restoratives, he was able to give an account of the occurrences in Dick O'Hara's race.

"We kept on telling Mr. Joyce not to run that horse in the derby," he said, "but he insisted. Every day Mr. Joyce would call up the stable and ask how his horse was running.

Runs Distance in Installments.

"The trainer would answer 'terrible' or 'rotten' and warn him not to enter the horse in the derby. But Mr. Joyce would merely say, 'That is pessimism; I do not like pessimists; look on the bright side of everything and have faith in Dick O'Hara.' The trainer would say, 'Mr. Joyce, that horse can not run more than a quarter of a mile.' But Mr. Joyce would ask: 'How many times can he run a quarter in a day?' The trainer said he might be able to run five or six quarters a day with long rests between quarters, and Mr. Joyce then said his mind was made up to see his colors in the Kentucky Derby, and told us to run him five quarters as quickly as possible, with a minimum of delay. That is what I did. After the first quarter we pitched camp and I got him some hay. We broke camp about 30 minutes later and ran another quarter at a very spirited rate, and camped again. And so on until the last quarter, when Dick O'Hara began to show signs of exhaustion. I was afraid people would think I had stolen the horse. It was lonesome out there in the dark and we were running out of provisions, besides which my matches had become soaked in the rain. The horse finally refused to go any further, and, as I was hired only for the afternoon and it was long past quitting time, I got down and carried him in myself."

Teuton Seeks More Rugged Opposition

Schmeling Dislikes Use of Big Gloves in His Training.

By MAX SCHMELING.

(As told to Jimmy Powers.)

ENDICOTT, N. Y., May 19.—A newspaper man noticed I was using small gloves when I knocked out my sparring partners. Sunday I put on extra heavy gloves, large, with banded wrist protectors and still I knocked out the same men. You see, sometimes a heavy glove is too clumsy and you get no good using them. There are many sizes of gloves, some 16 ounce, 14, 12, 10 and 8, ounces. The big gloves or pillows were used before headgears were invented. It is to save a man from getting marked up.

The gloves I use are the same as my partners'. Sometimes a poor stable mate will break his gloves, smash with the wrong side or otherwise mar it or puff it up. I like to use a small glove. No boxer likes the pillows, but I do not use punching-bag gloves on my men.

Would Pay $500 a Week For Sparring Mate.

Today I rest. I wore out two of my men and Joe Jacobs is going in to New York to get me more. I want men with good stiff left hands. If anybody knows a duplicate Sharkey I will hire him and pay him $500 a week. Joe says good men are scarce. He wants tough men and so do I. I don't get careless with tough men in the ring. It is much better.

A good sparring partner can make a lot of money. Martin Burke was Dempsey's best man. He was very good at imitating styles. Sparring partners sometimes become champions over men they are working for. Look at the case of Jim Jeffries, who once worked with Jim Corbett.

This week, starting Wednesday, I am going to begin heavy work. I am going to box more and start the real part of the training, as the fight is only about three weeks away.

Some tell me my left hand looks good. I am not satisfied with it yet. I want to perfect my left so that I can hook hard with it and jab hard. Anything can happen in a fight. A man can always find plenty to do sharpening up his left hand. There are few fighters who can keep away from a left hand. They tell me Sharkey had to clinch once with Loughran and blink his eyes to get the tears out of them so he could see to knock him out. If Loughran had a stronger left it would bring more than tears. And Tunney won fights by blinding men with his left, so I think I work more on my left, yes.

Schmeling's Camp Opposes Trip by Air

Endicott, N. Y., May 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Max Schmeling's decision to fly from here to Schenectady next Thursday afternoon, when he is going to talk to his mother over a special low length radiophone service, has En-Joie Health Park camp divided. Some of the boys think it is foolhardy on Schmeling's part to fly to Schenectady when the trip can be made by automobile in a couple of hours. Schmeling himself laughs at the skeptics.

"Why, I have flown all over Germany and made one air trip from Milan across the Mediterranean to Tripoli," he said today. "I made several trips from Berlin to London and have been in the air in this country as well.

BOBBY JONES HAS 68 FOR RECORD

Sensational Round at Sunningdale Wins Gold Vase Test.

By FRANK H. KING.

SUNNINGDALE, England, May 19 (A. P.).—Bobby Jones today won the gold vase of Golf Illustrated, shooting a sensational 68 in the afternoon after an ordinary 75 in the morning, to lead a great field of amateurs in the 36-hole medal competition.

Jones' total of 143 was good enough to win by a stroke from the Hon. W. G. Brownlow, son of Lord Lurgan, who returned a score of 69 in the morning and 75 in the afternoon.

The record for the newly constructed Sunningdale course was twice broken during the day. Brownlow's 69 set a new mark in the first round and Jones shaved it by a stroke a few hours later.

Three other American Walker Cup players entered the play, George Voigt, scoring 146; George Von Elm, 147, and O. F. Willing, 152. Bobby Baugh, American scholar at Oxford, had a score of 154.

Brownlow Appeared Winner.

Until the American open champion began to burn up the course, Brownlow was regarded as a certain winner. He had led the field in the morning, while Jones was playing an uninspired round.

The son of Lord Lurgan is one of the most picturesque figures in British golf. Remembered in the United States for his great 21-hole battle with Jess Sweetser in the semifinals of the British amateur championship at Muirfield, a tall, gangling youth, he appears on the links dressed in ordinary street clothes and wearing gloves. He never seems to be participating in a match except when he walks over to his caddy and takes a club. He then makes his shot, returns the club to the caddy and walks on.

His effective leisureness seemed to have given him the coveted amateur trophy when Jones suddenly struck his stride and began to contribute 3s and 4s with only an occasional 5. The Prince of Wales and his brothers, the Duke of York and the Duke of Gloucester, were in the gallery today. Among the low scores:

Robert T. Jones, jr., Atlanta, 75, 68—143.
Hon. W. G. Brownlow, Addington, 69, 75—144.
George Voigt, New York, 72, 74—146.
George Von Elm, Detroit, 73, 74—147.
D. H. Kyle, Sunningdale, 75, 74—149.
N. C. Selway, Oxhey, 73, 77—150.
R. H. Wethered, Worpleddon, 74, 76—150.
L. B. Stevens, Sunningdale, 73, 78—151.
O. F. Willing, Portland, Oreg., 72, 80—150.
W. L. Hope, St. Georges Hill, 78, 75—153.
Robert H. Baugh, jr., Birmingham, Ala., 77, 77—154.

Tolley Cables Entry For American Open

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—H. H. Ramsay, chairman of the championship committee of the United States Golf Association, today announced receipt of the cabled entry of Cyril J. H. Tolley for the open golf championship of the United States. The British amateur champion will play in this event for the first time at the Interlachen Country Club, Minneapolis, July 10-12.

Entries close Tuesday, May 27. Qualifying rounds will be played June 16 in 20 sectional cities.

Cochrane Chips Bone; To Be Out for 2 Weeks

Philadelphia, May 19 (A.P.).—X-ray pictures developed today revealed a chipped bone in Mickey Cochrane's right ankle, and the Athletics' peppery backstop will be out of the game for two weeks.

Cochrane injured the ankle last Friday sliding into third base and was carired from the field. As soon as the swelling subsides the ankle will be placed in a plaster cast.

International Group Rejects Starting Blocks

Berlin, May 19 (A.P.).—The records committee of the International Amateur Athletic Federation today recommended rejection of the American proposal to recognize sprint records made with the use of starting blocks. This action forecast disapproval of the mark of 9 2-5 seconds for 100 yards by George Simpson, of Ohio State, as a world's record.

Running without blocks, Frank Wykoff, of the University of Southern California, recently duplicated Simpson's feat of 9 2-5 for the 100-yard dash, but there has not been time for this to come before the A. A. U. or the international body for consideration.

A German proposal to authorize electrical timing in contests and record attempts received the committee's approval.

Simpson's "nine-two" hundred, turned in at Chicago on June 8, 1929, was accepted by the Amateur Athletic Union at its convention last year on the condition that starting blocks be approved by the international federation. Similar action was taken on a record of 22 4-5 seconds for the 220-yard low hurdles which was made by Dick Rockaway, also of Ohio State May 25, 1929, at Evanston, Ill., both marks having been made with starting blocks.

TIGERS WIN 2; ONLY GAMES IN MAJORS

Browns at Bottom of League After 5-4 and 4-2 Defeats.

DETROIT, May 19 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers stretched their winning streak to four straight games today, defeating the St. Louis Browns twice in the only games played in the major leagues. The Tigers took the first, 5 to 4, in ten innings and then won the nightcap, 4 to 2.

Stewart held the Tigers helpless for seven innings of the first game, but a four-run rally in the eighth tied the score. Two singles and a fielder's choice put across the deciding run in the tenth.

The second contest developed into a pitcher's battle between Sam Gray, Browns' mound ace, and Ansley Wyatt, of the Tigers. Each yielded ten hits, but the Tigers bunched seven of their total in the third and sixth innings to score three runs in the former and one in the latter.

The double victory lifted the Tigers into seventh place and shoved the Browns into the American League

Stribling, Back in U. S., Talks of "Mixed Match"

New York, May 19 (A.P.)—Willie Stribling, Macon (Ga.) heavyweight boxer, arrived today from Europe, where he had gone to fight Phil Scott, British champion. The bout was canceled when Scott became ill, and Stribling fought Hans Schonrath, a German, instead, scoring a two-round knockout.

Stribling and his father talked enthusiastically of a proposed "mixed match" with Strangler Lewis, wrestler, in Kansas City next month.

U. S. Net Stars Arrive For Matches

Youthful Davis Cup Players Practice at Chevy Chase.

Start Zone Matches With Mexicans on Thursday.

THE youthful United States Davis Cup players arrived here yesterday in good health and spirits and, after paying their respects to the Mexican Ambassador, indulged in an hour's practice on the courts of the Chevy Chase Club, where they will meet the Mexican team, starting Thursday, in the semifinals of the American zone competition for the historic cup symbolic of world tennis supremacy, held by the French.

Wilmar Allison, John Van Ryn, George Lott, John Doeg, J. Gilbert Hall and Berkeley Bell compose the United States team. They arrived at noon and immediately went to the Pan-American Building, where they were received by Senor Don Manuel C. Tellez, Ambassador of Mexico, and Dr. L. E. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union.

From 3:30 to 4:30 o'clock they worked on the Chevy Chase Club grounds in spite of the heaviness of the soil, due to early morning rains. Lott and Doeg engaged Van Ryn and Allison in a doubles match, which extended to a count of 5-all when they quit. Hall and Bell, who are substitutes, also practiced. Fitz Eugene Dixon, the nonplaying captain, joined the workout for a while.

Practice Again This Morning.

This morning from 10:30 to 11:30 o'clock the United States squad will undergo another practice session, after which they will be the guests of Arthur Bliss, of the State Department, at a luncheon at the Metropolitan Club. Other than this they have no plans for their visit.

Having convincingly demonstrated fine form in the match with the Canadian Team at Philadelphia last week; the "Yankees" are rated strong favorites to take the measure of the netmen from below the Rio Grande. The forthcoming match is considered but a stepping stone to the decisive match in which France will defend the Davis Cup for the third straight year.

The United States-Mexico pairings will be made tomorrow morning, probably at the Chevy Chase Club, by a committee composed of Abner Leech, acting for Secretary of State Stimson, honorary referee of the match, and the two captains, Dixon and Manuel Llano.

Chevy Chase Prepares For Crowd.

The Chevy Chase Club is prepared as the host organization and has erected stands which will seat about 2,500 persons. Tickets are on sale at the club, at Spalding's store, and at the headquarters of the Junior League Club, Connecticut avenue and Q street. The prices are $5 for the series of three days and $2 for one day. Only single day tickets for Thursday's play are being sold as yet.

In the event of rain, Thursday's program will be held on Friday and in all likelihood the match will extend to next Monday. But only actual rainfall at starting time Thursday will cause a postponement.

Tilden and Coen Win On French Hard Courts

Auteuil, France, May 19 (A.P.).—Led by Bill Tilden and Wilbur Coen, the favored teams advanced without difficulty today as the French hard court tennis championships opened at the Roland Garros Stadium. The day was devoted entirely to doubles—men's, women's and mixed.

Tilden and Coen were the only Americans in action, with the aid of a first round bye and a second round victory over the French combination of Pierre Albarran and the famous ocean navigator, Alain Gerbault, at 6—0, 6—3, 6—3, they reached the third round.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and her partner, Elizabeth Ryan, were not scheduled, and the match in which Helen Jacobs was to appear with her Belgian partner, Irene Sicard, was postponed until 2 p. m. tomorrow.

ERRORS HELP NATS BEAT MIDDIES

2-Run Rally in Ninth Falls Short as Naval Academy Bows.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, May 19.—Washington won another game today, but it didn't bolster its lead in the American League, for it was against the Annapolis Midshipmen, and the final count was 4 to 2. Manager Walter Johnson did not take the contest seriously, leaving all of the regulars home except Joe Cronin, Sam West, George Loepp and some of his flingers.

"Kid" Mohler, Navy coach, a veteran Coast Leaguer, said to have been the only left-handed second baseman ever captured by scouts of organized baseball, seemed to consider this an affront and countered by sending Ernie Coombs, a young southpaw not even rated as a first-stringer, to the hill.

Coombs, however, proved to be quite an enigma, holding the big leaguers to ten fairly well-scattered hits and preventing them from clustering their runs. As a matter of fact, the Nats received help in the molding of three. A two-base passed ball following McLeod's single in the second and Loepp's one-shot were responsible for the first run and singles by Loepp, West and Barnes, with an error tossed in, accounted for another in the fifth.

Nats Score in Last Two Innings.

In the seventh, Gharrity's triple, with one out, was wasted and then the Nats became three up in the eighth, the result of a pass to Barnes, Cronin's single and Hayes' sacrifice fly, adding another in the ninth on Loepp's walk, theft with a bad peg by Catcher Torgeson letting him go to third, and Gharrity's infield out.

Manager Johnson used four pitchers, Bob Burke and Irving Hadley for three frames each; Ad Liska for one, and Carlos Moore for two. While the first three were toiling, the Middies had little over which to enthuse, for they could not garner a single safety. Trying to relieve the general gloominess, "Uncle Nick" Altrock played first from the sixth on and his antics brought many a smile and finally a guffaw in the ninth when his second error of the game put Navy in the way of scoring its first run.

Middies Envision Winning Rally.

Opening the ninth, O'Toole led off with the Middies' first safety of the game. After Hunter fouled to McLeod, Altrock missed Hayes' peg of Byng's roller. O'Toole went to third and scored on a wild pitch which let Byng advance to the three-quarter

Averages Show Only Four Regulars Batting Below .300.

Team, Cocky, Warned of Red Sox Series by Johnson.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH the baseball season well over a month old and the Nationals having faced every other club in the league, including the world's champion Mackmen in 9 games, seven of which were won in a row by Johnson's men, even the most skeptical fans are forced to admit that Washington's entry, now at the top of the American League standings, must be reckoned with when it comes to dividing the spoils next October.

Before the season started, many were inclined to scoff at any predictions rating the team higher than sixth or seventh, but the Nats are now out in front and their batting averages in particular are something that can not be laughed off.

All But Four Regulars Hitting Over .300.

A glance at the stick-figures shows almost unbelievable things. The Nats are leading the league in hitting with an average of .319 and every regular except Goslin, Cronin, Ruel and Tate, is hitting better than .300, with four pounding the pill at .330 or better, and with the team as a whole setting the pace and outslugging such combinations as the Mackmen, Yankees and Indians.

Not only are the Nationals showing the way with the stick, but they have poled out more hits and scored more runs than any other entrant in the league as well as having registered the most triples and stolen the most bases. They are second in doubles and fourth in homers, this latter being most unusual, for there have been few four-baser clouters wearing Washington livery as far back as one can remember.

With Pitchers Brown, Hadley, Liska and Jones giving promise of being at their best this early in the season, with Braxton doing good relief work, with Burke already having broken into the win column, and with Marberry and Thomas about due to go well as starters, it is no wonder that the Nats are beginning to admit that they are good when coupling their mound prospects with their hitting doings.

Alternating Outfielders Prove Aid to Club.

In this connection, it also might be mentioned that Johnson appears to have strengthened his team by alternating West and Loepp in center, according to the type of alien pitching. West simply can not hit southpaws, while Loepp has been doing so at a .333 clip, the beauty of the shift being that, good a fielder as West is, his alternate does not weaken the team on defense to any great extent when being used.

If confidence means anything, it will be "just too bad" for the Boston Red Sox, who invade Washington this week, starting with double-headers tomorrow and Thursday.

After having beaten the world champion Athletics seven in a row, while losing the first and final of the nine 1930 meetings between the two clubs, gaining a slight margin in their set-tos against the Western clubs, and havong beaten the New York Yankees three out of four, the Nationals are quite cocky and see in the coming six games with the Beaneaters a fine chance to get a tighter grasp on the top rung of the American League ladder.

The fact of the matter is that Manager Johnson is afraid his charges are too chesty and at the practice session yesterday morning before starting for the exhibition game with the Midshipmen at Annapolis, he warned them all not to take too much for granted, calling attention to the fact that the Red Sox were anyhing but a set-up and that there must be no letdown.

Johnson plans to shoot his best pitchers at the Sox. Tomorrow he

GALLANT KNIGHT, NED O SENT TO FAIRMOUNT DERBY

Western Race Attracts Many

Longus and Sydney Also Expected to Race Saturday.

Gallant Fox, Bradley Pair, Crack Brigade Headed for East.

LOUISVILLE, May 19 (A.P.).—Gallant Fox, winner of the 1930 Kentucky Derby, was shipped to New York today, eliminating any chance that he will compete in the Fairmount Derby next Saturday, but Gallant Knight and Ned O, second and third in the Kentucky Derby, were sent to Collinsville in preparation for honors in the Fairmount Derby.

Longus and Sydney also were sent to Collinsville and are expected to start in the Fairmount Derby. Dark Entry, also an expected starter in the Fairmount Derby, was slightly hurt Saturday by another racer during workouts and it is understood can not start.

Crack Brigade and Gone Away were shipped East today and E. R. Bradley's two Derby colts, Breezing Thru and Buckeye Poet, got away Sunday for the East. All the Kentucky Derby starters were said to be in good shape except Uncle Luther, which was slightly lame, and Kilkerry, which is expected to be out of competition for some time. The Three D's colt was reported to have torn a ligament several days before the race and it is likely he will be sent to the Waggoner Farm near Arlington, Tex., to be turned out to recover.

Sande's Mount Second At Belmont.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Earl Sande, who rode Gallant Fox to victory in the Kentucky Derby Saturday, was back at work at Belmont Park today. Mounted on P. S. Randolph's Gay Pal, he booted the 2-year-old home second in the 4½ furlong opening race run over a sloppy track, similar to the going at Churchill Downs Saturday.

STOCK PRICES DROP FROM 3 TO 5 POINTS

Utility, Steel and Chemical Shares Bear Brunt of Liquidation.

CREDIT RATES DECLINE

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—The monotony of last week's narrow price fluctuations was broken on the stock market today by a definite decline that carried leading shares down 3 to 5 points. There was nothing to suggest, however, that the move was not under the direction and sponsorship of the professionals who had become tired of trying to put the list up and so bent their efforts toward putting it down.

The market was again very dull until early afternoon when the downward trend of the earlier hours was accelerated. Sales in the final 50 minutes aggregated 819,930 shares, or more than the total for Saturday's two-hour session, and the day's total was swelled to 2,413,930.

Bull pools, discouraged with holding stocks in the face of the public's apparent distaste for the present market, let their favorites go. The statement of Secretary of Commerce Lamont that normal business activity should return in about three months was received without a flurry. And prices sagged steadily during the early hours. The decline uncovered substantial stop loss orders and encouraged short selling, with the result that closing prices were generally the lowest.

U. S. Steel Drops 4¾ Points.

Utility, steel and chemical shares bore the brunt of the liquidation. United States Steel closed 4¾ lower at 168½, where it had lost most of the recovery from the year's low, touched week before last. Vanadium yielded 4 points. Consolidated Gas, American & Foreign Power, Electric Power & Light, Columbia Gas, Pacific Lighting and Public Service of New Jersey declined about 3, while losses of 5 to 8 points appeared in Eastman Kodak, Coca Cola, American Tobacco B, Auburn Auto, Foster Wheeler, Houston Oil, Worthington Pump and A. M. Byers. J. I. Case tumbled 15. American Can, General Electric, International Harvester and Johns-Manville lost 3 to 4, while Allied Chemical slumped 9¾ and Columbian Carbon 9¼.

Baking company shares enjoyed a brief interval of popularity during the forenoon, but operations in this group were soon abandoned. Rails were virtually neglected, although St. Louis Southwestern, a strong feature last week, was pushed down 6 points.

The day's credit developments were favorable. A reduction of one-eighth of 1 per cent in 30 to 90 day bankers bills was about in line with expectations, while the cut in the Reichsbank's rediscount rate had also been anticipated. The Bank of Italy fell into step with the general move toward world-wide easiness in money, and brought its rate down a peg. Call and time money here were steady and dull.

Wheat Prices Decline.

Wheat prices dropped 1¾ cents on the weakness of foreign markets and reports that exporters were being undersold by the Canadian pool. Corn sagged five-eighths to a full cent. Cotton closed lower on liquidation promoted by a more favorable weather forecast after the heavy rains of the week-end. Sugar finished steady, but slightly lower, and coffee was barely steady.

Domestic copper buying, which assumed record-breaking proportions in the first half of the month, was quiet. The other metal markets were likewise dull.

The foreign exchanges eased, with Italian lira and French francs sagging. Sterling was steady.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 19 (A.P.).—Wheat suffered a material setback in price today, largely owing to assertions that Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Nebraska crops showed big improvement. A leading private crop expert came out with a forecast that the State named would produce 10,000,000 bushels more wheat this season than has been indicated by the official May returns. The United States wheat visible supply today showed 4,064,000 bushels falling off, but the decrease was less than was generally expected.

Closing quotations on wheat weak at virtually the day's bottom levels, 1⅝ to 2¼ cents a bushel under Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅝ to 1½ cents down, oats ½ to 1⅜ cents off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

Special attention was given by wheat traders to a comprehensive report from a Chicago crop expert asserting that 1930 wheat yields from Nebraska to Texas inclusive would aggregate 265,000,000 bushels, compared with the latest Washington figures 255,000,000 bushels. In addition to this forecast, the market here was influenced by lower Liverpool quotations than were looked for, and by renewed slackness of export business. Besides, talk was current that the Canadian growers' pool was offering wheat abroad at well below other exporters, and that offerings from Argentina had again broadened out.

There were only brief transient rallies in wheat. The principal temporary upturn was based on reports of Hessian fly damage in eastern Nebraska, where many of the best fields were said to have been destroyed, and numerous other fields infested. However, general wet weather did much to minimize the market effect of the reports. A decrease of the amount of wheat on passage, too, lost a good deal of bullish significance because of the fact that an increase was shown in the total destined for Great Britain.

Corn and oats prices eased down with wheat, notwithstanding that corn belt weather conditions were unfavorable for field work.

Provisions, although dull, were steadied by upturns in the value of hogs.

CENTRAL MEETS WESTERN IN SERIES GAME TODAY

Both Coaches Undecided On Hurlers

Cooke, Cooke May Be Coach Rauber's Battery Choice.

Thompson or Buscher Likely Selection of Moore.

IT may be "Cooke and Cooke" as the battery for Central High School's Baseball Team which faces Western today in the sixth game of the interhigh series when the umpire announces the starting batteries.

Although undecided about his starting pitcher last night, Coach "Ty" Rauber stated that Dick Cooke would be behind the bat for his first championship game with Central today, with the likelihood that his brother Jack would be on the mound. The Cooke brothers, sons of Representative Edmund F. Cooke, of New York, were quite the thing as a battery for their school in their home State, and are hoping to maintain their reputation in local scholastic circles.

Payne's Loss Gives Moore Problem.

If Cooke pitches, two newcomers may be seen hurling them plateward today, as Coach Moore, of Western, intends to send either Jimmy Thompson, of basketball fame, or Everett Buscher to the firing line. Floundering in his search for a pitcher since Bill Payne was forced from the team, Moore has found none able to withstand the heavy artillery of the 1930 teams. Buscher has seen service in several outside games, while Thompson, in practice, looks not at all bad.

In an attempt to keep the score of the opposing nine to less than twenty, several changes have been made in the line-ups.

Deveau at First For Central.

Don Deveau, former second baseman, will go to first for Central, while Frank Cumberland, regular second sacker, and Humphrey Miller, shortstop, will exchange places. Capt. George Brandt will be the only infielder to hold down his old post, being stationed at third.

Western's only change will be to send Ted Pimper, outfielder, to catch in place of Yowell, who has been the backstop of the first two games.

Western Receives Philly Challenge

A challenge to meet it on the basket ball floor next year, either here or in Philadelphia, has been received by the Western High School Basket Ball Team from the Philadelphia Central High, one of the crack scholastic fives in the Quaker City.

Philadelphia Central, always represented by a strong five, was the team to eliminate Western from the Penn series last February. Such a good showing did the Westerners make, however, that it drew the commendation of the Philly five.

C. U. Freshmen Beat Tech High Nine, 7-1

Tech High's baseball team bowed to the Catholic University Freshmen Nine for the second time this season yesterday, when it dropped a 7-1 decision at the Brookland Stadium.

Held to three hits, Tech was never dangerous yesterday until the seventh inning when it filled the bases with one out and failed to score. None of the three men to get on base, however, did so through the medium of a hit.

Motorboat Regatta In Basin Saturday

With the Tidal Basin scheduled to be the scene of motorboat races for the first time this Saturday, an afternoon of thrills is anticipated by the Inboard and Outboard Motorboat Regatta Association which is sponsoring a regatta on that day. Although racing has always been prohibited in the basin, the association has gained special permission to use the site on Saturday when eight races will be held starting at 1:30 o'clock.

First and second place winners in each event will receive handsome trophies. These prizes are now on display at the A. Kahn Co., 935 F street. Boats have already been entered from Baltimore, Norfolk and Richmond, in addition to the array of local craft. The first three races will be classes B, C and D of the outboard race, with the remaining five the free-for-all outboard race, the inboard motorboat race, the family runabout race, the free-for-all family runabout inboard and outboard, and a race for canoes, powered with outboard motors. All races except the last which will be one and one-half miles will have a five-mile course.

D. C. Playground Games Attracting Large Entry

Addition of Junior Division and Compilation of Records Boost to Meets; Three Preliminary Events Carded This Week.

FOR seventeen years the Municipal Playground Department has conducted field and track meets for the elementary schools, and, despite the fact that in recent years the establishment of junior high schools has reduced the personnel of the grade schools, the number of boys participating in the meets has not diminished.

A study of the plan of organization followed by Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, supervisor of playgrounds, and her corps of assistants reveals how the high pitch of enthusiasm has been maintained, and in many instances increased yearly.

Plaza Cinder Path Boost To Game.

One of the first moves made to assist the dwindling elementary school forces in maintaining interest in the track games was to build the Plaza playground track, where all youngsters of the city are welcomed and aided in their training by experienced coaches.

Then Mrs. Rhodes decided to form two branches of the annual games, junior and senior. Until 1928 the boys competed for but one title, the senior, but in that year the boys vieing for honors in the 85 and 100 pounds classes were given distinct championships and trophies separate from the seniors, those in the 115-pound and unlimited classes.

This encouraged the schools having only six grades to send teams to the meets, as in the majority of cases schools of this size do not have boys large enough to enter the senior events.

Last year a 70-pound class was added for the juniors, and the wisdom of this move was shown in the general clamoring of the small-size boys to enter in the new division. In 1929 the largest number of boys in the history of the game represented the elementary schools.

Compilation of Records Adds To Interest.

One other important step in the development of the grade-school track meets taken in recent years was the compiling of records of past performances. This had not been considered important until a few years ago, and it required considerable delving in playground and newspaper files to complete, but the effort was rewarded by a great increase in the interest.

For the last week the various sections of the city have been represented on the Plaza Track in the annual meets, and Mrs. Rhodes reports that there are more entries this year than last and that two additional schools have entered teams.

Next Saturday the finals will be held on the Plaza Track, and all boys who were first, second and third in the division meets in any event will be eligible to compete in the city games. A record-breaking crowd is expected.

Tomorrow the Bloomingdale division meet will be held, on Tuesday the youngsters from the Georgetown section will vie for honors, and on Wednesday the Plaza division will close the divisional games. All of these divisional meets start at 3:30 o'clock.

MEL SHOREY IN TIE FOR SECOND

D.C. Pro and G. Spencer Trail C. Spencer in M. A. Pro Golf.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 19.—The Spencer family dominated the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association 36-hole medal tournament today at the Maryland Country Club. Cliff Spencer, who is the assistant professional at the Maryland Club, won the competition with an aggregate score of 141 strokes, while his brother, Glenn Spencer, the professional at the Maryland Club, tied with Mel Shorey, of East Potomac Park, Washington, for the runner-up honor. The last two had scores of 144 for the double round.

A sensational 30-foot putt at the thirty-sixth hole enabled Cliff Spencer to post a 69, one under par. The youngster had only two 5s in his afternoon round.

Thorne Shoots 69 in Second Round.

A. B. Thorne, of Woodmont, Washington, also had a 69 for the second eighteen holes. Had it not been for a badly played iron shot in the homestretch, he would have been two under par. He picked up, however, during the first round.

After shooting a 74 in the morning, Charley Betschelor, of Rodgers Forge, shot a 71 in the afternoon, to clinch fourth place honors, with a total score of 145 strokes.

The scores:

Cliff Spencer, Maryland Country Club, 72—69—141; Mel Shorey, East Potomac Park, 73—71—144; Glenn Spencer, Maryland Country Club, 72—72—144; Charley Betschelor, Rodgers Forge, 74—71—145; Carroll MacMaster, Rolling Road G. C., 72—76—148.

Al Houghton, Harper Country Club, 76—74—150; Julius Platte, Forest Greens G. C., 76—75—151; Willie Schreiber, Catoctin C. C., 74—78—152; Warner Mather Wood Holme C. C., 78—76—154; J. M. Hunter, sr., Indian Springs G. C., 79—77—156.

Gene Larkin, Chevy Chase, G. C., 79—77—156; Al Tredor, Manor Golf Club, 79—78—157; A. D. Thorne, Woodmont G. C., picked up, 69; Al C. Taylor, Hagerstown, picked up, 74; Ralph Beach, Suburban Club, did not play in morning, 70. George Diffenbaugh, Indian Springs, picked up.

NATS IN VICTORY OVER MIDDIES, 4-2

station. He scored on Porter's single, and when Hodgkins followed suit, the embryonic admirals had visions of a winning rally. Moore uncorked another wild pitch at this stage and Gharrity chased the ball to the Nat dugout, recovering it in time to kill Porter when he tried to score all the way from second on it. Torgeson then ended the game by fanning.

JOHNSON TO USE HIS BEST PITCHERS

will use "Sad Sam" Jones and Adolph Liska, with Bob Burke and Irving Hadley due to get the call in the Thursday twin bill. On Saturday, he likely will come back with Lloyd Brown, who lost such a brilliantly pitched game to the Mackmen Sunday, while Fred Marberry is due to get the call Sunday.

With respect to the latter, Manager Johnson has about made up his mind that the big Texan is not sufficiently trained, and plenty of work, including foot-pounding around the park, has been ordered for Marberry for the next few days. It is believed that the routine prescribed for Fred will have him ready to go the route in fine fettle by the time the Sabbath rolls around.

In the preseason dope, Marberry was counted upon as a sure winner and the only reason the team has done the tricks it has with the big hurler not right is the unexpected hitting power which the Washington machine has suddenly developed.

The Nationals have been called out for a strenuous practice session this morning when the finishing touches will be added in preparation for the coming of the Red Sox. One of the faults which Manager Johnson hopes to correct is Second-baseman Buddy Byer's use of the wrong foot when pivoting on attempted double-plays. Except for this feature, Myer's work has been all that could be asked and it is believed that a little coaching and practice will correct this.

Pitcher Don Savidge, sent to the New Haven Club on option, failed to make the grade and is being returned to the Nationals. As Manager Johnson does not need the former Albright collegian here, he probably will be shunted to some league of lower classification than was the Eastern.

Women Tennis Stars Wear Longer Skirts

Auteuil, France, May 19 (A.P.).—A noticeable increase in the length of women's tennis-playing skirts, as compared with those of recent years proved the only surprise to the few thousand spectators gathered to watch the opening of the French championships at Auteuil today.

There was much comment on the fact that all the women players apparently have abandoned the knee-length skirts of the Suzanne Lenglen style in favor of a longer garment reaching two or three inches below the knee. The dictatorial edicts of dressmakers lengthening skirts for street wear have evidently been accepted also on the tennis courts.

Shamrock V Winner In 2d Test Race

Harwich, England, May 19 (A.P.).—Sir Thomas Lipton's America's Cup racer, Shamrock V, easily won her second race in the Harwich regatta today on a time allowance basis.

Pitted against larger craft, the Lipton yacht was beaten home by A. A. Paton's Lulworth, a scratch boat, by nearly two minutes, but as the Shamrock had a time allowance of eight minutes she won with plenty to spare. The Lulworth took second prize by 6 seconds from H. A. As the race was sailed in a hard breeze there was much more turning to windward. Observers of today's event agreed that the Shamrock showed she is not only a great light weather boat, but can more than hold her own with the best in fairly strong winds.

Catholic and Gallaudet Trackmen in Baltimore

Catholic and Gallaudet track teams will compete this afternoon in Baltimore in a meet with Johns Hopkins and Loyola. The same four teams clashed last year, with Hopkins piling up the largest point total. Catholic, with a stronger team this season, has high hopes of bringing back a victory. Gallaudet, although possessing one or two exceptional performers, does not figure to finish better than third.

Maryland Freshmen Beat Charlotte Hall

Coming from behind, University of Maryland Freshmen scored three runs in the eighth inning to squeeze out a 7-6 win over Charlotte Hall's baseball team yesterday at College Park. A double by Bowie scoring two enabled Maryland to tie the score at 6-all and an error gave the Old Line yearlings the winning tally. Until the eighth Maryland trailed the visitors who gained the lead in the first inning.

Mooney, G. U., Hurt; May Not Make Trip

Phil Mooney, slugging first baseman of Georgetown's baseball team, probably will be unable to accompany the Hoyas on their Northern trip, which starts Friday in a game with Providence College at Providence, R. I. Mooney suffered an extremely painful shoulder injury while sliding into the plate in Navy game last Saturday and has been advised to rest for three weeks. If he does this he will play no more for Georgetown, as th eHoya season comes to a close on May 31.

With Mooney on the sidelines, Johnny Bozek will move in from the outfield to the initial sack, and Bill Rapp, utility man, will take Bozek's outfield post. The first base assignment is nothing new to Bozek, as he was the regular Georgetown first baseman las tseason.

C. U. NETMEN PLAY A. U.

The only local college athletic contest scheduled today is the American-Catholic University tennis match to be played on the Congressional Country Club courts, starting at 3 o'clock. It is the final sports activity of the year for A. U. In an earlier match, Catholic won the decision, 6 to 2.

BOWIE, MT. RAINIER MEET.

Two old rivals will get together next Sunday when the Bowie and Mount Rainier Nines clash at Bowie, Md. The game is scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock.

Anacostia Eagles Assemble Stars for City League Play

ANOTHER strong championship contender appeared on the horizon of the District section of the Capital City League last night, when the Anacostia Eagles filed their player contracts and franchise fee, and Manager Francis Wahley declared his Congress Heights representatives ready to open hostilities next Sunday.

Wesley, Miles Sugrue, Chet Tolson, Lawrence Schreber, Walter Corbin, Alvin Davis, Francis Connick, Howell Brown, Paul Mudd and Sidney Boswell.

With the Anacostia Eagles in line, ten teams will play in the District unlimited group next Sunday. The Columbia Heights Business Men's Association Nine will meet the newcomer at Congress Heights. The Woodmen of the World, who were also idle last Sunday, will battle the Foxall A. C. Team on Foxall Field. G. U. ENTERS BUT 4 IN MEET

Chances of Good Showing in I. C. 4-A Games Slim.

GEORGETOWN, which annually cuts a big figure in intercollegiate track and field, will send otnly four athletes to the I. C. 4-A championship meet in Cambridge, Mass., on May 31, and, tinless this quartet far exceeds expectations, the Blue and Gray probably will finish lower in the final standing of the teams than it has in years.

Artie Briggs, Vic Burke, Jim Kelly and Leo Sexton, all sophomores with the exception of the last named, have been nominated by Coach John D. O'Reilly to represent the Hilltop institution in the classic track and field carnival, which attracts the strongest teams of the country.

Briggs will compete in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, Burke will step in the 220 and 440, Kelly will run in the 880 and mile, and Sexton is slated to work in the high jump and shot put.

Wildermuth Nursing Injury.

Other than these four, Coach O'Reilly hasn't any material of whom some pointing scoring could be expected. Not in several years has such a situation existed at the Hilltop.

Karl Wildermuth, who won the 100-yard dash championship in the meet at Philadelphia last year, is on the shelf with a strained leg tendon, and O'Reilly stated yesterday that there isn't the slightest possibility of the Lynbrook flash returning to the game this spring. As Wildermuth is due to graduate in June, this means that he has run his last race for Georgetown.

Georgetown finished ninth in the 1929 meet, scoring 10 3-8 points. In addition to winning the 100-yard dash, Wildermuth gained third place in the 220, while Sexton finished in a tie for fourth place in the high jump, and Dave Adelman placed fourth in the shot put.

Chestertown Annexes Meet as Records Fall

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., May 19.—Three existing scholastic records were broken in the sixteenth Kent County interscholastic track and field meet held here on the Washington College Athletic Field. A. Hodgson, of Chestertown High School, shattered the 100-yard dash high mark which has stood for several years by hanging up a record time of 10 2-5 seconds. The previous record was held by R. F. Edmonston, of Rock Hall High School, registered in 1924. Chestertown's 1-mile relay team also hung up a new mark of 3 minutes 52 1-5 seconds. The previous record of 3 minutes 59 seconds was held by the same school since 1928. Chestertown Elementary School also lowered the mark for the running catch relay, chalking a mark of 1 minute 21 seconds, as against the previous of 1 minute 29 seconds.

The mark for the 60-yard dash was equaled in the 95-pound class when R. Hopkins, of Still Pond Elementary School, registered a mark of 7 2-5 seconds.

With 24 schools entered under direction of the Playground Athletic League of Maryland, Chestertown High ran away with the meet, scoring a total of 153 points during the day. Chestertown also led the elementary schools with 55 points. The leading scoring teams follow: Chestertown High, 153; Galena High, 99; Rock Hall High, 79; Millington High, 60; Chestertown Elementary, 55; Rock Hall Elementary, 13; Farlee Elementary, 10; Flat Land Elementary, 10; Kennedyville Elementary, 10; Massey Elementary, 9; Still Pond Elementary, 4; Sassafras Elementary, 6; Janvir Elementary, 3; Lynch Elementary, 3; Worton, 2; Betterton Elementary, 1.

Old Line Teams Feature Week's College Program

Diamonders Meet Navy at Annapolis Wed. and Lacrossers Tackle Johns Hopkins at Baltimore Sat.; G. U. Nine on Trip.

MARYLAND'S baseball game with Navy at Annapolis tomorrow and a lacrosse game with Johns Hopkins at Baltimore on Saturday are the high spots on this week's local college sports program.

The Old Line diamond team has high hopes of hanging one on the Tars' collective chin, and is likely to succeed if it gets good pitching. Navy failed to show much power with the bat against Georgetown last Saturday, although it defeated the Hilltop. Then, too, the Annapolis Nine does not possess the all-around baseball players as does Maryland.

The lacrosse game presents a different picture in the Old Liners' minds, for Hopkins is conceded to be as strong as the home outfit even by College Park adherents. Any doubt as to Hopkins' strength was dissipated last Saturday when the Blue Jay twelve stopped the crack St. John's Team, 3-2.

Old Liners Respect Hopkins.

Maryland observers came back from that game with plenty of respect for Hopkins, gaining that feeling by the ability of the Baltimoreans to make the best of their scoring opportunities. St. John's had the ball in Hopkins' territory the most of the game, but when the Blue Jays gained possession they made their shots count.

If Maryland defeats Hopkins it will go into the game with Navy's twelve on May 31 with a fine chance of climbing into a three-cornered tie with Hopkins and St. John's for the lacrosse championship. St. John's defeated Maryland for the Old Line's only loss this season. Navy hasn't been defeated but if beaten by Maryland will not rate the consideration of the other three teams because it hasn't played a representative schedule this spring.

Much interest also centers on the baseball games Georgetown will play in the North. The Hilltop Nine, after getting a lot of bad baseball out of its system in the Navy contest last Saturday, is expected to return to form against Providence and Holy Cross which will be met on Friday and Saturday, respectively, in Providence, R. I. and Worcester, Mass.

Holy Cross Rated Near Top In East.

Both Providence and Holy Cross occupy lofty positions in the Eastern collegiate baseball world. "The Cross" probably is the best in the East.

These games will be the first two of a total of eight to be played by the Hoyas in winding up their campaign. Next week Coach Smith's men will face Boston College, Harvard, Army, Yale and New York University, all on foreign fields.

Catholic University will conclude its diamond season this week on the road, playing Delaware on Thursday at Newark, Del., St. John's on Friday at Brooklyn, and Seton Hall on Saturday at South Orange, N. J.

CONVERTIBLES DROP AS BOND SALES SAG

Standard Issues Follow Irregular Course in Lifeless Session.

LOANS BEING FLOATED

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—In a lifeless session standard issues in the listed bond market followed a zig-zag course today while the most active convertibles gave ground readily. Turnover continued in small volume.

United States Governments showed increased activity, but were slightly depressed.

Further indications of the worldwide easing of credit came in the discount rate reductions by the Central Banks of Italy and Germany, the former to 5½, and the latter to 4½ per cent. The move was ascribed here to a desire to facilitate the flotation of the $300,000,000 German annuity issue on which further word is expected after the meeting of international bankers in London Tuesday.

Call and time money rates held at their low level, but bankers acceptances were cut ⅛ on 30 to 90 day maturities.

Traders gave most of their attention to convertible and stock purchase issues, except to make accumulations in a selective list of investment bonds. American Telephone 4½s, Atchison 4½s, and Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron 6s yielded from one to nearly two points.

Most of the changes in the investment group were confined to small fractions. Railroad bonds made the best showing among domestic issues. The heaviest demand in the foreign group was for Japanese governments, and in common with the rest were irregular. South American and European governments were quiet.

The market started the week with considerable competition from new issues and the prospect of extensive loans later. New financing planned includes the $30,000,000 6 per cent debenture issue by the Goodrich Rubber Co. and an $18,000,000 issue of 5 or 4½ per cent debentures by the Brooklyn Union Gas Co.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—Victor Guinsburg, president of the E. I. B. Kleinert Rubber Co. of New York, today announced the company had purchased the Masonia Rubber Works of Hamburg, Germany, one of the largest European manufacturing plants for fine sponge rubber. The Kleinert Co. has a plant in Paris.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. plans to spend $1,200,000 in double tracking and other improvements on the Wheeling division.

The board of directors of the New York Rubber Exchange today disapproved the petition of members to close the exchange on Saturdays throughout the summer months of June, July and August.

Arrangements have been completed by Otis & Co. and John Nickerson & Co. for making a private offering of common stock of the United States Playing Card Co. The stock was acquired by the bankers from a corporation which received it incidental to a merger with the Russel Playing Card Co. last fall.

The petition being circulated among members of the New York Stock Exchange seeking a double holiday through closing of the exchange on May 31 as well as May 30 now has 806 signers.

Directors of the Wabash Railroad Co. were reelected at the annual meeting of stockholders today.

Imports of raw silk constituted the largest single commodity in money value imported into the United States in 1929 says the National Raw Silk Exchange. Raw silk imports for the year totaled $427,126,000, representing close to 10 per cent of the total commodity imports by the Nation.

The Great Lakes Steel Corporation, a unit of the National Steel Corporation, has installed four large cranes at its new mill at Detroit, one, a 200 Morgan ladle, is among the largest in the world.

Net earnings of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, Ltd., were $5,232,819.16 for 1929 compared with a net loss of $3,400,651.53 in 1928, Wallace R. Campbell, president, reported at the annual meeting of stockholders today. The increase in earnings, Mr. Campbell pointed out, resulted from the return to normal operations in 1929 after abnormal charges in the preceding year incident to the introduction of new model cars and trucks. The directors declared a regular cash dividend of $1.20 a share and an extra cash dividend of 30 cents a share on common stock, payable June 23, to holders of record June 2.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 19 (A.P.).—An early advance in cotton on reports of heavy rains and floods in parts of the Central and Western cotton belt States was followed today by a very rapid decline under liquidation prompted by a more favorable weather forecast and weakness in the stock market. July advanced to 16.49, later sold off to 16.20 and closed at 16.22, a decline of 18 points. New October after advancing to 15.25 declined to 14.78 and closed at 14.79, a loss of 21 points, while the general market closed barely steady at 18 to 31 points net lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 9 to 12 points on reports of heavy rainfall over Sunday which assumed torrential proportions in Arkansas and portions of the Central belt. There were complaints of floods and a necessity of extensive replanting; furthermore it was said that probably a week or ten days would be required before active field work could be resumed. The market responded rather reluctantly to the rain reports, however, and prices gradually sagged under quiet liquidation until the last hour when there was heavy general selling part of which was believed to represent the liquidation of recently accumulated long lines. Buyers appeared apathetic and some quarters believed that prevailing prices for the new crop positions were not attractive to new buyers, especially as the weather forecast was for more settled conditions in the West and Central belt. Weakness in the stock market also contributed to the day's developments. A decline in sterling had more or less influence. May closed at 16.10 or 12 points under July, while new October was 143 under July.

Certificated stocks at the designated delivery points, including Savannah, were reported at 515,763 bales, while May notices in all of the market so far were estimated at 4,428,700 bales. The Liverpool market was steadier and was said to have been influenced by continental buying and covering. Cloth and yarn sales were reported below production. Exports today, 8,258, making 6,409,121 so far this season. Port receipts, 13,149. U. S. port stocks, 1,687,578.

30 TRUE BILLS GIVEN BY FAIRFAX JURORS

Indictments Not Returned in Two Cases Involving Liquor Violations.

M'CARTHY TERM OPENS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Judge Walter McCarthy, who was recently appointed to the sixteenth Virginia judicial circuit to succeed Judge Howard W. Smith, who resigned to seek the Democratic nomination for Representative from this district to Congress, opened his first term of court yesterday at Fairfax.

The grand jury for the May term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court is composed of Robert R. Buckley, foreman, Roy Hollis Stockton Holbrook, C. C. Carr, B. H. Swartz, William M. Williams, J. G. Garrett, C. L. Fowler and Robert D. Graham. This grand jury returned 30 indictments, as true bils. Only two of the charges were returned not true bills. They were the charges against Irie Dove for driving while drunk and the one against Clarence C. Cockerille for the second offense of violating the State prohibition law.

The folowing indictments were returned yesterday: Joe Mills for the second offense against the prohibition law; Dorothy Jones for possession of liquor and destroying evidence; Robert A. Tull for driving while drunk; Robert Guthrie, driving while drunk; Lena Lesney possession of liquor; Carl Lesney, second offense possession of liquor; F. K. Ritenour, driving while drunk; George Neitze, criminal assault; J. M. McGhee transportation and possession of liquor; destroying evidence and obstructing an officer; Joseph Ferguson, colored, murder of his brother, Robert Ferguson; Will Beavers, driving while drunk.

William H. Hardtbower, possession of a still; W. B. Rodgers, driving while drunk; Leon Jackson and Gregg Taylor, housebreaking; James Hall, transportation and possession of liquor and destroying evidence; James Bryant, driving while drunk; Baker Wooden, second offense against prohibition law; D. M. Simerly, driving while drunk; Ottis Schaeffer, driving while drunk; William Sprouse, possession of still; Stanley Ayres, John Tyler and William Paragon, highway robbery; Horace Dye, driving while drunk; A. A. Hoof, driving while drunk; H. L. Threadcraft, driving while drunk; William Sample, sale and possession of liquor.

Three indictments were returned against Taylor Scott Edwards, one for assault with intent to kill, using a knife on his brother, another for using a shotgun, and a third for using a knife on his nephew, Ralph Edwards.

The following presentments were made to the court by Commonwealth Attorney Wilson M. Farr: Edward Martin, possession of liquor; Jessie Parker, sale and possession of liquor; Norman Simms, transportation and possession of liquor; T. P. Johnson, driving while drunk and possession of intoxicating liquor; Ralph Mills, sale and possession of intoxicating liquor; David Taylor, possession of a still; Lewis Suffles, transportation, possession and sale of intoxicating liquor; George Lyles, possession of intoxicating liquor and a still, and Guy Staats, possession of intoxicating liquor.

The following persons entered a plea of guilty on the indictments and received sentence: Lena Lesney, possession of intoxicating liquor, was fined $50 and costs and one month in jail suspended. She was also required to give a $1,000 bond not to violate the State prohibition law for one year. Carl Lesney, second offense of possession of intoxicating liquor, was fined $25 and costs, given six months in jail and required to give bond of $1000 not to violate the State prohibition law for one year. Will Beavers, for driving while drunk was fined $100 and costs and given 30 days in jail, William H. Hardbower was fined $25 and costs and given six months in jail for possession of a still. William B. Rodgers was fined $100 and costs and given one month in jail for driving while drunk. He is to be discharged when he has completed the jail sentence, without payment of the fine.

James Hall was fined $50 and costs and given one month in jail for transportation and possession of intoxicating liquor and destroying evidence. James Bryant, fined $100 and costs and given 30 days in jail for driving while drunk. Baker Wooden was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail for the second offense of violating the State prohibition law. William Sprouce was fined $5 and costs and given six months in jail for possession of a still. Lewis Suffles was fined $50 and given two months in jail for transportation, possession and sale of intoxicating liquor. The jail sentence was suspended during good behavior.

The court appointed Charles Pickett to defend Joseph Ferguson, who was indicted for murder, and H. F. Haines to defend Leon Jackson for housebreaking. Gregg Taylor, who was indicted with Jackson, entered a plea of guilty and a severance was granted and the court deferred sentence until after Jackson's trial. In the case of Stanley Ayres, John Tyler and William Paragon indicted for the robbery of Robert Smith, a capias was issued by the court for their arrest.

At a meeting of the Fairfax County Teachers Association, Miss Dorothy Otley, principal of the Clifton High School, was reelected president. Miss Mary Barksdale, of Falls Church, was elected vice president and Miss Agnes Donaldson, principal of the Lee-Jackson High School, was elected secretary-treasurer. The nominating committee consisted of Miss Mary Ambler, Miss Donaldson and W. R. Crabill.

An amendment to the constitution which was recommended by the executive committee was adopted, which changed the date of the annual election of officers from the fall term to the spring term. This will give the officers a chance to plan their program for the year before the opening of school in September. Four new standing committees were added. They include program, education, personnel and research. Miss Otley will make her appointment of committees as soon as the school board makes its teachers' appointments for next year.

The report of the chairman of the preventorium committee, Miss Lulu Ferguson, of Virginia, showed that only 21 of the 139 teachers in the county have contributed to this cause. Miss Ferguson urged that more of the teachers join in supporting the teachers preventorium as the preventerium is maintained for their benefit.

W. T. Lowe, of Charlottesville, Va. was arrested by Capt. Haywood Durrer, of the county traffic police, on a drunk and disorderly charge near Accotink. Justice of the Peace Harry Snephard, at Accotink, fined him $40 and costs.

Frank Gorham, of Fairfax, was also arrested by Capt. Durrer for being drunk near Falls Church. A fine of $10 and costs was imposed on him by Justice of the Peace J. T. Moling at Falls Church.

The Clifton Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will hold its May meeting this evening in the Masonic Hall at Clifton. Reports of the delegates attending the State chapter conference in Richmond will be heard.

The third quarterly conference of the Fairfax circuit, Southern Methodist Churches, will be held today in the parsonage at Fairfax. A full attendance of the official board of the four churches is requested.

The work of remodeling the former hall of the M E Church South at Annandale for the new headquarters of the Boy Scout Troop is near completion. The building has a large hall which has been changed to meet the uses of the troop as a meeting room. The stage has been narrowed and dressing rooms built on either side. A room has been fitted up as a library and bookcases installed. The work of remodeling has been under the direction of H. M. Gasson, of Annandale.

A meeting of the special committee appointed at the joint conference of the county board of supervisors and the county school board to make a study of the school situation in Mount Vernon District will be held tonight at the home of E. C. Gibbs, of Mount Vernon, who is chairman of the committee appointed. This committee was to make recommendations to the school board as to what would be the best plan to raise funds for the erection of the most needed school buildings in that section and to select the best locations for the consolidations for a number of the present schools.

The other members of this committee are Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, and Mrs. Harvey S. Clapp, of Woodlawn. The members of a committee that was appointed to make a survey of the same situation in Lee District have also been invited to attend the meeting tonight, as it is believed that one of the present schools in Mount Vernon District and a school in Lee District will be consolidated, probably with a new building at Franconia.

John Haislip, school trustee from Mount Vernon District, will be present and outline the plans of the school board for the improvement of the present school conditions. W. F. P. Reid, chairman of the county board of supervisors, is scheduled to make an address on school questions. Other members of the school board and supervisors have also been invited to attend.

SCHOOLS DECREASE UNDERWEIGHT RATIO

Red Cross Nutritionist Files Report of Prince Georges County Campaign.

ROADS TO BE IMPROVED

Reduction of 22 per cent in the underweight rate among pupils of Prince Georges County's schools is shown in the quarterly report of Miss Frances MacKinnon, American Red Cross nutritionist. The campaign is believed to have been a success, judging from the results obtained, and it is quite probable that the experiment will be continued next year.

Fifty-six per cent of the pupils in the fourteen schools selected for this season's work were under weight at the beginning of the project. This percentage has been decreased to 34 per cent.

The percentage of decrease in underweights by schools is as follows: Berwyn, 9 per cent; Bowie, 6 per cent; Brandywine, 14 per cent; Brentwood, 13 per cent; Capitol Heights, 12 per cent; Cheltenham, 10 per cent; College PaPrk, 10 per cent; Hyattsville, 16 per cent; Marlboro, 23 per cent; Mullikin, 14 per cent; Patuxent, 5 per cent; Seat Pleasant, 20 per cent, and Forestville and Oxon Hill, both 27 per cent.

The nutritionist lectured to mothers and encouraged the drinking of milk or a warm drink at the noon lunch and also explained food values.

The Maryland State Roads Commission is making a study of dangerous conditions existing at the entrance to the overhead bridge Hyattsville and the intersection of Rhode Island avenue extension and the Baltimore boulevard at Franklin avenue. This information was conveyed in a letter from Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to the Prince Georges County Exchange Club.

The club wrote to the governor sometime ago advising him of these two dangerous places and asking him to have the condition remedied. Gov. Ritchie said that Chairman Uhl, of the roads commission, has reported that a study is being made to eliminate the dangers.

Mount Rainier now has a town ordinance regulating parking in the town. The ordinance adopted by the mayor and council provides that no auto can park within 25 feet of a stop, slow or caution sign, outside the building line or in prohibited areas posted with signs. Fines ranging from $1 to $25 are provided.

LABOR CONVENTION OPENS IN SALISBURY

Resolution Presented Asking Dissolution of District, Maryland Federation.

BATTLE ON DELEGATES

Special to The Washington Post.

Salisbury, Md., May 19.—More than a score of resolutions, one advocating dissolution of the federation, were introduced today at the initial sessions of the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor. Each was referred to committees to be later reported to the convention which does not adjourn finally until Wednesday night.

Three resolutions would put the labor federation on record on the prohibition issue, others advocate closing of barber shops in Washington on Sunday, a Government pardon for Thomas Mooney, and changes in the system of appointing county and city school boards.

A spirited verbal exchange between delegates from Baltimore and others from Washington followed a report of the credentials committee this afternoon which failed to seat representatives appointed from five Baltimore loca' unions.

Opposition to Delegates.

Secretary Frank J. Coleman, of Washington, stated in reply to a question of Henry Broening, president of the Baltimore federation, that "five or six Washington trades unions had protested the seating of the five contested delegates on the grounds they had been affiliated with the federation less than 30 days prior to the convention."

Coleman said he had appealed to President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, who ruled the delegates were not qualified to have a voice in the convention proceedings. After this ruling last week the Baltimore delegation canceled hotel reservations for the convention, but later reconsidered.

Broening, a former president of the State federation, retorted it had been the practice to admit all member organizations up until the convening of the annual session. He asked why the protests had not been submitted to the federation's executive council.

Tydings Action Urged.

President Irwin W. Cummings, of Cumberland, repeatedly called the delegates to order during the discussion. The convention took favorable action on a telegraphed request from Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, that the federation urge Senator Tydings, Maryland, to support Senator Glenn's amendment to the Couzens radio bill pending before the Senate, which provides for Government broadcasting frequencies for the Departments of Labor, Agriculture and Interior.

Greetings were exchanged with the Virginia federation meeting in Petersburg.

Culpeper Farmer Is Hunting Victim

Coroner Gives Verdict of Accidental Death; Son Discovers Body.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., May 19.—While squirrel hunting near his home shortly before noon today, Hugh M. Settle, 45 years old, was killed by the accidental discharge of his shot gun, according to the verdict rendered by the acting coroner, Dr. Otis Marshall.

Hern Settle, his 18-year-old son, told the coroner that he and his father were hunting in the woods some distance apart. He heard the report of one shot and shortly afterward called to his father to ask if he had killed a squirrel. Receiving no answer he became alarmed and went to where they had separated and there found his father dead, with his clothing burning where the powder had ignited. A close examination of the scene indicated that the elder Settle had evidently laid his gun down against a log and in picking it up discharged it so that the full load of shot took effect in his body.

Mr. Settle, who lived near Rixeyville, was well known in Culpeper County as a farmer and cattle dealer. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lucy Settle, and two children, Miss Virginia Settle and Hern.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA, a yardstick in her hand stood looking out the window.

"My," she exclaimed, "our wheat field is coming along in great shape!"

"What field——?"

"Our wheat field. Out front, where the lawn used to be——"

A gentle breeze swayed the unruly grasses, uncut this season.

"It is progressing," I mused.

"Just for the fun of it," said Luella, "I'll go out and measure the height——"

* * * * *

"The height of what?"

"The timothy and the hay——"

* * * * *

SUCH sarcasm!

She came in soon, announced a 24-inch growth of fodder grass.

"Why don't you call up some of the big hay, grain and feed men, and have them come over?" she asked, a twinkle in her eye.

"What for?"

"Well," she smiled, "if they purchase the crop, they might harvest it——"

"Aw, Luella, have a heart!"

"We own a lawn mower, don't we?" she asked.

Forsooth, we do; but the lawn mower isn't made that could weave its way through that mass of foliage.

"Those weeds——" I started to explain.

"Oh, they're weeds, are they?"

SOMETIMES I could wring her neck: "Certainly, they're weeds—what—do you think they are——?"

"Evergreens! They're so tall and bushy——"

Leafy is the word. Indeed, rare specimen of wild herbaceous plants infest our yard—front, back and sides.

"What I oughta do is consult experts of the Department of Agriculture. Some tricky shoots sprout out here."

"Are you cultivating 'em?" she asked.

"Don't have to cultivate 'em!"

* * * * *

SHE turned away: "Really," she sighed, "it's pathetic!"

"Yes," I hedged, "it is poetic——"

"Poetic?" she flashed.

"——when you think what nature does in the way of flowering."

Luella started a tattoo with the toe of her boot. "It's anything but poetic——"

"That's what you said, isn't it?"

"You heard me the first time," she flashed "Get a scythe and go to work on that scrub-land. Otherwise——"

"Otherwise, what?"

"Otherwise, I'll be wearing widow's weeds," she snapped, fire in her eyes. So I went out and gave the lawn a haircut.

Support of the Maryland Association Opposed to Blue Laws was pledged yesterday to C. B. Rosenberger, of Clarendon, Va., in a fight he is waging against blue laws in Virginia after his recent conviction in Arlington County on charges of violating an ancient law prohibiting the painting of a house on Sunday.

Girl, Wed While in Dying Condition, Will Recover

Marriage Ceremony, Suggested by Priest, With Nurses as Bridesmaids, Leads Buchanan Valley Bride Safely Past Crisis.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., May 19.—Miss Sara Kimple, pretty Buchanan Valley girl, will live.

After lingering at death's door for four days, her expected recovery is attributed to her marriage on what was feared was her deathbed last Friday night to her childhood sweetheart, Joseph Strasbaugh, by the Rev. Will Whalen, who performed the ceremony.

In a statement following the marriage, which marked the turning point in her condition, Father Whalen said: "The best way to cure a sick girl is to hand her a devoted husband. She will forthwith start to worry so much about his welfare that she will forget she has an ache herself. Mind transcends matter. A wedding ring has healed more female illnesses than all the many physicians that ever lived or ever will live. I have married ten women to every one I buried, and the last funeral I conducted was of a wife beyond three score and ten."

When the girl was taken desperately ill last week she was hurried to the Chambersburg, Pa., hospital. Her life was despaired of and young Strasbaugh was notified that his sweetheart was not expected to live.

He rushed frantically to his pastor, Father Whalen. A mass was at once offered for the recovery of the patient. But Father Whalen believes in joinfng the mundane and the spiritual. He induced the disconsolate suitor to invest in a marriage license and the couple were married at the hospital, with nurses acting as bridesmaids. Today she was declared by attending physicians to be on the road to recovery.

250 From Nearby States and Capital Attending Ballston Event.

PENSION FUND FAVORED

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With 250 delegates attending, the fifty-third annual convention of the Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia Christian Missionary Society opened last night at the Ballston Christian Church. Included are delegates from northern Virginia and southern Pennsylvania.

The convention opened with devotional services conducted by the Rev. W. H. Pinkerton, with the president, the Rev. Harvey Baker Smith, presiding. The address of welcome was delivered by the Rev. Ira P. Harbaugh, pastor of the local church.

At the meeting of the executive committee last night it was announced that there are now a total of 1,098 churches and organizations favoring the movement, of this number there are 912 churches. It is hoped, it was stated, to have atotal of 2,500 churches enrolled by the time of the national convention in October.
